

FRONT ELEVATION OF UTAH'S BUILDING AT THE PORTLAND FAIR.

The accompanying half-tone shows the front elevation of the Utah building at the Portland exposition, which has been accepted by the Utah commission, and for which the contract was approved at Thursday's meeting. The building will be, as already noted, of the southern Colonial style, obtaining largely in Virginia, though the commission has not been entirely agreed as to the ethical propriety of that style for a Utah building. The structure will be severely plain, with very little ornamentation, with broad veranda, 12 feet wide, extending across the front and both ends, and a low balcony railing surmounts the cornice.

The interior dimensions are 20x55 feet.

with a large light well, or sort of a patio in the center. The walls will be covered with tiled panels, the interior decorations will be neat, but inexpensive, and all the conveniences necessary are to be provided for. The concentrating plant will be located at the rear of the building, while the ore exhibit will be with the other exhibits, in the main structure. The total cost of the building will be under $10,000, and the contract calls for the completion of the structure by May 25. Director General Spencer Clawson leaves for Portland this evening for a hurried trip. While there he will talk matters over with the fair commissioners and attend to the transaction of such preliminary business as will be deemed necessary. His stay will be but short by the fact that he must return to Salt Lake to testify before the federal court on the 28th inst., in the Alcatraz paving company's case.

NEW DIRECTOR OF METROPOLITAN MUSEUM OF ART.

Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke, whose picture is herewith shown, is a distinguished Irish authority on matters pertaining to art who has been director of the Kensington Art museum in London for several years. Sir Caspar was born in Dublin in 1846 and became so famous in art criticism that he was knighted in 1902. He is reputed to be the most competent art connoisseur who has ever been connected with the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and the managers of that institution are jubilant over the fact that they have been able to persuade Sir Caspar to leave his London position and come to New York.

PECULIAR MANCHURIAN WEDDING

The picture illustrates a unique wedding custom in Manchuria. The bride and her attendants, all mounted on the main streets of the village to the domicile of the groom, and his friends are also on stilts. Social prominence is shown and conducted to the place where the ceremony is by richness of attire, but by the height of the stilts worn. The higher the rank of the wedded pair the latter is. It is sometimes happens, the contracting parties are of different effect is more than usually ludicrous.

Change in Control.

San Francisco, April 15.—The Chronicle says today:

After controlling the affairs of the United Railroads for three years, the New York banking house of Brown Brothers & Company is understood to have decided to relinquish the control and management of San Francisco's big street railway combination to Landenburg, Thalman & Company, one of the largest financial houses of New York, and their clients, experts, it is said, have been for some time past examining the properties and the settlement will be based upon their report of values. It has been officially admitted here that such a deal was in progress, but the officials of the company are preserving a stubborn secretiveness regarding its exact nature.

Trainmen employed on the Sacramento division of the Southern Pacific have sent a delegation to headquarters asking that Reno and Sparks be cut out as division points and the points be established at Oakland, Truckee and Hazen.

The fight between the Rio Grande and Short Line in the Ogden yards has taken on the form of a new campaign. The past a Short Line car has been ditched at a point where the Rio Grande wants to run a spur to the Simmons Hardware company's new warehouse. CHIDESTER'S CONDITION.

Wounded Deputy Sheriff Was in Bad Shape Yesterday Afternoon.

The condition of Deputy Sheriff Chidester, who was shot in the leg while attempting to quell a disturbance at Bingham three weeks ago, was such yesterday afternoon that his friends became somewhat apprehensive. Shortly after being shot Mr. Chidester was removed to the Keogh-Wright hospital in this city, where an incision was made for the purpose of draining the wound. Since then the gentleman has been doing well, but yesterday he suffered a hemorrhage and for a time his life was almost despaired of. However, he was given prompt medical attention and this morning his condition was very much improved, and hopes are now entertained for his complete recovery. The shooting occurred during a riot among a number of Austrians employed at the Highland Boy mine, and so serious was the outbreak that one of the foreigners was killed, while several others were badly wounded. The participants have been bound over to await the action of the district court.
