The Combination Cure for Cancer.

Has the endorsement of the highest medical authority in the world. It would seem strange indeed if persons afflicted with cancers and tumors, after knowing the facts, would resort to the dreaded knife and burning plasters, which have heretofore been attended with such fatal results. The fact that in the last six years over one hundred doctors have put themselves under this mild treatment shows their confidence in the new method of treating those horrible diseases. Persons afflicted will do well to send for free book giving particulars and price of Oil. Address: Dr. W. O. BYE, Drawer, 111, Kansas City, Mo.

CLUB CHAT.

The leading event in club circles next week will be that given under the auspices of the Ladies' Literary club on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. In the lectures to be given by Mr. Preston A. Perry, Mr. Perry is a notable personage in his field, and his lectures are said to be eminently valuable and interesting. On Thursday Mr. Perry will talk upon the subject of "Some Authors I am Known to," on Friday "Home and Haunts of Some American Authors" will be his theme, and on Saturday night he will speak upon "Books and Their Makers," illustrating his lecture with specimens of choice books gotten up in the most beautiful style and form of the book-makers art.

The series promises a treat to lovers of literature, and students of the subject in general, and will no doubt have a most generous patronage.

At the Ladies' Literary club yesterday afternoon Rev. Elmer Gochen gave an entertaining talk on Dante and the masterpiece of the great poet, and delightful music was furnished by Mrs. Alfred Peters and the Misses Isabel and Amy Robinson, Miss Jessie Kenyon being accompanist.

A new section has been added to the Ladies' Literary club under the name of Department of Home Decoration. Mrs. J. L. Frankyn has been chosen chairman, and will give the opening paper at the initial meeting next Monday morning, her talk to deal chiefly with the subject of "Properties and Functions of Decoration, and Misapplied Decoration." The work of the section will be watched with interest.

One of the cases of the Free Traveling library has been sent to Kimberley at the request of Miss Elizabeth Fitzgerald, one of the teachers there.

The Daughters of the Pioneers met this afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. Y. Dougal and listened to an entertaining program, including vocal music by Isabel M. Whitney Sears, hymn, "In Zion in Her Beauty Rise, by W. W. Phelps; (b) Zion's Camp, by Isabel M. Whitney Sears; hymn, "The Spirit of God Like a Fire Burned," by W. W. Phelps; (c) Brigham, the friend of the Prophet, by Maria Young Dougal; Notes from Private Journals Written During the Kirtland Period, by Elizabeth Wood Moyle; Reminiscences of Kirtland, by Pioneer Robert T. Burton.

At the meeting of the Woman's club next Tuesday, Mrs. George Gatten will give a review of Bellamy's "Looking Backward."

Miss Catherine Culmer gave an interesting paper on Thomas Hardy at a Cleofan this week, the club being entertained on Tuesday by Mrs. Susie R. Wells.

The Wasatch Literary circle met this week with Mrs. Oliver.

Inquiries have been made concerning the Chautauqua Woman's club. The club was organized in 1883 to accommodate club women visiting the Chautauqua assembly, and during its 15 years of existence has numbered some thousands of members. The president of the club is not elected, but is appointed by the board of directors. There have been only two presidents, Mrs. Emily Huntington Miller, dean of Northwestern university, and Mrs. B. O. Vincent of Colorado, who holds the office at present. Mrs. Vincent is a sister-in-law of Bishop John H. Venable. Three hundred women were enrolled this summer. They held one-hour meetings every week day for six weeks during the summer, one week being devoted to civics, another to the progress of women, and still another to matters of general reform.

Miss Jane Adams of Hull House made a novel suggestion to the members of the Federation of Clubs of the Second Congressional district of Illinois one day recently. She urged each club to establish a series of scholarships "that shall be as dignified as the University of Chicago scholarships, to enable as many children of the factories to attend school as the women of Chicago can afford to educate." It was a special plea for the children of widows that Miss Adams made, and she cited the example of Switzerland, where such scholarships were established and maintained by the government. In Chicago, she said, it was a work that must be left to the women's clubs.

The labor problem, Miss Adams said, was the problem of the age, and one which the women's clubs could not ignore, and only through the children of the present generation could they effect a change. It was the children who would control the situation 10 years from now, and by educating those children they might hope to see the dawn of a new era for the laboring classes of America. If every woman's club in Chicago would establish several scholarships—that is, pay the wages each week to the widowed mother that the child would earn in the factory, while the child attended public school—the educational problem among the very poor would soon be solved.

ing classes of America. If every woman's club in Chicago would establish several scholarships—that is, pay the wages each week to the widowed mother that the child would earn in the factory, while the child attended public school—the educational problem among the very poor would soon be solved.

This federation, which includes most of the clubs on the South Side of Chicago, is deeply interested in the child labor bill, and at the meeting referred to put forth several plans to raise funds for its support. The federation also advocates a school garden attached to each public school, made and kept by the pupils, so that they could not only watch flowers and vegetables grow, but could take home vegetables grown by themselves.
