 EDITORIAL NOTES.

By the amended statutes of Nebraska, which have just gone into effect, the legal weight for oats is now 32 pounds per bushel.

If such an accident as that at the Brooklyn Bridge had occurred on any railroad, the company would have to pay $500,000 damages. Will the bridge company be liable?

A new counterfeit gold coin has been made in appearance. It purports to be a coin of the United States struck at New Orleans in 1843. It is heavily plated, and forty-nine and one-half grains light.

The Northern Pacific railroad expects to begin the sale of through tickets by the 10th of July. The road will not be completed by that time, there being a gap of 130 miles unfinished, but this will be covered by stage.

The Bolton Post is disposed to criticize Georgia for shipping 3,500 carloads of water-melons North. It thinks the Southern Empire State might be in better business than the wholesale distribution of melons northward.

Several British war vessels have been ordered to reinforce her Majesty's squadron in Chinese waters. If the prospective conquest of Tonquin by the French is to be the signal for the dismemberment of the Eastern Empire, England is determined to be in at the division of the spoils.

A St. Louis Judge recently decided a case in which a school teacher was the defendant and the outraged parent of a bad boy the plaintiff, in an undisputed way. He remarked that he had observed that the boys on whom the rod had been spared who were the worst criminals. This teacher was upheld in the use of the rod, and the outraged sense of the indignant parent was unexpressed.

To show that the inmates of the now famous Tewksbury Alms House were not starved when alive, as well as skinned when dead, it is stated that the annual consumption of food amounted to 1.38 barrels of flour and 172 pounds of meat per head, while the statistics of the State Labor Bureau show that the average consumption by the workmen is less than a barrel of flour, and only 85 pounds of meat annually. But this merely shows how much food the State paid for, not how much the inmates actually received.

LOGAN TO THE RESCUE.

THE attempt to rob the Zuni Indians of land which they have occupied for over three hundred years, and the barrier to the stealing interference by the proclamation of President Arthur have been fully explained in this paper. It now appears that General Logan is determined that if possible the steal shall be consummated. He has written a letter to the Secretary of the Interior intimating that "Fisher, his son-in-law, and Captain Lawton—who are generally understood to be acting in Logan's interest—will maintain the right to their entries filed upon the Zuni land in Nutria valley under the desert land act.

The President's proclamation, it appears, does not settle the question. The filing of Logan's name does place between the line of President Hayes' proclamation which left the Pecos and Nutria Springs outside the Zuni reservation, and the proclamation of President Arthur which was designed to secure to the Zuni the right to the springs left out by mistake in the former document. It is further alleged that the two springs in question are not essential in any sense to the Zuni, have never been occupied permanently and do not water their valley. Now if this is found to be true, as alleged, and the Indians only occupied them sporadically, just as they might any other locality outside the limits of their reservation, and furthermore, if they have had enough in their own valley proper, it is argued that there is no reason why white settlers should be deprived of other lands in their vicinity simply because the Indians may have been in the habit of occupying them temporarily.

Thus it will be seen that the influence of Senator Logan is being brought to bear to set aside the decision of the President. Secretary Teller, who is supposed to find Logan connected with the affair, explains that, "An executive proclamation does not settle a matter beyond question. It may be changed the next day, and is simply good until modified or set aside by another." He intends to have the matter thoroughly investigated and intimates that there is no use giving the Zuni more than they need, and that any reason why these two springs should be included in the reservation if the water supply of the Zuni Valley does not depend upon them." And yet he acknowledges that while the Zuni have no treaty right to these lands, "they have occupied the valley for at least 300 years, and perhaps 1,000, and undoubtedly they should be regarded as having a title."

It remains to be seen whether the possessory rights of this peaceable tribe, who have acquired no treaty right to land, held by them for over three centuries, simply because they have never warred against the whites and no treaty was needed, shall weigh their full value against the commercial influences, exerted to legalize a land-grab and give title to a bold and barbed robbery.

A TALE OF THE IMAGINATION.

The Salt Lake papers tell of another case of shameless betrayal of a young woman lately married, whose husband has taken a second wife. She is overwhelmed with the disgrace and the misery of her situation. But a woman's broken heart counts for little against the "peculiar institution."

The foregoing paragraph is going the rounds. It is as reliable as most of such items. Salt Lake papers that tell such tales make them up for outside effect. With one breath they will complain of the strict secrecy of "Mormon" marriages, which makes it impossible to obtain evidence against polygamists, and with the next they will tell of imaginary marriages and broken hearts' accommodations, with all the assurance of knowledge strong enough to swear by. Chicago papers, which have copied the above item need not come to Utah to look for broken hearts nor woman's disgrace and misery. They can be found without stint in the city of the lake, where there is no need to resort to tales of the imagination to work up a sensational case. And we will assert without fear of successful contradiction that there is a hundredfold more legitimate polygamy in Chicago than plural marriages at Salt Lake City, and an immensely greater proportion of shameless betrayal, broken hearts and woman's misery.

NO MUSIC IN THEIRS.

THE Reformed Presbyterian Assembly has been worrying itself over the mountainous question, whether instrumental music shall be permitted in divine worship. Two days time was devoted to the discussion, and the mildest words used to describe the temper of the debate are, "heat and sharpness." The result was a resolution by a vote of 140 to 70 that an ordinance permitting the use of music should be submitted to all the churches for their approval, but that until so approved the sessions should abstain from the use of instrumental music.

This shuts even a reed organ out of all the churches of that sect until a decision is reached by a general vote. It is astonishing that sane people will quarrel over so small a matter and neglect things of everlasting moment. Although the Reformed Presbyterians profess to be guided by the Scriptures, they ignore such directions as "Praise Him with psaltery and harp;" "Praise Him on stringed instruments;" and similar texts; and at the same time perform ordinances, such as infant sprinkling and other human inventions, which are not only unauthorized in holy writ but are diametrically opposed to its teachings. Well might the Master say of such persons, "Ye strain at a gnat and swallow a camel."

Another Attachment.

NEW YORK, 7.—Another attachment was filed today in the Supreme Court against the property of John H. Haverly and H. McConnell. The attachment was made by Ex-Judge Dittmer in behalf of Sheridan Shook and James W. Collier. The amount of the claim against the defendants is $5,000. Chicago, 7.—The name mentioned in the dispatches this morning in connection with Haverly's financial troubles is New York, though I don't know why it should be, said Chas. H. McConnell this morning, "even if I were a partner of his, I don't see how I could be held responsible for his personal debts." "Has Haverly lost in mining speculations?" "To my own personal knowledge he has invested over $250,000 in Colorado mines. I think it is likely, though he thinks not. I suppose there is a great deal of expense involved in keeping the mines in operation." McConnell says Haverly has lost heavily on the board of trade, but that he is doing a profitable business in the stock market.

WASHINGTON, 7.—The capture of the noted Barker-Karpis gang at a farmhouse four miles south of Tripoli and 16 miles southeast of this place. During the day they had been occupying the place, the barn of a German farmer named August Tegmeyer, and about eight o'clock in the evening they went to the house and asked for some supper. Tegmeyer's son, who was alone, recognized them, and succeeded in conveying this fact to his father, who he instructed to give the alarm to a neighbor. Tegmeyer remained at home to assist his mother in preparing a meal for the desperadoes. Several men, all Germans, accompanied Tegmeyer to the house. They had no weapons, and save Tegmeyer, which is a child, was not loaded. The desperadoes went to the house and the boys came out to spring upon them and secure them before their suspicions could be aroused. This plan was baffled through the excitement of a man, who rushed into the house to secure the landlady, upon which the latter both drew revolvers and began firing promiscuously. Henry Tegmeyer sprang upon Bill Barker, knocked his hands away and caught him by the throat. The man then became general and Bill was seen on the floor, but Tegmeyer continued firing over his shoulder. The desperadoes then fled. Tegmeyer's son, who was wounded, and finally one named Henry Page, went outside the door and succeeded in pleading for the lives of the boys. Tegmeyer received a ball through his body and exclaimed "Boys, I'm going to die." He still continued to fight and the boys in the barn shot at him. Tegmeyer had gone to the barn and prepared. Fifteen shots were fired by the boys, the last striking Tegmeyer in the back, the bullet striking two wounds he had on his person. Of five desperadoes who were wounded, the injured being followed by Tegmeyer's son, who shot at the boys at 11 a. m.; John A. Kamling, shot in the left breast, hip, and arm; Henry Tegmeyer, shot in the neck; Henry Page, shot in the back; and a bullet striking a bone and coming out at the back. It is thought that all the wounded will recover. Word was sent to Weaver, who was soon in possession. Barker and his gang were taken to the Federal Prison at Leavenworth, Kan., and the captured men landed there in jail at 6 o'clock yesterday morning.
