

DEDICATION OF BUILDING SITE

Karl G. Maeser Memorial Hall to Be First Structure of B. Y. U. Proper.

ON TEMPLE HILL AT PROVO.

Work That Has Already Been Accomplished by the Enthusiastic Students Up to the Present Time.

The fact that the temples at Logan and Manti are built on elevations prominent enough to be seen from any point in each of the respective valleys in which they are located, and the commanding appearance of these white structures in consequence of such elevation, no doubt led the people of Provo instinctively to call the eminence northeast of their own city, Temple Hill.

The name, moreover, carries with it the suggestion that there, too, a sacred building would some day loom high against the brown background of the Wasatch mountains, and flash its pure white contour southward over the splendid cities of Utah valley.

In this wish they are not, as it now appears, to be disappointed; but instead of a temple dedicated to the education of those who have been on earth, it is to be a temple of learning, in other words, a temple dedicated to those who are yet to come; a temple for spirit immigrants, not a temple for spirit emigrants.

SITE FOR BUILDING.

It is here that the first administrative building of the Brigham Young University proper, is to be erected; and the work is to be finished in time for the opening of school next fall. It is to be named the Karl G. Maeser Memorial hall. The plans for this fine building and also the problem of raising the $50,000 necessary for its completion, are in the hands of the Alumni association; and the committee in charge gives assurances that the funds will be on hand as needed, and that the building will be completed on time.

It promises to be a magnificent structure, and a more beautiful site for it could hardly be chosen in the entire state. Temple Hill is the culminating point of the Provo valley, and is situated on a bluff of the Wasatch mountains. It was once the pebbly shore of Lake Bonneville, at the time it receded to its second level. Provo river, rising later as a wide, shallow, and level valley on its west flank, and sloping gently toward the south, and then toward the south and west, lies Provo. The site is almost an ideal one for a city of students.

SURROUNDING LANDSCAPE.

Nor could anything be more charming than the landscape surrounding the prominent hill. On the east and north the Wasatch rises with a ruggedness unrivaled even by the Alps. On the west, the wide canyon of Provo river, fringed with field, meadow, orchard, and farmhouse, gives delight to the eye in a long stretch of scenery from the mountains to the lake. The city, with its long lines of trees intersecting the hundreds of squares, which are carpeted with lawns and gardens surrounding neat brick homes, is a never-ending point of interest to the visitor. Utah lake, farther west, and the group of towns in the south end of the valley, give still greater variety and picturesque quality to the scene.

LOCAL HISTORY.

Temple Hill has also a local history that is not uninteresting. On the extreme southwestern point are to be seen half a dozen small mounds, the graves of pioneers. Why the site was abandoned as a cemetery, does not immediately appear, unless the fact that the soil is a bed of gravel, be the explanation.

LOCAL HISTORY.

For 25 years after Provo was first settled, this elevation, together with the rolling hills beyond it, was an unbroken, sagebrush-covered common, along those dusty trails the small boy drove his cows to and from the mountain ranches. Then came a time when the hills were taken up and farmed as orchards. Today it is watered by two important canals and forms part of the finest belt in the valley.

LOCAL HISTORY.

The city having acquired ownership of Temple Hill proper, a tract of about 60 acres, let it be still two decades ago, when it was the site of a small building in all its virgin isolation. Then came the thought of what a magnificent public park it would make; accordingly, a double row of trees was planted in a line across the hill, skirting the brow of the hill on the west and south, and touching the neighboring fields and orchards on the east and north.

LOCAL HISTORY.

But the movement was evidently premature. To put the ground in readiness for a park, would have required the outlay of several thousand dollars. Public sentiment did not support the movement. For several years the appropriation served barely to keep the trees alive.

STUDENTS TAKE ACTION.

Next came a movement, started by the student body, for a university campus. Committees were appointed to solicit the necessary funds with which to purchase the site. Public spirit in Provo favored the sale of the land to the students at a nominal figure; part of the agreement being, that some time in the future university buildings should be erected there.

tunitv to buy it at $1,000, and closed the bargain.

STUDENTS SUBSCRIBE.

No doubt the school might have come into possession of the land by waiting, such is the well-known generosity of this good people of the school. But President Brimhall, seeing an excellent opportunity of inculcating a lesson in altruism and public spiritedness proceeded to lay the situation before the faculty and student body. The result was an enthusiastic dollar-contribution

HOW COULD HE ABUSE MRS. SINNET

Fair Applicant for Divorce Said Husband Threatened to Kill Her.

FRONT OF CURTAIN INCIDENT.

Proceedings at Weekly Divorce Matinee Unusually Interesting—Man Who Wouldn't Settle.

Ruth Sinnet was undoubtedly leading lady at Judge Morse's matinee yesterday afternoon. Fashionably dressed, her hair done in a bewitching manner and all things considered presenting a most attractive appearance, everybody wondered why W. J. Sinnet could have the heart to threaten to kill her. But he did, according to his young wife's story, and she was freed from him. They were married in 1902.

A little feature of the matinee was seen in the back of the house, sort of in front of the curtain. Mary Grow had asked for a divorce from Edward Grow, and the hearing was set for yesterday. Grow, however, just as the court bailiff was rendering the overture in the form of his court cry, rushed into court with an answer and the performance of the Grow's went over one week. While the other actors in the little comedy-dramas were doing their "turns" Grow went over to his wife's side and started to sit down beside her. She grew white with rage or some close thing to Grow. She didn't want him to sit that near to her and everybody could see it. When he insisted, she put her hand in the seat. Grow didn't want to be pushed, however, just as her hand so he lifted it and then sat down. The rules of court deportment prevented her from doing what was evidently her purpose. If her facial expression might be relied upon. During the day's proceedings, Grow apparently tried to smooth matters over, but many times his wife told him to shut up. Finally to prevent herself from hearing what her husband was saying, she turned her head away from him, pouted feebly and put her rosy finger tips to her shell-like ears. Then Grow smiled forlornly and lapsed into silence. All the while there was a gallery attendance that was much amused by the performance of the Grow's.

TIED OF "ENDLESS CHAIN" LIVING.

Martha Hunter showed that her husband was exceedingly migratory and that he "simply wouldn't settle in any place." The wife was compelled to fit him and you in her attempts to keep up with him and his finally grown-up children. The endless chain system of living. Upon her showing she was freed from Harry Hunter and given the custody of their two minor children. They were married in July of last year.

HUGO MUST PAY ALIMONY.

Hilda Wells said that Hugo Wells had failed to support her since July of last year and was granted his divorce in the custody of her son Edward. The decree carries $50 per month in alimony. W. W. Hart was accommodated with a decree by Judge Morse upon showing that he was married in 1883, deserted him in 1906, without fault on his part.

ODD SUIT FILED.

Salt Lake Route's Abandonment of Black Route Angers Walter James.

Walter James has filed suit in the district court of Millard county against the Salt Lake Route in which he asks $5,300 as damages. The suit is peculiar and interesting. James owned property near Black Rock and with the lands possessed title to water rights, etc. In an option entered into by both parties James and the Salt Lake Route, the latter agreed to pay $20,000 for this with the understanding a division point was included in the proposed towage itself. The railroad company abandoned Black Rock to locate a division point at Millard and now James comes forth with a suit as explained.

CHAPMAN WAS ROBBED.

Knocked Down by Thugs in City Hall Park and Relieved of $11.53.

Claiming that he had been held up and robbed, Jacob Chapman made complaint to the police yesterday. He is employed by P. J. Moran, and lives at 268 west Fifth South street. Chapman said he was passing through the city and county building grounds on his way home at 1 o'clock yesterday morning, when he was set upon by two men who struck him to the ground. He stated that he heard a woman's voice say, "Don't kill him," after which he became unconscious. A watch and $11.53 in cash were missing from his pockets when he came to himself, and he saw a negro woman running away from him. Chapman's clothing was torn and there were slashes in his hat, as thought made by a sharp instrument.

ANNUAL DINNER.

First Congregational Church Officers Elected for Ensuing Year.

The annual dinner and meeting of the First Congregational church were held last evening at the church. The dinner was served by the ladies of the church from 6 to 7:30 p. m. in the church parlors, nearly 200 people were served at attractively decorated tables. At the business meeting, A. J. Gorham was re-elected clerk; Trustees, C. E. Allen, J. B. Evans, Oscar L. Cox, and Edward Merrill; Deacons, C. E. Allen, A. M. Walters, and Dr. B. W. Barnett. Sunday school superintendent, F. A. Timby; M. Olcott, association representative, Russell Tracy. The reports showed very gratifying conditions obtaining in the church, with valuable improvements made, the most important of which was the rebuilding of the organ.

FUNERAL OF J. W. HUGHES.

Many Friends Pay Tribute to Late Editor of "Truth."

John W. Hughes, late editor of Truth, was laid to rest in Mt. Olivet yesterday afternoon, after impressive services at the family residence, 35 Second avenue. Many friends of the deceased met to pay tribute to his memory, and the words spoken over his bier by one who had known him intimately were just measurements of a man whose life was marked with honesty and straightforwardness.

NOTABLE OCCASION.

People of Tenth Ward Meet in Fifty-Ninth Annual Reunion.

Thursday and Friday evening the people of the Tenth ward met in annual reunion, the event being the 59th of its kind in the history of that ecclesiastical division. The utmost good feeling prevailed, as it was evident in gatherings of that character, and especially in that ward.

OLD EMPLOYEES RETAINED.

Board of Public Works Attempts to Make No Changes.

The board of public works at a meeting held last night retained all old employees in the service. Frank Christensen will be clerk, Katherine Leith stenographer, M. Fitzpatrick chief inspector. There were many applicants for Fitzpatrick's job, but they were all away disappointed. Fred J. Leonard, retiring chairman, made a brief address to the members of the board, thanking them for their consideration and many courtesies. The new chairman, H. G. McMillan then assumed control of the board, which then took up business matters.

IDEAL CAMPUS.

An adjoining tract of land on the northeast, which has been laid out in artistic fashion as the Maeser Memorial hall, promises to be. It will probably be erected on the western half of the hill, the most prominent point, and will not therefore, interfere with the present occupancy of the student campus.

KOOYMANS ONCE MORE.

The Kooymans family—same one—was out in force yesterday. The delegates to the convention included all but "Corn" Kooymans, who is spending half a year in C. Frank Emery's establishment on Second South street for having threatened to snuff out the life of his former wife. Father, mother, eight daughters and about six sons were included. With them came Hoppe, a dog of uncertain class, but with a well defined temper and appetite. During the afternoon Hoppe and a cat that lurks in the building became involved in a little matter that required a bucket of water, a brick and two janitors to terminate. The convention hall was the juvenile courtroom, the court being somewhat impetuous in the manner in which the family was being provided for. It was the second or third session, but owing to some preliminary matters which had been overlooked the discussion went over for a week.

REVIVED AT LAST.

Emaciated Woman Restored By Proper Food.

The amount of harm done from eating food which lacks the nourishing elements or is in such form that the system can't absorb it, is much greater than many persons even suspect. The harm can't be corrected by drugs either. There must be a complete change in the dietary—the cause of the trouble must be removed.

"I have been a constant sufferer from stomach trouble, constipation and neuritis, for the past 14 years," writes a Michigan lady, "and the past year became tired of life, of everybody and everything."

"The best doctors and several weeks at a Sanatorium afforded me only temporary relief. Finally an attack of the grippe caused me to give up hope of ever being well again. I was growing weaker and more emaciated every day."

"At last a doctor advised me to try some Grape-Nuts. My husband sent for some Grape-Nuts, of which I ate a little with milk, and then awaited the usual results."

"My stomach did not reject this food, and from that time on for several weeks, I lived on Grape-Nuts and milk. I felt no pain whatever in my stomach, my health gradually came back and in five weeks I gained 25 pounds. I derived more strength from Grape-Nuts than I ever did from a meat and potato diet."

SHE FOUND RELIEF IN PE-RU-NA.

"Last Winter Our Doctor Gave Us a Copy of the Pe-ru-na Almanac. I Found Help."

MRS. ADELIA RUSH.

Severe Cold and Cough.

Mrs. Lydia H. Josselyn, 501 Westminster St., Providence, R. I., is Treasurer of the Editors' League of R. I., chartered in Providence. She writes:

"My experience with Peruna has been most gratifying. Last winter I contracted a severe cold, and for several days I coughed until my voice failed me. When other remedies did me no good, I decided to try Peruna, and within four days the cold was broken up, and the cough abated."

"Within another week an increase in my usual strength and vitality told me that Peruna was doing all that it promised, and more."

"I also consider it very superior for tired, worn-out mothers, and have advised several to try it, and have seen most gratifying results from its use."

Systemic Catarrh.

Mrs. J. L. Hommedien, 150 Calyer St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes: "Peruna effected a wonderful cure in my case. I was taken very bad with catarrh. It affected me all over. I commenced to take Peruna. Within less than a week I felt better. I consider myself well."

Mrs. Adelia Rush, R. D. 8, Cambridge, Ohio, writes: "I feel that I owe you many thanks for the help I received through your advice and the use of your medicine."

"I had suffered with my stomach and inward trouble for a long time, and did not know what ailed me, but last winter our doctor gave us a copy of your almanac and I read it and found my symptoms, and I concluded to try it, and I found help in the first bottle. Now I feel myself again."

"I will not forget to praise Peruna always."

Throat and Nose.

Mrs. W. K. Good, Broadway, Va., writes: "When I was fifteen years old I had catarrh of the head, and for nine years I have had catarrh of the head. Through neglect it went to my throat and nose."

"After consulting you I used Peruna for four months as directed, and I am entirely well and have my natural health."

"I cannot praise Peruna too highly. It will do all that it is recommended to do."

Catarrh for Many Years.

Mrs. Joseph Vittur, 5709 Erie street, Austin Sta., Chicago, Ill., writes: "Your medicine Peruna was of great benefit to me. I suffered with catarrh of the nose and head for many years."
