

United States vs. Mary Beesley; dismissed.

United States vs. Annie Mason; dismissed.

On Saturday, Feb. 9, in the Third District Court, in the case of United States vs. Jas. L. Newton; unlawful cohabitation; in view of the fact that one wife died two years ago, and that he had but one wife now, he was let off on payment of the costs of the prosecution.

In the same court on Feb. 11, the following business was transacted:

United States vs. James Howard, charged with unlawful cohabitation; defendant changed his plea of not guilty to one of guilty. Mr. Moyle stated that the defendant was ready to be sentenced. After questioning him regarding his property, etc., the court sentenced him to imprisonment for ninety days and a fine of $100; no costs.

John Hill was arraigned on an indictment charging him with cohabiting with Sarah Hill and Harriet Lancaster as his wives, from Sept. 1, 1883, to May 31, 1884. Mr. Moyle stated that the defendant would take the statutory time to plead, and 10 a. m., Feb. 13th, was set.

On Feb. 7 the following was done at Ogden:

Andrew Stratford, of Brigham City, was arraigned on a charge of unlawful cohabitation, to which he pleaded not guilty. He was then arraigned on a second indictment, charging adultery, to which he also pleaded not guilty.

Jens Mortensen, of Brigham City, was arraigned on a charge of unlawful cohabitation, to which he pleaded guilty. Sentence was set for Feb. 16th.

A lady residing at Sandy, Mrs. Cave, was before the grand jury February 8, and refused to answer questions asked there. It is understood the proceedings were against Thomas Alsop, whose plural wife the lady formerly was. Next day she was taken before Judge Sanford who told her that her admissions could not be used against her, when she concluded to answer the questions.

On Friday Feb. 8, the following business was transacted at Ogden:

John Welch, of Paradise, was arraigned on a charge of unlawful cohabitation, to which he pleaded guilty. He waived time for sentence, and, after answering the queries of the court relative to his age, circumstances, and marital relations, was sentenced to four months' imprisonment and to pay the costs amounting to $41.

David Buttons, of Clarkston, Cache County, was arraigned on a charge of unlawful cohabitation, and pleaded guilty. He was 73 years of age; married his second wife nine years ago, she then being 50 years old. He was let off with the payment of a fine of $100 and costs amounting to $39.

Henry Ballard, of Logan, who returned from a mission to England but three weeks ago, having been president of the London Conference almost two years, was arraigned on the charge of unlawful cohabitation, to which he pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to two months' imprisonment and the payment of costs, which amounted to $38.50.

Thomas Griffin, of Clarkston, Cache County, was arraigned on two indictments, one for unlawful cohabitation and one for adultery. He pleaded not guilty to both indictments.

Hans J. Nielsen, of Logan, was arraigned on a charge of unlawful cohabitation, to which he pleaded not guilty.

Thomas Godfrey, of Clarkston, Cache County, was arraigned on the charges of unlawful cohabitation and adultery, to which charges he pleaded not guilty.

W. Watterson, of Logan, who four weeks ago returned from a mission to Great Britain, was arraigned on a charge of unlawful cohabitation, to which he pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to three months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $300 and the costs of prosecution, amounting to $42.

The Ogden Election.

All day February 11, both parties worked with remarkable diligence, in the Ogden election. The excitement prevailing during the day at times reached fever heat, but no outbreak occurred. Soon after the results of the election were known the principal streets became a pandemonium of noise and excitement, created by the jubilant Liberals. Cow bells, horns, and various other means of making noises were brought into requisition.

A procession marched to the residence of mayor-elect Kiesel, and in response to their demands he made a speech, in which he announced that the spell was broken, and that his party would show their opponents that it knew something of the science of government. He was in favor of liberal public improvements, and of furnishing labor for the crowd, and declared his belief that money so expended would be returned ten-fold. He predicted a glorious future for Ogden as a railroad centre.

Policemen James M. Brown and W. F. Critchlow were arrested next morning upon the charge of unlawfully imprisoning persons charged with illegal voting. The alleged offenders were taken before Judge Black and were released upon giving bonds in $500 each for their appearance.

Undoubtedly railroad men carried the day for the Liberals. Four D. & R. G. W. crews were in town to vote before noon, three Central Pacific crews came along on the 2.40 p. m. freight, the belated Union Pacific passenger brought seventeen votes and the D. & R. G. No. 7 another lot. The railroad men had no sooner reached the depot than they were hurried into hacks and rushed to the City Hall.

The Junction City now enters upon a new and, in our view, dubious stage of her history.
