

WANT PORTLAND GATEWAY OPENED

Lumbermen of Northwest Lodge Complaint Against Railroads for Institution of Joint Rate.

ANSWERS ARE FILED BY SIX.

Gould Lines Are Anxious for Ruling While Harriman Lines Have Failed To Transmit a Reply.

Seattle, Wash., May 22.—Six railroads made defendants in the Washington lumbermen's fight to open the Portland gateway have replied to the complaint lodged with the interstate commerce commission. The hearing on the suit has been set for June 11 at Washington and Secy. Victor H. Beckman, of the Pacific Coast Lumber Manufacturers' association, one of the three lumber organizations interested, is now on his way east to be present at that time. The railroad replies are summarized thus:

The Portland Terminal company declares it has no interest in the outcome of the suit, being a merely transfer organization. The Northern Pacific claims the opening of the gateway through by granting the joint rate will be of no advantage because both the Northern Pacific and Union Pacific have all the traffic they can handle from the tributary to the two systems. The Colorado Midland, a Gould line, is eager for the ruling and urges the interstate commerce commission to grant it, provided equitable rates will be given. The Colorado Southern declares it has no interest in the fight and a similar answer is returned by the Atchafalaya, Topinka & Santa Fe. Despite the fact that E. H. Harriman testified at the New York hearing of the interstate commerce commission that he had long tried to secure an adjustment of the joint rate difficulty through Portland and would welcome an investigation, none of the Harriman lines has transmitted a reply to the lumber interests.

M'ADOO INSPECTS TUNNEL.

Hoboken Will Now Have Subterranean And Submarine Transportation.

New York, May 22.—W. G. McAdoo, president of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad company, finished an inspection of the company tunnel, which he had made by car, on the line from Hoboken to Fourteenth street and Sixth avenue would be in operation.

The first of the cars for the McAdoo tunnel service has arrived. It is wholly fireproof, even the cushions being non-inflammable. Hobokenites will now find a subterranean and submarine transportation, service of one and a half minutes each way.

RUSO-CHINESE LABOR.

Harriman Will Enlist it for Mexican Railroad.

Mr. E. H. Harriman is going to try the experiment of employing Russian and Chinese labor in building his new railroad in Mexico, and he has today secured 1,400 of the laborers, of whom 200 are Russian, are now on their way from Vladivostok to that country.

Mr. E. T. Hazlett, special agent of Mr. Harriman, returned only a few days ago from Vladivostok after several months spent in inquiry into the merits of these men as laborers and other matters. I saw Mr. Hazlett before he left to depart on the Deutschland. He told me he had shipped 200 Russians and 1,200 Chinese on April 10. They are to work on the New Canadian, Toqui river and Pacific line.

"Of course, this is only an experiment," said Mr. Hazlett. "The Russians, however, are splendid men. The Chinese are from the northern part of their country and are 'scrappers' by nature. They are the sort that took part in the Boxer uprising."

Mr. Hazlett purchased in Japan a large quantity of railway sleepers for shipment to Mexico.

HARRIMAN COMING WEST.

Will Soon Visit Portland to Look Into Transportation Problem.

A dispatch from Portland, Oregon, says that the chamber of commerce of that city is in receipt of a letter from E. H. Harriman announcing that he will visit Portland shortly to look into various phases of the transportation problem, particularly with regard to the steamship service given by the Harriman steamers between Portland and San Francisco.

MUST TAKE CHANCES.

Tickets Purchased Will Not be Extended in Event of Sickness.

In accordance with a new rule just adopted by the Western Passenger association persons who have purchased tickets and fail to take them at their own expense. In other words, the association has decided to cancel its former rule, regarding extension of tickets for passengers on account of sickness, delayed trains, or other unavoidable reasons.

This means that if a passenger buys a ticket the responsibility of the train ends, beyond the care to be exercised by the company in conveying the passenger to his destination within the time specified on the ticket.

Passengers must therefore take their chances. If they fall sick or if

The Oregon Short Line office in this city has received advices from J. G. Spencer, general freight agent of the Morgan Steamship company, of New York, that the Morgan line pier destroyed by fire in New York on May 17, which was only for discharging of northbound cargoes from New Orleans, Louisiana steamers, and contained no Utah freight.

MIDLAND'S TEDDY BEARS.

Three Interesting Cubs Captured on Roosevelt's Hunting Grounds.

The Colorado Midland Ry. has been presented with three cub bears which were captured near Camp Roosevelt a few miles from Glenwood Springs, Colo. by Jake Bernal and Jas. Hayes who were Roosevelt's guides on his recent hunting trip to that part of the country. The cubs were on exhibition in the windows of the Midland office at Denver all last week and were the delight of the children of this city, the streets being blocked at times by the crowds who were struggling to get up to the windows to see the cubs. The cubs were named as the three Midland Teddy Bears, Teddy B., Teddy G. and Teddy S.

Mr. Lee Hanley, the advertising agent of the Midland leaves Denver today with the little Teddy family for Washington, where they will be shown to the president. He will then make a trip to all the larger cities of the east and will put them on exhibition in the windows of the large department stores.

Anna Held who is at present singing at the Grand Opera house in New York, has been asked that she be allowed to use one of them on the stage while she is singing the song, in place of a stuffed Teddy bear which the children and Mr. Hanley have consented to allow this to be done. They are about two months old and tame as puppies. It is probable that they will be brought to Salt Lake later in the summer and be placed in the windows of the Midland ticket office for a short time.

SPIKE AND RAIL.

G. M. Fraser, traveling agent of the Illinois Central road, has gone to Idaho on a business trip.

General Manager A. C. Ridgway of the Denver & Rio Grande, returned last night from Denver, after inspecting the line up Bingham canyon and surrounding country. The station building remained only one day in Salt Lake.

The Clark road secured ten acres of land for a terminal station at Goldfield, according to advices from that point. The site is an ideal baseball park and is considered an ideal location for a depot. The station building will be constructed in the California mission style, and will be one of the finest in the state.

P. H. Plaidst, assistant general freight agent of the Oregon Short Line returned yesterday from Chicago, where he has been engaged with other traffic officials in revising some of the tariffs of the road. No radical changes were made, according to Mr. Plaidst, but only some minor ones necessitated by the rulings of the interstate commerce commission.

FAMILY FENCE SQUABBLE.

Hepworth Gets an Injunction on Some Post Hole Propositions Today.

Hepworth against Hepworth is the title of an action filed in the district court today but it is not a divorce suit. It is simply an action filed by James Hepworth against Samuel LeRoy Hepworth to enjoin the defendant from digging post holes and building a fence along the center of a right of way over part of lot 6, block 62, just C. Salt Lake City street. Plaintiff claims to own the lot adjoining the one mentioned and also the right of way, and he alleges that on May 18, 1907, defendant, commenced digging post holes along the middle of the right of way preparatory to building a fence and depriving plaintiff of the use of the same. A temporary restraining order was issued from the district court today to stop the fence building.

RED LEMONADE POPULAR TODAY

Sells-Floto Shows Come to Town And Give Two Performances Here.

NEW FEATURES THIS YEAR.

Parade Gives Promise of Some Good Acts in the Rings Inside The Canvas.

The parade of the Sells-Floto circus this morning came off on schedule time and succeeded in lining the streets with the usual circus crowds. At the intersection of Main and Second South streets the crowd was so numerous that it became necessary to suspend traffic until the parade had passed, and street cars were lined up clear to Third South, with drays, automobiles, carriages and delivery wagons several deep along the streets awaiting their turn to move on. The circus parade is now and ever has been a source of perennial pleasure to the small boy and the grown up boy, to the little girl and the big girl, and all kinds were out in force this morning.

Altogether the parade was a creditable one. Some of the best specimens of horseflesh brought to this city by any shows are with the Sells-Floto aggregation, as well as numerous and large "snips of the desert" with humps on their backs, and a multitude of elephants and lions and tigers and parrots and monkeys and ponies and clowns and in fact all and every imaginable and collectible feature making a most interesting and varied parade, including the everlasting and inharmonious callopes.

FEATURES OF THE SHOW.

The performance given by the Sells-Floto show on "The Circus Beautiful" as its owners delight to call it, is entertaining from the moment when the grand entrance appears in the hippodrome track until the last performer in the concert has concluded his specialty. There are two wings and a stage and plenty of overhead rigging and apparatus for aerial acts, trapeze and horizontal bar stunts.

The matinee started at 2:15 o'clock and long before that hour the big tent, which has a seating capacity of $5,000, was well filled. Every bit of paraphernalia about the show and all the costumes of the riders and actors are new and brilliant. The ring features crowd the tent upon each other and it would be quite a difficult matter to figure out which is best.

AERIAL ACTS.

One of the recognized premier features is presented by the Peerless Toppers, who have now a reputation on the continent for doing aerial and casting acts. The five flying D'Espas have another hair-raising aerial act, while the gymnastics and acrobatic work of the Signato Imperial troupe is good.

Something entirely new in circus acts is given by Herr Schmidt, who is billed as the strongest man on earth. Herr Schmidt is a German, and he will hold a cycle wheel aloft to weigh 3,000 pounds, while a daredevil bicyclist races around on the inside.

GOOD HORSES.

The equestrian features are good and all the riders, under the personal direction of John Carroll, former vaudeville director with the Ringling Brothers show, as stars at their work. The ring horses are of the famous Ben Hur herd of imported Arabians. As for clowns, they number 25.

The Sells, Floto shows is now experiencing the most successful season of its career. It has just come from a trip across the great American desert and was the very first circus to enter the flourishing mining camps of Tonopah, Goldfield and Rhyolite. In California, the show opened its season, business was phenomenal.

The last performance will be given tonight, on the show grounds at Eighth South and Main streets. Doors will be open at 7 o'clock and the entertainment will start promptly at 8 o'clock.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

A pretty affair was the bridge tea given yesterday by Mrs. June Sadler. Miss Sadler, who is a well known social hostess, has been entertaining with a series of bridge teas, and the affair was a success. The tea was given at the home of Mrs. Sadler, and was attended by a large number of guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Read returned today from Ellenbeck, who has been at Stanford the past year.

Another bridge party of yesterday was given by Mrs. Sadler. The affair was a success, and was attended by a large number of guests.

Tonight the wedding of Miss Florence Robb and Mr. Charles Read will take place, the ceremony to be performed by Rev. W. Padon in the presence of the relatives, and a reception for the friends to follow.

C. E. W. Bowers' Jewelry Store Broken Into Last Night.

Unknown parties broke into the jewelry and watchmaking store of C. E. W. Bowers, at 245 south Main street last night and stole a number of articles of jewelry, the loss as far as yet discovered, not proving very heavy. Mr. Bowers closed his establishment last evening, as usual, at about 7 o'clock, and knew nothing about the robbery until about 6:30 this morning when his clerk informed him that the store had been broken into. Rushing down to his place of business, Mr. Bowers discovered that the large plate glass in front of the store had been broken at the joint with the side glass, and that a sharp instrument, about three feet from the ground, and a piece of the glass dropped out large enough to admit the body of a man. It is evident, however, that the perpetrator of the theft only reached in and got one gold watch, several fobs and some cheap watches and minor articles.

RALEIGH IS HELD.

Judge Bishop Binds Detective Over to District Court This Morning.

George Raleigh, chief of the detective force, was bound over to the district court this morning by Judge Bishop. Raleigh has become prominent through his connection with the odorous "Sheets-McWhorter" affair which has attracted attention at various times. The defendant was represented by Soren X. Christensen, who put up a powerful plea for dismissal, asserting that the state has not made a case, sufficient to justify the holding of Raleigh. Willard Hanson represented the state and made an equally strong talk in support of holding Raleigh for further trial. The court viewed the affair in the same light and Raleigh will be brought into the district court. He was released upon his own recognizance. The arguments were delivered in the Water court. No spectators were present.

Morgan Purchases The HOENTSCHEL COLLECTION.

New York, May 22.—Announcement is made here today that J. Pierpont Morgan has purchased in Paris for $1,000,000 the great Hoenthschel collection of carvings, statuary and furniture, considered by experts the greatest assemblage of objects of art in the world.

Concerning the negotiations and sale of it, the greatest secrecy, it is said, has been maintained for months, owing to a belief that it became definite that it was sold to Mr. Morgan, an effort would be made by the authorities abroad to prevent its leaving France.

Many of its carvings, panels and paintings were taken in times of violence from churches, cathedrals and palaces, and others are of such importance that they are considered by the authorities abroad to prevent its leaving France.

SALT LAKERS FORM A COAL COMPANY

Prominent Residents Promise Some Relief From Regular Winter Shortages.

MINES ARE NEAR SCOFFIELD.

Railroads Assure Corporation Modest Production Will be Handled, Even During Rush.

Private enterprise is preparing to take a hand in coping with the regular winter coal shortage. The People's Coal & Coke company has been organized to take over the property and mines formerly owned by the Salt Lake Fuel company. The mines are in the geographical center of Utah's best, most extensively developed coal belt, being midway between Colton and Scofield, within 50 feet of the Rio Grande tracks. The incorporators include such well known men as Senator S. H. Love, Isaac Barton, George Y. Wallace, W. S. McCormick, Frank D. Kimball, Congressman Joseph Howell, Lewis T. Cannon and Prof. Joseph P. Merrill. Mr. Love is president, Isaac Barton, vice president, and I. R. Barton, secretary and treasurer. The company is capitalized for 1,000,000 shares at the par value of $1 each. Of this 400,000 shares have been set aside as treasury stock. A limited amount of this may be placed in the market to raise funds for development and property is to be worked on an extensive scale. Additional holdings will be taken in by the company.

The lay of the mines will permit extraction at low cost. The formation is favorable in that no timbering will be necessary. Experts who have examined the properties believe coal can be taken out from various depths. The U. P. vein has been traced from Scofield to the ground. Tunnel connections in the old mine indicate 1,500 feet of work. This work is to be carried on. A good feature of the scheme is that the company has been able to trace the title of their holdings back to the government, thus learning that the required statutory work has been done for them. The railroad has assured the company that a modest production during the fall and winter rush will be handled in kind shape, and this promises much needed relief from the winter shortages. The coal, itself, is a happy medium between the Rock Springs and Grand valleys, being a little longer burner than the former, and cleaner than the latter.

CASTLEBERRY CASE.

Trial Concluded in Judge Armstrong's Court This Afternoon.

The trial of the case of the State of Utah against James S. Castleberry was concluded in Judge Armstrong's court this afternoon and was submitted to the jury. Castleberry is said to have written an insurance policy for James Miller of Heber City who gave him $53 in payment for the same. The policy was issued by Castleberry who is alleged to have pocketed the money.

Castleberry claimed as his defense that he had no account with his employers, and that he has offered to settle the entire amount with them on several occasions but they refused.

The supreme court today heard arguments in the following cases and took them under advisement: J. S. Richards, appellant, vs. Joseph F. Smith, trustee-in-trust for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints; Castleberry vs. the Ogden Steam Laundry, appellant. The case of the state ex rel Porter vs. M. L. LAKE MOHONK CONFERENCE

Prest. Butler in Opening Address Advocated Avoidance of Question of Disarmament.

PERIOD OF INTERNATIONALISM

At the Hague Should Ask That Court Be Transformed From a Semi-Diplomatic Into Truly Judicial Tribunal.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., May 22.—The Lake Mohonk conference on international arbitration opened its thirteenth annual session today. The election of officers resulted as follows:

President, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, New York; secretary, Clinton B. Woodruff, Philadelphia; permanent corresponding secretary, H. C. Phillips, Mohonk, N. Y.

President Murray Butler of Columbia university in his address at the opening, advocated that the question of disarmament be voted at this conference, but the restriction of the further growth of the armies and navies be urged. He suggested recommendations for the coming conference at the Hague. He spoke in part as follows:

"Unless all signs fail, we are entering upon a period which may be described fittingly as one of internationalism. Intra-national development, and the development of the international era which is opening. Like an individual, a nation has a mind and a conscience, and it has them in a very real sense. It is the duty of the nations to be to bring the nations' minds and the nations' consciences to bear on the moral problems involved in international relations. This is a step in the moral education of the world. The more perfect and complete morality of the future is itself to be the product of the incomplete and imperfect, but always improving, morality of the past and of the present."

"It is a mistake in history and an error in ethics to apply the standards and ideals of one period to the deeds and actions of another. The moral education of the world is a long and arduous task. The nations must be made to realize that there is no possible parallel with present conditions. The crucial question is not, will our standards and our moral aspirations, are in development and are in development."

"The splendid accomplishment of this conference during all the years of its existence has been the arousing and directing of public opinion. The National Arbitration and Peace Congress in New York gave strong impetus to this work. We feel it not much to say that the Congress, in its half a century toward the time when higher conceptions of international justice shall prevail, and American public opinion will gain in influence abroad if its positive recommendations in regard to the attainment of international peace are followed."

"Speaking for myself, I should wholly avoid at the present time the question of disarmament. Disarmament is a matter of course, but it is a matter of course, but only by pressure from within. If justice is established between nations, disarmament will follow peace, not precede it."

Yet while passing disarmament by, we must not forget the wisdom of formal international consideration of the possibility of restricting the further growth of the great armies and navies, and the consequent impairment of the efficiency of those that exist."

"From the forthcoming Hague conference we should ask, I think, chiefly two things, and other things should be given as a long term forward would be taken. We should ask that the permanent Hague court be transformed from a semi-diplomatic into a truly judicial tribunal and that the nations which the Hague conference, now assembling for the second time at the call of a monarch, be made to assemble automatically, and that the nations should be given as a long term forward would be taken. We should ask that the permanent Hague court be transformed from a semi-diplomatic into a truly judicial tribunal and that the nations which the Hague conference, now assembling for the second time at the call of a monarch, be made to assemble automatically, and that the nations should be given as a long term forward would be taken."

"One other matter concerns Americans alone. Each time an important international conference occurs, the appointing power searches the country over for the most competent and effective representatives of American interests and of American opinion. Why should we not constitute a body of permanent representatives at such international conferences out of the distinguished men who, as president of the United States of Secretary of state, have directed for a time the foreign policy of the nation? These experienced statesmen, officially constituted as international conferees on behalf of the United States, and in receipt of an appropriate salary fixed by law, would bring to their task both unusual equipment and unusual experience. Such use of those who had rendered distinguished service to the nation as chief executive or as secretary of state, would be in every respect fitting."

"Every portent is favorable for the policies in which we believe and which we urge. The civilized world, so at peace and there is no ruler and no party bent on disturbing that peace. The more powerful nations are presided over by monarchs or governments whose faces are turned toward the light. Indeed no responsible ruler is likely, so far as the signs of the moment go, to be responsible for breaking the world's peace. The peace is to be broken. It will be broken, I think, by the irresponsible, the reckless and the untamed. At this stage of the world's history, we must all of us unite to hold these elements of the population in check."

The present status of the international arbitration movement was the subject of an address by Benjamin F. Trueblood, secretary of the American Peace society, Boston.
