Chevenne, 20.—Two men were arrested here to-night from the Sabilic country, 85 miles north of here, with the body of George Metcalf in their possession. Metcalf while at dinner had got into a dispute with Wm. Maloney, when the latter shot him. Maloney was arrested, and on the way here was captured by a mob, who lynched him. Troy, 20 .- An unknown person started a switch engine standing on a side track of the Delaware & Hudson River railroad at Mechanicsville, last night, switched it on the main track, jumped off and sent the engine up the track at St. Louis, 20.—Phillip Scheider, watchman on the steamboat Montana, was suspected of a recent theft off $1,500 from the safe while the boat lay at St. Louis. On Monday night he was taken off the steamboat at an island near Lexington by five men, who lifted him up four times with a rope around his neck. Failing to make him confess, they released him. they released him. The Business Men's Boom.

New York, 20.—The great mass meeting of citizens and business men called to express approval of the ad-ministration of Prest. Arthur and urge his renomination for a second term, was held to-night in Cooper Union. was held to-night in Cooper Union. A more orderly and intelligent assemblage than that which crowded the great hall was never before seen in this city.

At half-past seven every seat in the building was occupied. Half an hour later, when Cornelius N.Bliss, of Bliss, Vahran & Co. called the meeting to later, when Cornelius N.Bliss, of Bliss, Fabran & Co., called the meeting to order, not another person could find standing room in the hall. Throngs still continued to pour into the doorways; till finally, at ten minutes to the commandant of the police gave orders to close the doors. Amony the audience were a large number of ladies. Seats were provided upon the platform for about 40 people. Among the prominent persons who occupied them were Cornelius N. Bliss, Fred. S. Winslow, H. W. Beecher, Benj. H. Bristow, Edwards Pierrepont, Assistant U. S. Treasurer. The band at the right of the platform discoursed airs. When Beecher made his appearance the audience gave three cheers. The applause continued some time after he took his seat. The Siamese minister came in continued some time after he took his seat. The Siamese minister came in just before the meeting opened, and with members of his sult were given seats on the platform.

At 8 o'clock Cornellus N. Bilss called the meeting to order, and briefly stated the objects for which it was called. He said it was an unusual thing for business men to have a voice inchoosing a candidate for the Presidency, as this was the work of those who were supposed to be better informed in public affairs. The political papers had endeavored to deprecate the efforts of business men in the present instance, and had insinuated that at the present time especially it would be the present time especially it would be a great deal better for business men to attend to their own husiness and look after their stocks and bonds and merchandise instead of meddling with politics. They would take the liberty, however, lu spite of these unfair

comments, to express their views in the matter, and urge the renomination of a man who although he came into comments, to express their views in the matter, and urge the renomination of a man who although he came into office under such trying circumstances had proved himself so worthy of the great charge entrusted to him by the great charge entrusted by introducing Frederick J. Winston, president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, as chairman of the meeting.

Mr. Winston was received with applicate as he stepped forward and thanked the assemblage for the honor conferred. He characterized President Arthur as a man of the highest integrity, and in every way worthy of the support of men of all classes, who were centering upon President Arthur. He denied that this was a class meeting of citizens. Every one feit the importance of having a good candidate in the present crisis, and he felt their efforts would be crowned with success in November next.

A long line of vice-presidents, including the names of the most prominent business men, was read, and resolutions in the heartiest spirit of the meeting were adopted.

Parke Goodwin, editor of the Commercial Advertiser, made a short address, and then Rev. Henry Ward Gress, and call them ill-ma'ured men. I hold that the business part of the community represents, in many respects, the best interests of our whole country, and business men, perhaps more than many others, require a stable government. They do not care so much about policies, because they can adapt them selves to policies; but they do want to be able to look forward to a stable and uniform policy of government. We have met here simply as a voice to suggest t name has been mentioned, nor to make threats that if our choice is not nominated we won't play. (Laughter). We express our wishes, then the minority submits itself to the majority. Who is Chester A. Arthur? He is a man who has proved himself under trying circumstances one of the most able presiding officers this nation ever had. That he has been subject to so little criticism is a marvel. The bitterness of then whose names should be invested to make the majority of mention and Grant, in to Hayes; and when Hayes took up the presidency the country had been scorched with the fires of war, and as a physician applies sweet oil and poultices to the skin of a

Hon' Benjamin H. Bristow, ex-Secretary of the Treasury, began his address by sketching briefly the distress and discontent which prevailed in the and discontent which prevailed in the Republican ranks at the accession of President Arthur; a discontent which he said culminated in this State in the overwhelming defeat of the Republican candidate for Governor; against whom personally nothing could be urged. Even the most sanguine Republicans abother hardly broad ared to as cans who then hardly have dared to assert that a Republican President could be elected in 1884. He referred to the wonderful change in New York last year, the election of a Republican Legislature, and the remarkable accession in the ranks of Republican Presidential candidates. This change the speaker attributed in great part to mony in the party ranks. On reform in the civil service; Bristow said, "The civil service commissioners selected by him pursuant to the statutes were and are well known for their zeal and intelligence in the cause of zeal and intelligence in the cause of civil service reform, and they have united in testifying to the correctness and perfect good faith of the President in carrying out the law in letter and spirit." The ex-Secretary declared the business men of this city and the country care little for political acts, but they had an opinion and dared express it, that the general course of President Arthur's administration was good, and would on the whole be for the best interests of the country. The orator closed with the following reference to the letter of Mr. McVeagh, published this morning: "My distinguished friend who has been put to the inconvenience of rushing into print to give aid politis for my speech does not seem to have quite understood that this meeting was callled by free and indepen-

Chicago, 20.—A telegram signed by the presidents of the First and Commercial National Banks, by John V. Farwell, Phillip D. Armour, Henry Keap, O. W. Pot'er and other representatives of large commercial and financial interests, was sent tonight to the business men's meeting in New York in behalf of President Arthur's renomination. No particulars could be learned. Telegrams have been sent asking particulars. Fears are entertained here by both citizens and officers, that a revolution has started which will maread over the entire Republic. Quite a number of prominent parties here seem not to be surprised at the reported revolt. It is not unwelcome news to many. The Government as now administered is so corrupt that the people are anxious for a change, believing that no government could be worse than the present. Some are found who seem to be rather anxious for a revolution, believing that it would result in annexation. That the political streams of Mexico are troubled there is no longer any doubt. day that a serious revolt broke out

British Briefs.

London, 20.—The grand jury indicted Lord St. Leonard for indecently assaulting a maid servant.

The extension of franchise bill was considered by the Commons to-day in committee of the whole. Handolph Churchill strongly disagreed with the amendment of Brodock, conservative, to exclude Ireland from the operation of the bill. This amenuncement was greeted with cheers by the Liberals. Lord Randolph said although he objected to the bill strongly on account of its provisions, he though the position taken by the government statesmen was right. He had no lear of the result of enfranchising the Irish agricultural inborers, and expressed the hope that the Conservatives would not allenate the good opinion of the Brish by supporting Brodock's amendment.

Lord George Hamilton asked Churchill what he was really driving at. He said if this was a statement of democratic toryism of the future, then he declined to follow under such leadership. He contended the bill was introduced to suit the exigencies of the liberals. Its application to Ireland would result in reopening the dood-gates of agitation.

Brodock's amendment was rejected, 22 to 187.
