

of Victor, with a squad of soldiers, is searching for a man named Friday, who is charged with having killed Rook. Information is said to have been given about him by non-union men, who were "sweated" by Maj. McCall and other military authorities. According to their statements, Friday fired two shots with a Winchester rifle and attempted to shoot C. C. Hamilton, secretary of the Mine Owners' association, who was addressing the mass meeting. After the shooting, it is alleged, Friday entered the union store and concealed his gun in a stovepipe, where it has been found. Friday is reported to be hiding, with companions, in a cabin on Straub mountain, north of Victor.

FINED HIM FIFTY.

The Result of a Drunken Slumber in Judge Marshall's Court.

Despite the vigorous efforts to hush up the case, it leaked out last evening that in the federal court yesterday a young attorney from out of town was fined $50 by Judge Marshall for appearing before the court in a condition indicating a lingering companionship with the grape. The offense was committed on Monday, when the attorney went before the court to plead a motion. He went to sleep and snored, disregarding the majesty of the federal law entirely. The court thereupon ordered the marshal to take him in chains and have him appear yesterday, which he did. Having sobered up, the young man apologized in eloquent language and escaped with the fine of $50. Considering "how far along" the young barrister was, how he acted and what he said, the court attaches are of the opinion that he got off very easy.

Distress After Eating

Nausea between meals, belching, vomiting, flatulence, fits of nervous headache, pain in the stomach, are all symptoms of dyspepsia, and the longer it is neglected the harder it is to cure it.

Radically and permanently cure it—strengthen and tone the stomach and other digestive organs for the natural performance of their functions. Accept no substitute for Hood's. "I had dyspepsia twenty-five years and took different medicines but got no help until I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. Have taken four bottles of this medicine and can now eat almost anything, sleep well, have no cramps in my stomach, no burning and no distress." Mrs. William G. Barrett, 14 Olney St., Providence, R. I. Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keep the promise.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET TOMORROW

Temporary Officers Not Chosen Today on Account of Miscalculation.

WHO WILL BE CHAIRMAN?

It is Still Powers vs Peery for Commitment—Each is After the Plum in Hot Foot Fashion.

The Democratic state committee met this morning for the purpose of selecting temporary officers of the convention tomorrow, but because of a miscalculation in the notification of members, the attendance was not general and the meeting was postponed until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, when the business will be transacted on the stage of the Salt Lake Theater.

The temporary chairman will be either R. D. Johnson of Weber county or Frank K. Nebeker of Cache. No other names are prominently mentioned for the office.

The indications are that the convention tomorrow will go down in history as a rattling affair. To begin with there will be a fight as to whether the convention shall name the national committee or leave the appointment to the six delegates to the national convention. And then, if the convention undertakes the work itself, which is likely to be the case, the hot contest between Judge Powers and Henry Peery will come off. The sidekick of the convention is today in large numbers. They are working tooth and nail for the nomination of candidates, while the latter themselves are circulating among delegates, most of whom have arrived, and are pulling every wire they can. It is just possible that either Peery or Powers will have a walk-over, but the wise ones anticipate a contest that will size.

A story was on the street today to the effect that members of the state committee got together last Friday night and selected Frank Nebeker as temporary chairman of the state convention, whereupon, according to this report, the secretary informed him of the action and asked him to be prepared for the time being, at least. The story was told in many circles, but is apparently without truth. James H. Moyle and other members of the committee deny that it is absolutely without foundation.

The Salt Lake county delegation will caucus tonight and select the members of the committee on credentials, platform and resolutions, by permanent organization. The names of Powers and Peery will also come up at this caucus and here, again, there is a prospect of an entertaining fight between the friends of the rival candidates.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

Today's local bank clearings amounted to $238,448.33, or $132,211.81 for the corresponding day of last year.

Late this afternoon the announcement was made that J. C. Leonard, former city chairman, had entered the race for election as a delegate to the Democratic national convention.

James H. Anderson, chairman of the Utah delegation to the Republican national convention, left today for Chicago, accompanied by his two daughters.

Candidates for delegates to the Democratic national convention, which meets tomorrow, are coming to the front. Simon Samberger is being urged. Friends of Samuel A. King of Provo say he is practically elected, and Representative Billings of Utah county is another strong outside candidate. Mrs. Joe Cohen has been mentioned frequently, but her health would not permit her to attend and she would the honor or be conferred upon her.

J. E. Coggin, one of the delegates from Wyoming to the Republican National convention at Chicago, expects to leave tomorrow for the convention. He is a resident of the city and is being nominated by Roosevelt will be nominated by Roosevelt without any halting; but as to the choice for vice president, that is not so easy to indicate. However, there is a strong belief that Robert H. Hitt will be the man, although Uncle Joe Cannon will make a strong fight. As to the choice of the Democratic convention, he thinks there are strong indications in favor of Cleveland, owing to the support of eastern financial interests, but says he knows the friends of Judge Parker are hopeful.

PROF. VINCENT'S TIMELY LECTURES

Delivers Interesting Addresses Before Large Audiences in the Barratt Hall.

EDUCATION AND EFFICIENCY.

Maintains Final Test of Education is The Development of Power to Solve Problems.

Prof. Geo. E. Vincent delivered an interesting lecture before the assembled teachers in the Barratt hall last evening, taking as his subject "Education and Efficiency." The large audience present listened attentively to the speaker who said in part:

"The final test of education is the development of efficiency, the power to solve problems, to bring things to pass. There are three elements which education must emphasize if efficiency is to be secured. These three factors are knowledge, wisdom and enthusiasm.

"It is important, in these days especially, to distinguish between mere information and organized knowledge. The popular mind still cherishes the notion that the educated man is the man who knows a great many things. This quantitative idea of education is a source of danger. The accumulation of desultory, unrelated facts, however vast their quantity, does not constitute education. The gradual organizing of observation, experience and reading into systematic knowledge is the first step of an education which makes for efficiency. There is no substitute for well grounded and carefully digested learning. However brilliant the individual without such a basis his achievements will fall short of accuracy, insight and genuine success.

"But it is equally true that without power to bring knowledge to bear upon the concrete problems of life, the individual, no matter how profound his learning, can not attain the highest efficiency. This reflective power, this ability to analyze situations, to discriminate the essential from the unimportant situations, this thing which men call wisdom is the second element to be emphasized. In these days of rapidly changing social conditions, power of adjustment, resourcefulness, flexibility are all important. The schools and colleges can not make their pupils wise, but they may put them on the road which leads to wisdom by encouraging reflection, developing originality and insisting upon problem solving.

"Knowledge transmitted into wisdom must be energized by enthusiasm. Only in this way is efficiency fostered. Many an individual has depth of learning and capacity for reflection, but lacking the vision and the passion for achieving dreams, he fails of service to himself and others. Happy the men and women whose vision and with bounding pulses and unwearying purpose strive to bring their dreams to pass.

These three elements, knowledge, wisdom and enthusiasm, are fundamental. If our public schools are to render the service demanded of them in helping to develop worthy and efficient citizens, they must see to it that the pupils acquire knowledge, knowledge, knowledge, and feeling degenerates into fanaticism. Without idealism, knowledge and wisdom are lifeless and ineffective."

YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Dr. Vincent's lecture yesterday afternoon was on the subject, "How the Mind Works." He put into different words the relation of geography to history. It was of absorbing interest, showing, as it did, the difference between history, trade, politics and religion that are brought about by geography—natural environments. As an example, he spoke of the Civil war, saying:

"In the Civil war we find two environments in conflict. In respect to geographical conditions the north and south stand out in absolute contrast, and since the geography of a country reflects itself in every institution that it fosters, we find two opposite and almost irreconcilable environments growing up in the north and south at the same time. The men were not individually responsible for the great conflict; they only represented great social forces. The north had great economical advantages which the south, with all her gallantry, couldn't withstand, and her final defeat was an inevitable result."

Dr. Vincent made the statement that slavery failed in the north and succeeded in the south because it did not pay economically in the north. It was equally profitable in the north, the doctor expressed the belief that slavery might be an institution of this government today.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIP.

One from Utah is Carried Off by Baltair H. Jacobson.

The Rhodes prize—a scholarship to Oxford university, England—has been won by Baltair H. Jacobson of this city, a student of the Utah university. The news came by Associated Press from Dr. Parkin, secretary of the Rhodes trustees, who has just received a report from the Oxford examiners. Utah, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington and Wyoming also won scholarships. Altogether, 120 students in the United States have passed and are eligible for selection as Rhodes scholars.

Mr. Jacobson is about 22 years of age and resides near Calder's park. He had two competitors for the Utah scholarship, one of them being Elmer Thomas. The examination was based largely upon their standing in Greek, Latin and mathematics.

The scholarship is for three years, and Mr. Jacobson will receive about $1,600 a year, all of which he must expend in the south. Prof. Byron Cummings, who conducted the examination for Utah, speaks in the highest terms of the successful student, and expects great things of him.

BUT TWO JURORS ARE NOW NEEDED.

Couple of Talesmen Still Lacking To Try the Rice Murder Case.

S. L. JONES CREATES LEVITY.

In Answer to Questions Gives Opinion on Wives in General—Alibi Will Be Defense.

Only two more jurors are needed to complete the jury which will hear the evidence and render a verdict in the case of the state vs John Rice, who is now on trial in the criminal division of the district court before Judge Morse for the murder of Fred Beutler in this city more than seven years ago. Four jurors were secured at the afternoon session of court yesterday afternoon, but none were secured at this morning's session. The four secured yesterday afternoon are John Robinson, George T. Menden, Frederick W. Walker and John S. Edwards.

Another special venire was issued by Judge Morse yesterday afternoon. It consisted of 15 names, and of that number to be sworn in court this morning and were examined as to their voir dire. Of the number examined nine were sworn and accepted and four were excused on account of physical disabilities.

Six jurors were called to the jury box for examination for cause this morning. The jurymen were challenged for cause by the defense, one was excused upon the eighth peremptory challenge by the state, and the sixth one was excused by the court. The jurymen were sworn and accepted and four were excused on account of physical disabilities.

Dr. Vincent's Final Talk, "Mind the Mob," a Masterpiece.

Dr. Vincent addressed a large gathering of teachers this afternoon, his theme being "The Socialization of the Curriculum," which is, of all his lectures, of special interest to teachers. Tonight at Barratt Hall, he delivers his final lecture, "The Mind of the Mob." This is probably the greatest of his series, and certainly of more general interest than the others. It has attracted much attention everywhere. The lecture will begin at 8 o'clock.

LAST LECTURE TONIGHT.

Dr. Vincent leaves for the east tomorrow at noon. At four o'clock this afternoon he was to take a run out to Saltair with Prof. Stewart of the Utah university and a number of friends of that institution. The train will return about 6:30.

LOSES A FINGER.

Will Groesbeck Meets With an Accident at the Boston Con.

Friends of Will Groesbeck, the mining man, will be pained to learn that as the result of an accident at the Boston Consolidated a few days ago, he was compelled to suffer the amputation of the index finger of his right hand. Only a week ago Mr. Groesbeck went to the mine to operate the engine which runs the dynamo. The wheel makes 225 revolutions a minute and was running at this speed when Mr. Groesbeck attempted to wipe some grease from a rod. As he reached out, his hand slipped and his finger was struck by the wheel. It was impossible, but it is nevertheless a fact that the wheel stopped instantly, for the instant, and the victim drew his hand away, minus a finger. The severed finger badly crushed, suffering agonies, Mr. Groesbeck came to Salt Lake, and Dr. J. S. Richards amputated what was left of the lost finger. As an example of the young man's nerve, it need only be stated that he refused to take an anesthetic for the operation.

AMUSEMENTS

Mrs. Leslie Carter had a second large audience at the Grand last night. She closes her Salt Lake engagement this afternoon and evening with her fine impersonation of Du Barry.

The Salt Palace theater had a big crowd last night after the races. The new manager, Mr. Athon, who succeeds Wilson and Butcher, comes direct from Chicago, and he announces that the theater will hereafter be conducted with the well known Orpheum circuit, which assures it a high class of vaudeville features. The bill running this week includes 11 acts and only one performance is given each night, beginning at 9 p. m., except on Tuesdays and Fridays, when, on account of the races, two performances are given, the first at 8:30 and the second at 10 o'clock.
