CHICAGO, 6.—A special to the Times, from Cincinnati, has the following in reference to the progress of the women's praying temperance movement: J. C. Van Pelt, Ohio's wickedest man, delivered a rousing temperance lecture last evening, at New Vienna. His audience was immense, and the most intense enthusiasm prevailed during his remarks. He apologized for former hostility manifested toward the agitators, and stated that his heart had been softened by their prayers, and all his purposes changed by their long-suffering. He confessed to having frequently. taken the last dime from some poor wretch to pay for whisky, a dime which he knew had been earned by a starving wife or child. He was determined to abandon his business and to come in on the Lord's side. His remarks were frequently interrupted by repeated and prolonged applause, and at their conclusion the audience presented him with a purse of one hundred and fifty dollars.

BRIGHAM CITY, Feb. 5, 1874. Editor Deseret News:

At half past three o'clock this p.m. we left here on a U. N. R. R. train, in company with Mayor Loveland, part of the city council and other gentlemen and a few ladies, and were soon landed at a point near Geo. Marsh's farm, two miles beyond Willard city proper, where a connection of track on said road had just been effected and the two ends had met whereby travel between Brigham City and Ogden can be done on a narrow gauge line. Captain J. Christiansen's brass band played pleasantly for us as we rolled along, and after we arrived at said point. A spike of fine steel, neatly polished, &c., with the letters "U. It was driven in by the indomitable Judge Samuel Smith, by whose energy in connection with a band of brave boys, with Bishop Nichols' faithful assistance, the work had been completed in the last few weeks. About nine miles of R. R. has been built by them. The Willard City boys were not a bit behind in pushing on the work under Bishop Ward, after the little iron steed had commenced whistling in their suburbs. The weather has sometimes been very cold and some bad cuts and fills had to be made, as we discovered while rolling along the line. Between 400 and 500 persons were present to witness the driving of the last spike. Judge Farr and Bishops Nichols and Ward each drove in a spike, also preceding the

> The Brigham City folks had, previous to doing this work on this part of the line, an uncommonly large share in the building and extending of the U. N. R. R. line. Bishop Pi kins, who was with us, says that the Cache county people will soon push the line onward from Smillfield to Franklin. We see indeed but little money here, and we had but little before the crisis, but this don't put us in bondage financially. We have life's common comforts and feel able to make substantial improvements, which astonishes our friends abroad.
