

WHITE'S PURSUIT OF EVELYN NESBIT

The Facts Regarding It After Her Marriage Will Be Brought Out by Jerome.

ORDEAL BY NO MEANS OVER.

Details of the Trip to Europe to be Gone Into—Story of the Return to America to be Told.

New York, Feb. 22.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw has been waiting for a long time for a continuation of the ordeal which she is undergoing at the hands of Dist. Atty. Jerome. The Thaw trial was adjourned last night until Monday morning after little Mrs. Thaw having spent the entire day on the stand under a searching, flaying cross-examination at the hands of the district attorney.

On Monday morning she will again take the stand and will be forced to go into more details of her eventful young life. All day long she is expected to be on the stand and there is considerable question whether even then the attorney will be through with her. Her associations with both White and Thaw after her return from Europe in 1903; the interviews with Abe Hummel which she has denied she had any part in framing; the European trip of 1904; the incident of the Cumberland hotel and other incidents with Thaw, following her return; her marriage and the subsequent events up to the fatal night on the Madison Square Garden—none of these have been inquired into in cross-examination. It would seem that the climax of sensationalism had been reached yesterday, but it is said, the district attorney expects to bring out on Monday incidents of at least as sensational a character as those of yesterday.

No woman ever before faced a more terrible ordeal, on the witness stand than did Evelyn Nesbit Thaw—at an ordeal that is not yet half over.

Although it was very evident that this slender, frail, childish wife of Harry K. Thaw was under a great strain yesterday, she had not been able to keep to herself the secrets which she knew must injure her husband's chances. Throughout the day Harry Thaw sat in his accustomed place at the end of the table, flanked on both sides by his lawyers. When his wife went to the witness stand he was finally driven into a corner by his almost brutal questioning and took refuge in tears. But even then the tears did not seem to be caused so much by the details she was obliged to tell as by the fact that with all her fencing she had not been able to keep to herself the secrets which she knew must injure her husband's chances.

When court adjourned he hurried back to the Tombs with a smile on his face.

The detail of the European trip of 1904 is still to be gone into. The return to America and the false statement of Thaw's marriage to Evelyn Nesbit when the first scandal arose, is still to be told. The facts of the pursuit of the young woman by Stanford White after her marriage, which the defense told of in the opening days, must be brought out. The relations of the two before the marriage must be described in detail. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's ordeal is by no means over.

Of course, the actual truth of the story which Mrs. Thaw told her husband and which is said to have unbalanced his mind cannot be questioned. If she told him the story and as a result his mind became deranged, the truth of the story is immaterial. All that the cross-examination can develop is a doubt as to the veracity of the witness, a doubt as to whether she really did tell him or not. That is all the cross-examination can show—all but one thing. It is for the jury to decide whether or not the evidence which she has given is sufficient to make him incapable of knowing he was doing wrong when he killed White. Did Thaw's actions after he heard the story, did his relations with Evelyn Nesbit covering a period of two years after this revelation; did his treatment of her, and of White, and a thousand other things indicate that he was brooding over the story of that he was taking advantage of it? This is for the jury to decide and this is the doubt that Dist. Atty. Jerome is attempting to instill in the minds of the jurors.

Whatever the result may be, it is certain—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's ordeal is not nearly over.

Thaw was in his usual vigorous health today, and in his cell in the Tombs prison read the newspaper reports of his trial with lively interest. He declared that he was feeling fine and expected his wife to call soon.

FLORA McDONALD'S MIND IS A WRECK

The Woman Who Shot Guerin Raves and Imagines Many Strange Things.

EVIDENTLY SHE LOVED HIM.

When They Were School Children She Was Enamored of Him—Black-malling Story Exploded.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—With her mind almost completely wrecked, Mrs. Flora McDonald, who yesterday shot and killed Walter S. Guerin, was removed last night to the annex of the Harrison street police station, where her husband, Michael G. McDonald, spent most of the night with her.

After her removal her condition became gradually worse, and she could neither recognize McDonald nor others who had questioned her earlier in the day.

Bromides and hypodermic injections were given her almost every hour throughout the night, but she could not be quieted. At times she imagined the sun was shining over her head and that its rays had caused her head to burst.

After being quieted by her husband and attending physicians she would declare that she was suffering from aches and pains throughout her body. At other times her hallucinations were that she was a voice across the ocean in the midst of a storm. At another time she imagined that the annex was crowded with children.

McDonald was deeply affected by his wife's condition and frequently sobbed.

HER IMAGININGS.

For a time she imagined that she was on the summit of Pike's peak praying, and with a prayer she appealed to God to tell her what the trouble was that she had dragged her husband into.

All the while McDonald sat near her, striving to hold back his tears as he stroked her hair. From the time of the tragedy until a late hour last night Mrs. McDonald talked in a rambling and disconnected manner and little was obtained from her conversation. From other sources and also from pieces of crudely composed verse that were found in her handbag it was learned that Mrs. McDonald had been possessed of an all-absorbing passion—a love for someone.

The object of her affections was not disclosed in the verses, but developed that it was Walter Guerin. The verses were written on sheets of white paper in an uneven hand, and the writing is believed to be that of Mrs. McDonald.

Her death, death and undying love are among the subjects touched upon in the verses.

Mrs. McDonald's explanation to the police as to the motive for her crime seemed exploded by the statements of her husband.

THE BLACKMAILING CHARGE. Mrs. McDonald declared that Guerin had been leaving her a black mail note, that repeatedly he had obtained sums from her on threats of exposure. She declared he had followed her to California after she had fled to escape his attentions and renewed his demands.

This explanation, however, was contradicted by the words of McDonald. He said he never offered her a large sum of money, the sums practically having only been sufficient for the needs of the household or well-defined needs of the woman.

Statements from Guerin's relatives seemed to place a far different light upon the tragedy. They declared that since Guerin had been a boy in school, Mrs. McDonald had been enamored of him and that she had loved him with her attention even after he had used every influence to break his relations with her.

It was said late last night that Guerin recently became engaged to a West Side young woman. This situation was considered as significant, inasmuch as it may have meant that he had broken his relations with McDonald.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—Jerome K. Jerome's "Dovecot," dramatized into and christened "Susan in Search of a Husband," came to town last night, with Isabel Irving the charming American actress, as the bright particular star, though a whole stellar combination surrounded and scintillated with her. Among them was Marie Walworth, for years a star in her own authority, and a co-star with Louis James, and altogether a most competent and charming artist. For a considerable time she was leading woman for the famous English actor, E. S. Willard, and her own last venture was in conjunction with the magnificent production of "Amy Roberson." Her appearance on the stage again at this time, after a period of partial retirement as the personal instance of Miss Irving, another of the London favorite, the company is Jessie Lett, who before fame had settled down upon her, was wont to play "anything" at the Grand theater in the city.

Miss Irving, and Miss Lett, Robina Fenwick, and a pretty, chic and charming pair of comedienne, they were in the setting of the old Welsh inn and picturesque surroundings they unfolded a story of love and romance that was so convincing and so full of satisfaction. It is being witnessed by a large Washington birthday matinee this afternoon, and good business is assured for tonight, tomorrow afternoon and tomorrow night.

Orpheum—This week's bill is apparently out after the box office record in great shape with Harrison King and company, Bert Levy, Yuma, the Three Floods and the other good features as strong drawing cards. Next week Ned Yee and his Six Rolling Girls will be the headliner.

Grand—"A Jolly American Tramp," which opened a half week's engagement at the Grand last evening, is more of a laughing matter, though there is a plot running through it. But for the sayings, doings and singing of three persons, the play would be quite unsatisfactory. The trio make up for all that is lacking and furnish a satisfactory entertainment. These were James Smith, an Happy Jack, the tramp, Ella Le Page, a petite singer of catchy songs, and Eleanor Dunbar, who had the role of an Irish girl, and who made a bit with her singing and impersonations. A good sized audience witnessed the performance and the applause elicited showed that the many pleasing features of the evening were not overlooked. There is a special holiday matinee on this afternoon, and the "Society" will be the attraction. "Human Hearts" is the next attraction at the Grand, and the event is looked forward to with much interest by many who have seen the play and desire to see it again and by the "Society" who have heard so favorably discussed the absorbing story of life among the hills of Arkansas.

Nance O'Neil—The sale opens tomorrow for the Nance O'Neil engagement of one week, at the Salt Lake theater, beginning Monday. The opening performance is on Monday night and "The Songstress" will be the attraction for the first half of the week and "Magna" for the remainder. There will be Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

Lyric—"The Octopus" continues to be the bill at the Lyric.

BERT LEVY TO SPEAK.

Clever Illustrator to Occupy Pulpit at Temple B'nai Israel.

Bert Levy, the clever cartoonist and illustrator, will occupy Rabbi Freund's pulpit at Temple B'nai Israel this evening at 8 o'clock on invitation. All are invited to attend.

Arrangements in the meanwhile, have been perfected by Mr. Levy's manager, J. J. Murdoch, for him to return to Salt Lake in June, when he will lecture on the New York work and present the lecture will be illustrated with 15,000 feet of motion picture films and will probably be a great success.

Levy is a native of New York and has been invited to speak at the synagogue this evening, and his appearance at the Orpheum, where he is one of the features on the bill. In this connection he has written a letter to the following: a red hot letter he received from a Hebrew traveling man who went to see him work on Monday night.

It was said that Mr. Levy was too late in arriving to "go on" and his turn was substituted by a Hebrew monologue act last night. A great many people in the audience, including one of the critics of a morning paper, mistook the act for a lecture on the subject of the Hebrew people, and called him all kinds of names for ridiculing his own race. For a few extra dollars he was told to leave the stage and go to the back of the hall.

JOYOUS OCCASION.

University Club's Annual Banquet Goes With a Whirl.

The sixteenth annual banquet of the University club was held last evening, with 37 college men present at the feast. The room was well accommodated for the occasion, the tables were about full. The tables were arranged in the shape of the letter "U," with the toastmaster at the head. The list of toasts as prepared were: "To the University club," by Dr. E. D. Woodruff, who had been assigned, with an additional toast from Fred Lyon, a non-resident of California, and the toast of welcome to the club was presented. Between the toast college songs were sung, there was music from an orchestra, and a very excellent band. The menu card was a unique affair, on heavy folded board covered practically indestructible paper. By 10 o'clock, so that all were able to get home early. The function was characterized by the most enjoyable of the kind ever given by the club, and strengthened the ties of membership more than ever.

SURPRISE SPRUNG IN RAILROAD ROW

F. L. Morse, Assistant to President of Streetcar System Has Resigned.

SO MADAME RUMOR WHISPERS

News Spread Quickly and is Subject of Much Wonder and Gossip This Afternoon.

From what is considered an authentic source came a surprising bit of news this afternoon. A well founded rumor said F. L. Morse, assistant to the president of the Utah Light & Railway company, has resigned, the resignation to become effective March 1. An effort was made late this afternoon to locate Mr. Morse or other officials of the company to get a confirmation of the story, but this was unsuccessful. Mr. Morse was brought to Salt Lake from New York to take charge of the street car system when E. H. Harrison secured control of the system in November. While his title has him assistant to W. H. Bancroft, president of the company, the right of Morse to take charge of operation and during his stay here mapped out changes and improvements which have been notable. Under his direction extensive plans for the future betterment of the service have been mapped out. If Mr. Morse is to leave Salt Lake this city is a loser. Before coming to Salt Lake he had charge of car service across Brooklyn bridge, one of the busiest spots in the world.

SHEETS GETS DIAMOND.

Fred Wood, Hotel Clerk, Loses His Suit for Possession.

In the case of Fred Wood against Chief of Police Sheets, in which the possession of a diamond is involved, Judge Whitaker has rendered a decision in favor of the chief, and holds that he is entitled to keep the stone. The diamond was found by Wood over a year ago when he and Sergeant Hempel were searching the room of a bell boy who had been suspected of stealing some property from the Wilson hotel. Wood turned the diamond over to Chief Sheets as it was not part of the property, of which he was searching and after waiting a year for the owner to show up he demanded the stone of the chief. The latter contended that he had a right to keep it and pay the owner damages for the loss. Judge Whitaker has decided that the chief shall keep the diamond until the owner claims it.

SETTLED FOR LOOT.

Eclipse Grocery Incident Closed With Dismissal of Proceedings.

The attachment proceedings filed in the district court by the Eclipse Grocery & Meat company against W. R. Peterson, J. T. and Queen City restaurants have been dismissed by Judge Lewis, a settlement having been reached on forming a plan to pay the claims of the Eclipse grocery at the hands of Peterson, who it was alleged had stolen a large quantity of merchandise and sold it to the two restaurants at a discount and pocketed the money. The suit was to recover $200. Peterson and the Queen City restaurant people paid the company $250, and the case was dismissed. The Queen City restaurant men, who are Chinese, did not figure in the settlement but compelled the plaintiff to pay them damages for wrongful attachment of their property. The criminal actions brought against them have also been dismissed.

Mr. Tuke was not in any way implicated in the transaction and hence had no part in the settlement. He was working in the meat department at the store under Peterson and was arrested as an accomplice in the case.

LEGISLATIVE SIDELIGHTS.

Senator Rashband is a very busy man, preparing to give the legislature a large time in his home city.

A rumor was afloat yesterday in the senate that Harry Joseph was going to apply the house rules to the joint coal probing committee and demand a report within four days.

State institutions this year seem to be destined to content themselves with visits from committees only. So far no one has heard of a trip to any of the state schools, by the whole legislature.

The busy senatorial days are about to arrive. Every day the sessions get livelier and there is less ability shown by the leaders to hold the lid on. Some of the real fights are now finding their way into open session instead of being held behind closed committee doors.
