The day was spent in a legal con-trovers; over the jurisdiction of the court and the examination of Harden. Neither Prince Zu Eulenberg nor any of the other notable witnesses was

There is reason to believe that ne-gotistions are still on foot looking to the withdrawal by the public prosecu-tor of the charges against Harden on condition that Harden sign a document satisfactory to Count von Moltke.

HARDEN'S APPEARANCE.

Maximilien Harden was haggard and wora and his face paied and flushed alternately when he appeared before the criminal court today, and took his place in the dock to answer the accusation brought in the name of the state that he had offended not only against Gen. Count Kuno von Moltke, but against the interests of society in writing in Die Zukunft of Von Moltke, Prince Philip Eulenberg, Gen. Count Wilhlem von Hohenau and others in the manner in which he did.

Harden smiled wearlly as he acknowledged the solicitude of the balliff in helping him remove the fur cout in which he was wrapped. Maximillen Harden was haggard and

The police court officials asked if Harden felt strong enough to follow the proceedings. "I hope so," replied

Harden.

The president then invited him to leave the prisoner's bench and take a more comfortable chair next to the attorneys. The bailiff spread out Harden's fur coat on the chair in order to make him as comfortable as possible. The prisoner was shaken from time to time with fits of coughing, which he tried in vain to suppress. Dr. Marx, Harden's physician, said when Harden got up this morning that he absolutely disapproved of his appearance in court and disayowed all responsibility for the and disavowed all responsibility for the effect on his health.

Harden listened languidly to the arguments of the lawyers concerning the jurisdiction of the court. These lasted for two hours.

The judges then announced that they were competent to try the case. Count von Moitke's attorneys reserved the right to ask that the public be excluded during the taking of testimony relating to shareful vices. lating to shameful vices.

He said he had no desire to call witnesses to prove that Von Moltke was abnormal. "I have a definite conviction," the prisoner said. "I have said nothing libetous. If the court assumes that the articles are defanatory I am here to bear any penalty."

Hoffmann, the Pinkerton detective in charge of the funi accompanied the police into the mountains and was present at the time of the arrest.

STANFORD FUNDS.

San Jose, Cal., Dec. 16.-The board of rustees of Stanford university, the larget holder of high grade eastern secur ities on the Pacific coast, has obtained a construction of the university trusts lites on the Pacific coast, has obtained a construction of the university trusts from Judge H. H. Hyland of the superior court of Santa Clara county, especially permitting them to relievest the endowment of the university in San Francisco real estate and loans thereon.

This is a most significant ruling, for it means that about fifteen million dollars till be turned into the San Francisco real estate market, though the process of reinvesting this immense sum will naturally not be a speedy one. Eastern securities are low just now and the withdrawal of the funds must be slow and cautious to secure the best advantage.

The intention of the trustees indicated that they regard investments in San Francisco real estate as preferable to investments in the highest class of eastern securities. In fact they so state in their petition upon which the decree of Judge Hyland is based. The investments they select will be down-town property improved and unimproved, throughout the commercial district. The only property which the trustees now hold in San Francisco is the lot on which the Stanford residence stood on Nob Hill and a smaller lot across the street.

"Under all circumstances, I feel constrained in this summary proceeding, involving only the question of probable cause, to hold that the indictment is sufficient to warrant the removal of the defendants to the court of original jurisdiction where the questions of proceedings may receive fair and deliberate consideration."

Continuing, the court said:
"By stipulation between the parties, the legal questions involving the sufficiency of the judgment were to be first determined. The defendants reserved the right, if the decision was adverse to them on questions of law, to

This opinion, therefore, is not intended to preclude the defendants from the privileges of reservation."

This means that Barber and Moowill bring witnesses from Idaho to attempt to show there was no continuous consultant.

Almost immediately flames shot nigh in the air and spread to the runs of houses that had fallen, adding greatly to the terror of those who were in the immediate neighborhood of the disaster.

It is estimated that about 25 persons were killed and a hundred others in-jured. Wild rumors followed fast on the explosion, placing the number of killed and wounded into the thousands and troops were ordered out to aid the firemen in clearing away the wreekage and succoring the wounded. Several houses that stood above the magazine partially collapsed and their destruction was completed by fire. One of these was an emigrants' lodging-

Holse, lasho, DRec. 19.—New and damaging testimony was presented by the state today in the trial of George A. Pettibone for the mruder of ex-Gov. Steunenberg. ing of his hunting trip with his father and Orchard.

On the night of the Independence depot explosion, he said, Orchard left their camp early in the night and did not return until dawn, corroborating Orchard's testimony on that point, When the trio went to Denver, young Neville stated, he and his father went to Pettibone's store and his father had a long talk with Pettibone, parts of which he overheard.

"Then I will squeal," was one of the remarks he said he heard his father make. They also went to Western Federation headquarters, he said, and his father had a long talk with a man he did not know and could not identify.

Young Neville was not a witness in the Haywood trial. He was brought to Boise, but was not placed on the stand. It was expected that Mrs. Ida Toney, second wife of Harry Orchard, would also testify today, but the cross-examination of Neville had been only fairly begun, when the hour for adjournment was reached. Mrs. Toney will be called tomorrow and the state will rest its case after her testimony.

Orchard was on the stand most of the day, but his redirect examination brought out no new points.
