

PROMISES TO SIGN PLEDGE FOR BABY

W. H. McFarland Says He Will Never Touch Liquor if He Is Awarded Child.

COURT, HOWEVER, SAYS "NO."

Judge Morse of Opinion That Juvenile Court Officials Are the Proper
Custodians of Infant.

In a decision rendered today, Judge Morse held that Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McFarland should not be permitted to adopt the infant taken from them by the juvenile court officials some weeks ago. The McFarlands fought hard to secure the child, and to be able to legally call it their own. Nearly a dozen witnesses came into court and testified on behalf of petitioners, and at the close of the hearing McFarland went upon the stand a second time, and declared that if he could have the custody of the little girl he would promise never to touch another drop of intoxicants as long as he lived, and that he would do all in his power to give the child a proper rearing.

This declaration on McFarland's part was made to offset the accusations that he sometimes drank, and the burden of evidence was to the effect that the child had been treated most tenderly and was well taken care of by its foster-parents.

The petition of the McFarlands was opposed by Guardello Brown and Mrs. Young, probation officers of the juvenile court, and by M. M. Woods of the Associated Charities. The child was obtained by the McFarlands four hours after its birth, May 30 last, from its mother at the home of Mrs. Lizzie Geisler, keeper of a private hospital. The mother turned over her babe to strangers, and accepted a $5 gold piece at the close of a very short interview. The strongest case made by the petitioners against the proposed adoption was that the McFarlands were at times found in the society of undesirable persons. The girl is at the State street orphanage, where she will be cared for until a home elsewhere may be found.

CONDITIONS OF BURBIDGE

Injuries More Serious Than at First Supposed—How He Saved C. A.
Quigley from Injury.

Word came from the home of Captain J. B. Burbidge this afternoon to the effect that he had a rather bad night but that his condition was somewhat improved this afternoon. Physicians went to the home today and examined the fractured limb by means of an X-ray machine. It was decided to delay setting the limb until the swelling goes down. It is feared that the knee cap of the right leg is also dislocated.

Capt. Burbidge was able this morning to give a brief account of the accident. He said that the machine turned over so quickly that he was unable for some time to realize the cause.

He saw that part of the heavy car was resting on Mr. Quigley's head so that his face was crushed into the ground. He called to Captain Burbidge to help him get out and Burbidge arose to go to the machine but immediately fell to the ground. He did not know that his leg was broken until he tried to walk to Mr. Quigley. He managed, however, to crawl to the machine and got his shoulders under the auto and tried to lift it. The weight was too much for him, and he then heroically crawled to a fence and ripped off a board with which he tried to pry up the heavy car. Unable to do this he called for help and a farmer came to his assistance. Between them they were able to raise the machine far enough to permit Mr. Quigley to get out. Had not part of the car rested on his head, beyond Mr. Quigley's head, the latter would undoubtedly have been killed outright.

MARTIN WAS ANGRY.

Complaint Filed Against Councilman
Charging Abusive Language.

On Saturday afternoon Assistant City Attorney E. A. Rogers issued a complaint against Councilman L. D. Martin, charging him with using abusive language toward Charles Crane. The complaint is sworn to by Mr. Crane and a warrant issued.

When Martin learned this morning that a complaint had been filed against him he reported at police headquarters and had a consultation with Attorney Rogers with the result that he was released without bail and the case set for tomorrow morning for pleading.

The trouble between Crane and Martin occurred on the night of the bond election at a cigar store, 217 1/2 Main street, and according to Mr. Crane, Martin gave vent to a round of vituperation according to Mr. Crane's account to was in the cigar store discussing the result of the election, when Martin came down the street, saw Crane, and said to him:

"Now, you G. D. S. B., you'll be quiet now, and I am going to break your G. D. face."

Martin did not assault Crane, but, it is alleged, continued to use abusive language and make threats.

Mr. Martin is said to have become angry at Mr. Crane because the latter strenuously opposed the bond issue and made a hard hit at the "American" administration. He made speeches on the streets and elsewhere against the bond and so earnestly did he oppose the "American" party policies that Martin became enraged and took it upon himself to abuse the city administration.

Whether or not Crane said anything personally about Martin is not known, but the court must be satisfied that he abused anyone who dared to oppose the party of which he is more or less a shining light. It is expected that an interesting story replete with sensational features will be told by the councilman as brought to trial in Judge Diehl's court. Martin arranged to plead tomorrow morning and the case will then be set for trial.

PIONEERS HONORED.

Unique Program Carried Out in the Seventeenth Ward Last Night.

A somewhat unique, but very interesting program, was carried out in the Mutual Improvement meeting held in the Seventeenth ward last night, at which 35 persons who had arrived in Utah before the advent of the railroad were shown special honors. Up to 1897, only the 143 men, three women and two children who arrived in the valley of the Great Salt Lake in July, 1847, under the immediate leadership of President Brigham Young, had been recognized and honored as the pioneers of Utah, but under the rulings of the semi-centennial jubilee, held in 1897, all those who arrived in the valley at any time during the year 1847 were enrolled and honored as pioneers, and they have been thus honored since. But as only a few of these first pioneers are now alive, it has been suggested that the pioneer period of Utah might consistently be extended so as to include the first 25 years of the occupancy of the Great Salt Lake valley by white people, or in other words, that all the immigrants who crossed the plains and mountains with pack trains, or on horseback, or with handcarts, should be honored as pioneers. Acting on the basis of this suggestion it was discovered that the Seventeenth ward numbered among its inhabitants about 50 pioneers, of which 35, as stated, were present last night. Among the features of the evening was an address entitled "Prediction of the Saints," another address by William Langston, Jr., entitled "The Prophet Brigham Young as a Leader," a solo, "Come, come, ye saints," etc., by Alma C. Clayton, the youngest son of the late Elder William Clayton, the Composer of an address by Sarah S. Pond, entitled "Incidents on the Plains;" another address, entitled "Entrance into the Valley," by Florence Tingey, and a short speech on the "Pioneers of Utah," by Elder Andrew Jensen. The pioneers present who had previously been decorated with an appropriate badge were addressed in affectionate terms by Bishop Franklin S. Tingey. Of the parties honored on this occasion, only three, one of whom was the veteran James Lawson, arrived in Utah in 1847. In speaking of the event Elder Andrew Jensen said this morning:

"This is the first attempt ever made in Utah, so far as I know, to honor the founders of the settlements in this inter-mountain region, beyond the original pioneers of 1847, but I trust the beautiful example set in the Seventeenth ward last night may be emulated by others and finally become universal in all the cities, towns and villages of fair Utah. Thus to extend honors to pioneers generally will not in the least degree detract from that special credit or those special honors that will forever cleave to the earliest pioneers—the noble men and women who first made the valleys of Utah hum with the industry of white inhabitants in the memorable pioneer year, 1847."

HARRY PETERSON'S FUNERAL.

Many Friends Pay Last Respects to Remains of Young Man.

Impressive funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Second ward meetinghouse over the remains of Harry Peterson, who met with a fatal accident while diving in Crook last Thursday, breaking his neck and paralyzing his arms and legs from which he died Friday night at 8 o'clock at the Latter-day Saints hospital. Bishop Heber C. Iverson conducted the services. A quartet composed of George Bowles, Robert H. Siddoway, Herbert A. White and Seymour B. Young, Jr., sang "Abide With Me," "Gloria," "Comfort Me," "Rock of Ages," and "Some Day We'll Understand." The speakers were high tribute to Harry, who had been an employee at the Consolidated Wagon & Machine company; spoke of his many good qualities and kindly disposition.

Elder Young was followed by Robert H. Siddoway, George Bowles, H. A. White, C. A. Haacke, Albert Ellgren and Bishop H. C. Iverson. Each spoke words of comfort to the bereaved family.

Prayer was offered by Charles A. Haacke; benediction by Bishop Heber C. Iverson. Many beautiful floral offerings were placed on the casket and stand, from the employees of the Consolidated Wagon & Machine company, and from the Sunday school class to which Harry belonged and from his boy associates in the ward and dear friends.

The pallbearers were Albert Peterson, Harry Stevens, Glen Osborne, Thomas Brown, William Brown and Anthony White, associates of Harry.

The last named jumped in the stream and pulled Harry out of the water. Burial was at the city cemetery. Robert H. Siddoway dedicated the grave.

BAMBERGER LINE OPENS TOMORROW

Big Celebration at Lagoon to Commemorate Realization
Of Senator's Dream.

BUILT WHILE OTHERS TALKED

As a Result Utah Has Her First Interurban, Something Promising
Inc calculable Benefit.

The Salt Lake-Ogden road, the Bamberger line, will be opened for through traffic from this city to Ogden, tomorrow. Senator Bamberger, president of the line, has invited prominent men of both cities to participate in a celebration, in which the Ogden and Salt Lake Press clubs will take leading parts. The writers of this city and Ogden will compete in an athletic program during the day, beginning with a baseball game in the afternoon and ending with a bowling match (on the bowling alleys) in the evening. Tomorrow is circus day at Salt Lake but despite this competition a big crowd is expected out at Lagoon, where the day's program will be held for the newspaper boys will furnish circus enough for anyone.

TRAIN SCHEDULE.

Six trains a day are to be run over the new interurban line. These will leave Salt Lake at 4:45, 8:30 and 11 a. m. and 2, 4, 6 and 8 p. m. and will arrive at Ogden at 6:15 and 10 a. m. and 12:30, 5:40, 8:45 and 11:25 p. m. From Ogden to this city the hours of departure are: 6:30, 8:30 and 11 a. m. and 2, 4, 6 and 8 p. m. and the hours of arrival in this city are 8 and 10 a. m. and 12:30, 3:35, 5:35 and 11:05 p. m. This schedule will afford the residents of both cities plenty of opportunities to exchange visits and most any portion of a day can be spent by the residents of one city in the sister city. It will be noted there is a 4:45 a. m. train out of Salt Lake. This will give the morning newspapers of this city early delivery advantages in Ogden. The afternoon newspapers will also be able to get to Ogden by supper time, while the Ogden newspapers can be on the streets of this city in good time.

BUILT, DIDN'T TALK.

Depot locations are: Salt Lake, Third West and South Temple; Ogden, Washington and Thirty-first street. The fare for the round trip from this city to Ogden will be $1.50, including the trip up Ogden canyon, while the round trip fare to Ogden city and return will be $1.20 cheaper than the Rio Grande or Oregon Short Line. This interurban is the first Utah has obtained, for while other builders were small boys who were eating dried apples and drinking water, Senator Bamberger was doing something—even during the crisis when money was tighter than small boys who were eating dried apples and drinking water. The money doing something—even during the crisis when money was tighter than small boys who were eating dried apples and drinking water. POLICE ROUND UP FORTY VAGRANTS

About 4 o'clock this morning Officers Pierce, Phillips and Doty boarded the patrol wagon and swooped down upon 40 weary Willies who were sleeping in Pioneer park. The raid was the result of many complaints received from citizens of that neighborhood about the vagrants who congregated in the park and spent their spare time in begging around the neighborhood.

When the officers arrived on the scene there was a scramble and a scuffle of the vagrants got away but the officers managed to round up an even 40 and hauled them in relays to police headquarters. Arriving at the station they were herded into the cellar and the officers set about the task of holding a "Kangaroo court." Pierce acted as judge, Phillips as prosecutor and Doty as clerk. The "judicial tribunal" was opened with much dignity and ceremony and the bums were lined up before the judge. The first man, a fellow named "Judge" Pierce, was asked to plead but was simply asked a plain and pointed question, namely:

"Which will you have—90 days in jail or 20 minutes to hike from the limits of our beautiful city?"

ALL BUT THREE LEAVE TOWN.

All but three took the 20 minutes, and to insure their safe deportation from the city they were given an escort and told to beat it for other points. The three who declined to avail themselves of the mercy of the "court" are Fred Smith, Charles Lewis and J. R. Dempsey. They were arraigned this morning before Judge C. B. Diehl of the criminal division of the city court on the charge of vagrancy. Smith and Lindsay pleaded not guilty, but Dempsey pleaded guilty and begged for a chance to get out of town.

Asst. City Atty. Rogers stated to the court that the men were persistent beggars and worthless characters. The cases were set for tomorrow morning and, in all probability, the men will be sorry they did not obey the injunction of "Judge" Pierce.

The thermometer rose to the dignity of 92 degrees yesterday afternoon, which drove people out of town to the resorts in crowds. The going to the lake alone, and 2,000 of these went into the water. REGULARS AND GUARDS IN CAMP

Mobilization of Those from Utah,
Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska
And the Dakotas Complete.

MANEUVERS BEGIN TOMORROW

Many Problems Will be Presented—
Nine Thousand Men—Every Arm
Of Service Represented.

Camp Emmett Crawford, Wyo., Aug. 3.—The mobilization of troops of the regular army and national guard from Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota is almost complete. Maneuvers to continue for a period of 30 days have been begun with regular troops participating. The maneuvers for the militia of the several states will probably be begun tomorrow.

The camp is located in the Crow creek forest reserve or fort D. A. Russell target and maneuver grounds, a vast tract of country in which evidence of civilization is lacking in the extreme and which affords almost every diversity of terrain known, with the exception of large bodies of water. Tactical problems for the soldiers embracing the application of almost every principle of the conduct of war will be possible and as many problems as the time permits will be presented.

The eastern portion of Wyoming has experienced for the last few days some severe rain storms, cloudbursts having occurred along the Union Pacific line from pale creek, west to Evanston. There are about 7,000 soldiers in the camp and with the arrival of those who are expected to arrive today and tomorrow Brig.-Gen. Morton will have at his disposal a force of approximately 9,000 troops. Every arm of the service is represented in the camp.

JUDGE PARKER HERE

New York Democrat Spends Sunday
In Salt Lake En Route To Coast.

Alton Brooks Parker of New York, formerly Democratic candidate for the presidency, was a Salt Lake visitor yesterday. He arrived in company with Delaney Nicholl, formerly district attorney of New York, over the Union Pacific yesterday morning, and left last night on the Los Angeles limited. Judge Parker spent a few hours at Saltair, and under the chaperonage of D. E. Burley went on a sightseeing tour of Salt Lake. He did not care to disabuse politics, declaring that he had said all he wished to on this subject immediately after the Denver convention.

"You have a great city here in the west," he said. "It seems to be growing remarkably fast, and its beauty has surprised me a great deal."

The itinerary of Judge Parker is west from the Yellowstone park, from which he will go to Portland, and then on to Los Angeles, where he will proceed by boat to Buffalo. The fact that Judge Parker's coming was unannounced prevented the local Democracy from preparing an entertainment in honor of the prominent Democrat called at the Knottford, however late in the afternoon, and learned that he had just left for Los Angeles.
