BUSINESS WAS BRISKER.

Carisa, Ajax and Star Con. Ruled Higher on Good Reports-Contury Also Advanced.

Trading on the mining exchange this morning was considerably more active than on yesterday and especially so in a certain few stocks. The transactions aggregated 50,290 shares involving $23,513.87. The stocks most heavily dealt in were Ajax, Carisa and Star Con., each of which closed at higher figures than ruled during the first transactions. The advance in the prices of these stocks has been partly due to heavier business in them and to the good reports freely circulated concerning the properties. Century was traded in at better figures, selling as high as 20 from an opening at 25. Generally, there was small change in the quotations today from those of yesterday.

Ajax began the trading with sales at 53%, after which with transactions involving 4,800 shares the stock went Mp to 54%, at which it closed. Carisa was the most heavily traded in stock this morning, and ruled between 60 and 66½. Some Daly-West changed hands at not higher than $29.75 and Lower Mammoth brought 1.06. May Day fell off 1½ cents from 62 on transactions amounting to 2,000 shares and Star Con continued its advance a little. Reports say that a strike of some importance has been made on the property, but the extent of it is unknown. This morning's call ended with the following bid and asked figures record-

SILVER-LEAD CONFERENCE

Total of 50,290 Shares Dealt in Utah-Idaho-Colorado Representatives to Meet Tomorrow.

MEETING AT ALTA CLUB.

Mining Men Met Last Evening and Discussed Issues of Denver Conference-Other Matters.

Several events of interest to Utah mining men will happen tomorrow. There will be a meeting in Denver as first announced by the "News" of representatives of the silver-lead interests of Idaho, Utah and Colorado and the question of forming an organization for the protection of the producers of those metals, and the securing of more advantageous working charges for reducing the ores containing those metals, will be discussed and probably acted upon. Col. E. F. Holmes will represent Utah and there may be other mining men from this state also present.

At the Alta club last evening there was a largely attended meeting of mining men who gathered for the purpose of discussing the points to be presented by Utah's representatives at the Den-ver conference. Everything was ar-ranged agreeably and Col. Holmes was told to act firmly and to the point with the assurance of the support of the owners of the principal lead-silver producers of this state behind him. That important developments will result from the Denver meeting there is no doubt.

BINGHAM CON. MEETING.

The work for the forthcoming year will also be discussed and planned.

CON. MERCUR MEETING. In the officers of the Consolidated Mercur Gold Mining company there will be a meeting of the directors tomorrow, at which the question of continuing quarterly dividends will come up. There is no doubt according to statements of officers of the company, that the regu-lar $125,000 dividend will be posted. On payment of this dividend the company will have distributed $500,000 in four consecutive quarterly dividends.

CALIFORNIA DIRECTORS. Organized Yesterday With Rice President and Farrell Manager.

The newly elected directors of the California Mining company met in this city late yesterday and organized with W. V. Rice, president, James Farrell, general manager and Secretary Scott of the Quincy company, secretary and treasurer, Mr. Farrell stated last evenleast for some little time.

LOWER MAMMOTH ANNUAL. Reports Were Submitted and Old Board Was Re-Elected.

Reports submitted to the stockholders of the Lower Mammoth Mining company at the annual meeting late yesterday show that the company marketed ores during 1901 of the value of $74,-041.46, expended $42,147.40 in extending the development of the property; applied $10,226.20 for buildings and other permanent equipment and expended $9,500 on old debts. The indebtedness of $27,000 of a year ago was reduced to $19,031 at the present time. The report was considered as favorable and after re-electing the old board of directors and providing that the super-intendent shall forward weekly reports on the condition of the property to the office, and that the secretary shall post a statement monthly regarding the company's financial condition the meeting adjourned.

The report of the mine's condition submitted by Superintendent Ball dis closed that during the year the shaft was sunk 220 deeper, or to the 1,000-foot level, while 1536 feet in levels was run, with an upraise from the 1,000 to the 700-foot level. His report further Indicated fine physical conditions at the property, while everything is now in shape for the more economic opening up of the ore bodies.

BEAVER COUNTY SMELTER. All Advices Go to Show That Big

Smelter is Contemplated.

In a recent issue the Milford Times discusses the probability of a big smel-ter being erected for the treatment of Beaver county ores. That such a smel-ter will in all probability soon be erected was mentioned in the "News" some time ago, and on the authority of a man who represents the biggest moneyed interests now operating in Beaver county. This gentleman in a report to his New England associates advocated the immediate erection of a smelter near the "Old Hickory" pro-perty near Milford. As his reason for doing so, he stated that the low grade but immense ore bodies of the "Old Hickory" would turn out millions of dollars if treatment could be made of the ores on the ground.

Speaking further, he said that within five years the Beaver district will be one of the most active and one of the blevest in the country.

The "Milford Times" says: "Information received by us is to the effect that the location of the smeller that is to be erected to treat the ores of this region will be decided within a very region will be sected within a very short time, possibly within a few days. Two large syndicates operating in Beaver county have practically decided to pool their interests and orect a plant of great capacity. Whether this smel-ter will be built at the present town of Milford or as some point one or two miles away, or possibly at Salt Lake City, depends, as we understand the situation, in a large measure upon the people of Milford themselves. Assurance is given that the location of the plant may be influenced by certain ation for its judges, so they may relieved of any necessity of engagin in commerce or business of any kin and public opinion should restrict the to the legitimate duties of their omed In this connection another matter d mands attention. As the law now no distinction is made betwee the judges of the Suprem and district courts in the next of salaries; all receiv the same compensation. All of th judges should receive higher salaries but the salaries of the justies of th Supreme court should be measurabl larger than those of the district judges

MILEAGE QUESTION. There is also a fust complaint con-cerning the payment of the expenses of the district judges while on the cir-cuit. These are defrayed in the form of mileage prescribed by the constitu of. The constitution provides: "Un-til otherwise provided by law, the sala-ries of Supreme and district judges shall be $5,000, and mileage, payable quarterly, out of the state treasury." (Art. 8, sec. 20.)

The mileage, as fixed by law, is too low to enable the judges to defray their actual expenses in many cases. If the judge has a long distance to go and but a short time to stay at the place of holding court away from his home, he may possibly be enabled to discharge his actual expenses with the mileage allowed him by the state; but, if he has a short distance to travel and a long time to stay, he is actually out of pocket. It would be but just to pay the actual expenses of the judges while away from home on the circuit, or employed in holding court for each other.

Whether in view of the constitutional provision above quoted the legislature has the power to do this, may be a Possibly, a statute largely increasing the mileage to be allowed with an added proviso that in no case should the sum exceed in the aggregate the actual expenses of the judge, would be unobjectionable. Whether the salaries of the judges can be changed by statute so as to apply to the persons in office. at the time of the enactment, is a grave question made by the constitu-tion. Whatever may be its answer, the next legislature should increase the salodes of the judges, and, if the constitution shall prevent its application to the en incumbents, in any event, the law en and will apply to their successors. NOMINATING CONVENTIONS. A question relating to the methods by which candidates for judicial office were nominated in the political conventions, was prominently presented in this city last fall. Two candidates for the offiof city judge were to be nominated by each party, and the result in each conabout through combinations and per-sonal solicitation of the nominees. At a meeting of the bar, called by your president pursuant to a request made by a number of lawyers, candidates were se lected and an independent judicial ticket placed before the people. This action was had but a very short time before the election, and, as was to be exnat successful. The movement, how not successful. The movement, now-east saived as a protest against the nrithods sometimes employed in puliti-cal conventions to secure desired te-sults, and to condemn personal selecttation and combination on the part undicates to secure neminations for judicial office. There ought not to be two opinions upon this question, and when the issue shall be properly and fairly presented to the people, I have no strongrolls and begs his way to nomination? Is there any more sure way to lessen the dignity of the judge, with a resulting loss of respect for his office, than to place upon the bench a man who has fought his way through the primaries and conventions to claim the prize as a reward for his superior adroftness and skill in the art of pol tics? When a man asserts for him-self that he has the learning, experience, and character necessary for the station, his fitness may at once be dis-trusted. In the nature of things, one the really possesses the qualifications and spensably necessary for the judicial office, will naturally also possess the modesty and elevation of mind and character which makes self-assertion mpossible. I would not condemn the principle underlying our popular government which remits to the people the omination as well as the election of public officers.

I admit the necessity of conducting

the government by and through politi-cal parties, and of the selecting of candidates by conventions. But, I would dominate the conventions with a forceful and enlightened public sentiment, which would make impossible profane ntrusion into the sacred temple of jus-ice, Our judges must be men of learnng and experience, who reach their offices through natural processes of seection by their fellow-citizens, solely because of their fitness. So far as the estion of professional learning and dantitude is concerned, it would seem that the lawyer is better enabled to decide than the layman, Meeting his felows daily in the conflicts of pro-essional life, he is quick to mark and note the evidences of fessional tudious habits, research and learning, as reflected by a truly legal mind in reponse as well as in action. No one so well as he can determine such a puestion; indeed, no one has the oppor-unity. In matters of personal integrity and character, the electorate at large may reach a proper conclusion without professional aid. It is manifestly true, that in the selection of udges, the assistance of the bar is re-uired, and it should be afforded at roper times and in proper ways con-cientiously and with definite purpose, do not claim for a moment that our udges should be selected by the lawalone, but I do assert that the bar this state should wield a potent influence in the conventions in the mat-ter of judicial nominations. If it has no candidates in an individual or personal sense, and will select from the persons who are willing to accept the office those who are best fitted for its duties, without fear or favoritism, it cannot be doubted that its voice will be heard and consideration given to its

25c., 50c., $1.50. J. C. AVER CO., Lowell, Mass have taken up this question with energy and firmness. Prior to every election when judges are to be chosen, a committee undertakes an investigation of the antecedents, personal character and professional fitness of every aspirant for the bench. This investigation is uncompromising and thorough, and, upon the report of the committee, the sociation acts, affirming or denying to each candidate the requisite qualifications. Thereupon, nominating convention as a rule make their selections from among the number of candidate who have passed the scrutiny of th bar. It is at once seen that such action by a bar association is not justly subject to the criticism that the bar is attempting to dictate nominations to the people. The bar does not say to the nominating convention you shall you ought not to nominate such a man There are times when negation is more potential than affirmation.

I believe that much can be accomplished along these lines, if we as law-yers, will but lend our aid. Ought we to complain if incompetent men are ases when we neglect the opportunitie afforded us, and fail at the right time and in the right way to exert the pow erful influence that our united action would give? As individuals, we may be unable to resist the onward rush of the political boss and heeler, swarming the primaries and conventions in a dis-graceful strife for power and place; but, as an association, we can, if we will, concentrate public sentiment in support of a public service and for the fublic weal. Do you complain that your court of last resort performs its duties in such a way as not to develor the greatest capacity of its members and consequently fails to achieve the best results by its judgments? Such subject is pre-eminently one for con-sideration by this bar association, which can find legitimate and proper means of enforcing the necessary reform. It is true that the profession the law is scandalized and brought into contempt by the unprofessional methods and conduct of some practictioners? Are there any inferior judicial officers who engage in reprehensible practices in order to secure business? The remedy in such cases may be found by this association if it will undertake the service. In all sincerity, I ask you to give your undivided and careful attention to these great questions. TO BUILD UP ASSOCIATION.

Gentlemen of the Bar association, I appeal to you collectively and indi-vidually, to act at once, enter upon the vork of building up and strengthening your association. I appeal to the law-yers of the state who are not members, to unite with us in the work of maintaining and uplifting the standard of professional ethics and judicial capacity, and thus may we perform a duty which we owe to our noble profession and, at the same time, preserve and protect the rights of all the people of this commonwealth.

ATTORNEY LEE'S ADDRESS. Discusses the Uncertainty of Law; Its Cause and Remedy.

Attorney William A. Lee also referred ndirectly yet pointedly to the suprem court in his address under the above caption and said: In a somewhat lengthy opinion containing many citations, none of which supported the doctrine, the court succeeded in convincing itself of the correctness of the rule." Attention was also directed to the fact that the statute under which the action was brought provided that a writ of mandate might issue to compethe performance of an act which the law specially enjoins, and Mr. 1 added: "Now if the writ can only sue to compel the performance of an act which the law specially enjoins, it is self-evident that the writ will not issue to compel the performance of a act which the law has not enjoined. If a statute is unconstitutional it is not a law and hence could not be a law that enjoined any kind of duty on any kind of an officer."

Dealing directly with the salary case,

Mr. Lee said that counsel for the re-lator Varian & Richards), cited the Thoreson case, which was conclusive of the questions at Issue if that doe trine were to prevail, and would fectively prevent the auditor i pleading the unconstitut onality of the act, but at the same time counsel, he said, while disclaiming to question the soundness of the Thoreson decision proceeded at great length to consider the constitutional question involved in the salary case. Mr. Les then said that the learned Judge (Bask'n) who wrote the opinion in the salary case, first on nounced that noither the validity no the constitutionality of the act in creasing the salary was in question and then devoted the remainder of the opinion to discussing the constitution al question involved, and finelly reached the conclusion that the fixing of the salaries of officers by the con stitution was not a fixing of salarie by law, and that the term law as used in the constitution did not include the instrument itself. It was thus seen that there are now two leading cases on the question. One holds that an of-ficer will not be heard to plead in justification of the non-performance of an act, that it would violate the constitution, and the other permits bim to do so, but holds the law consultational,

Railroad.

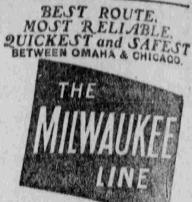

Of the hundreds of railroads in the United States, only one is longer than the Burlington Route. It owns nearly 8,500 miles of perfectly-equipped railroad. It runs through eleven great states. It operates more fast trains than any other western railroad.
Forty miles an hour is no trick at all on the Burlington. Fifty is not uncommon. And on the 100-mile stretch between Omaha and Chicago there. and Chicago, there are no than six trains which, day after day and night after night make sixty miles an hour with clock-
