

DESERET EVENING NEWS.

The only day paper, edited by a man who has been in the service of the people for many years, and who is now a member of the Legislature.

Price 10¢ per copy. To 100, and Postage, 10¢ additional. Advertising rates on application. Subscriptions, $1.00 per year, or 10¢ monthly.

THE DESERET NEWS.

A 10¢ a page Magazine, the deepest and most interesting weekly in the country, a review of books, history, science, literature, politics, and other subjects.

OF THE SELFISH SEX.

A STINGING INDICTMENT FORMULATED BY MRS. LESLIE.

You Are Free to Consider Women Selfish, but That Writer Hates the Country—Now—Man's Conduct in Public Conveniences Increased as Proof.

Copyright 1891 by American Press Association.

MOST of the traditions of our country are accepted as matter of gospel by all the men and generally by the women. This tradition is to the effect that women in general are less intelligent and less capable than men, and sometimes really demand more care taken of them by men and, at all, have deserved the way they do not deserve, the dower of it, with eager and humble thanks, etc., if he chooses to trade upon her civility and open a competence; they do not respond with that undivided and sad and dimmed-to-eye stare.

It is true that I have never seen any such forcible proceedings upon the part of any one sex, nor have I noticed the timid and helpless condition men seem to assume in the presence of women, but I have seen my opportunities are few. It seems to me that ever since I can remember men have been after this education and women have more or less submitted to it, until encouraged by this same sex to rebel. They have rebelled against their friends and relatives and allowed no longer to allow their sons to be either stoned, killed or dismissed away from them. And what is worse of all, the soldiers use the language of submission, do not deny that they are naturally weak, and yet they are trying to strip their daughters of the consciousness of independence, and swing upon their sons in the street cars or elevated road carriage, hold them in the most positive manner.

The man of my acquaintance defines his wife as "a give up my seat to a poor old woman, or to a very pretty woman, or to a widow whose house I visit," and he seemed to feel that his consciousness were wide and noble. Another said—and in fact I could not begin to count the men who have said the same sort of thing in one place or another: "I always give up my seat to anybody if I am tired and hungry, and I want to read my newspaper as I go to work. I pay for a seat and I want to sit down, and when I get up to some place, charioting women who has done nothing all day but tomcats around the shop, sit like a group with her acquaintances. I need not as much as she does, and I mean to keep it." And I really think every man of every race will make the same answer when I ask him: "Loved indeed below! That's the way to put it."

This man is whom I expressed my opinions to this master said: "I know it seems a little hard at first to you dear visitors to submit to this sort of saying: 'Thank you, but you are my mother and I'll take your bus seat for so long that it is no more than fair we should have our knapsacks.' Turn and turn about to the poor."

"Then I replied: 'I had such a pity yesterday. I gave up my seat to a particular young woman, followed, probably, by others, and she was a widow, or whatever, and she had the last seat left, and she wanted to sit down, but still say weak in the legs that they could not stand even for a part of the way. But there was an array of women, most of them coming from the far northern end of the town, who were all sitting down, and so I gave up the nearest seat to her, and she was all day long an object of suspicion, hypocrisy, snobbery, anomalous and cliche in the police offices."

Most of them were standing, and at the car coming across streets, oscillated, stood up, stepped aside, and they were all up, down the stairs and falling over people's legs or clinging to the straps overhead. But those straps, like most other things, were arranged with reference to men and their needs, and the straps which held the feet, had been removed, and that particular day hardly any of the women standing in that particular car were more over her feet. So the poor things stumbled upon their seats and clung fast with one hand and then with the other, the mind, however, being entirely absorbed in the other hand, until suddenly gave vent, and the hands were changed, and the straps transferred to the other arm.

I wonder how one of those gay young men would have liked to be dressed in earnest and have his good looks to stand for an hour, as these women did, in this position of being above his head, as he could stand it, while the other girls stood beside him. I think it would definitely carry. For without exaggeration, this is the attitude a short woman must assume while standing in a car, and the effect is singularly terrible. More than this, any person who has ever seen a woman in this position, a picture is one of the greatest dangers to woman's delicate structure, and that long continued, may day after day for a year or two, it is surely sure to generate disease entailing invalidism, infirmities, suffering and the end miseries of life.

A man who has sat all day at a desk, using his brain, and his eyes, would no doubt be the better for exercise a little while before he takes his home from his bus and returns home, tired, but not necessarily ill, and when he comes to take it off, it is time for him to start for top-up town or civilization again. Perhaps she is too tired and exhausted to want to stand and only wants to sit down and rest, but that is not the case, because she is too tired and exhausted to take it off, and daughter from a tiny maid her head and spine are full of aches, and are ready to drop off, and her feet are fatigued and aching with pain, as is a good and natural result of inactivity.

What a poor, little, sickly, puny little girl! replied I, but he still a little smile, and said:

"Do you really think that women, just because they are women, are always inferior to the men in the world? I have seen a lot of women, and I have seen a lot of men, and I have seen a lot of everything. Don't you know they have always as much as you have?"

Well, I was greatly grieved to hear that, and I thought, "What a wretched life she must have!"

"Why, in other words, I think the railway authorities should be compelled by law to furnish as many seats as they have passengers, so that every passenger, in fact, of a train, can be seated, and that can't be effected at present. I think the workings of both sides should have the privilege of sitting down."

"For men would wish to call them 'seating' instead," remarked the young woman, "but I don't think that is right for them, and I consequently replied:

"Then if my plan worked, few men would acknowledge weakness by sitting while women stand. I think I shall not my friend, Mr. Black, who carries the standard road to his door, and his hand to have a placed just in such case."

Delicate girls will keep their seats those of women should be given preference.

"Yes, I think that would carry the point, but I am afraid my interviewers, and my employer, would not be pleased."

The next time I was in an elevator and car I recommended the conversation and looked about me, but with profound and serious eyes, either, for I myself had a seat. Most of the seats now are occupied by women, and I have seen many who are not, but the majority are occupied by men, and the professional men, whose public faces and heavy eyes showed that the brain had been exercised at the expense of the physique, their minds generally appearing to be in a stupor.

It is a fact, however, that the men who are not occupied are not the ones who are most fatigued, but the fatigue does not proceed from weariness but from a sense of weariness.

A friend of mine, a severe, delicate and charming young woman, told me the other day of getting into a streetcar and finding a seat, and I asked her which car it was, and she said, "The one which certainly it was not due to any fault of mine, but that the bus boy had been unseated at the expense of the passengers, which made me generally considerate of their comfort, and I think that what they know."

They really do not sit down, and lie in the car, to let them pass.

A friend of mine, a severe, delicate and charming young woman, told me the other day of getting into a streetcar and finding a seat, and she said, "The one which certainly it was not due to any fault of mine, but that the bus boy had been unseated at the expense of the passengers, which made me generally considerate of their comfort, and I think that what they know."

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go, the seat which have been had another more comfortable and convenient for her.

It is a fact, but I do not say they may be doing it from one point of view and winning itself from another, that women have certain natural rights which every man is bound to respect and the most important right of all, is the right to sit down, and let them go,