LONG-SHOULDERED SHIRTWAIST.

The long shoulder, which has reached the limit of the extreme in fashionable waists, has influenced to a large degree the cut of this spring's shirtwaist. This model is an example. The trimming, which makes up almost the entire front, and extends from the neck half the length of the sloeve, is composed of bands, set together with fagotting. The bands are made of narrow blas tape, manipulated in form medallions. These are filled in with Mexican and other fancy stitches. The back is plain. The front has only a slight bag.
