Unprecedented Attendance in All The Five Wards of The City.

LIVELY SCRAP IN SECOND.

Councilmen Nominated and Delegates Chosen for City Convention, Which Meets Saturday.

Ogden, Sept. 25 .- If the Ogden City Republican primaries held last evening are to be taken as indicating what the coming city campaign and election are going to be, it is safe to say they will be the most strenuous ever held in Ogden. The outpouring of people at the five wards was unusual, showing that some active work had been done by the gentlemen who desired to be that some active work had been done by the gentlemen who desired to be nominated as councilmen. In the Second ward alone, nearly 400 votes were cast. The hall was packed with people. In this ward, perhaps, the liveliest "scrap" of all took place on the vote for councilman. The names of A. H. Moyes, the present councilman, and Ezra Richardson were placed in nomination. When the votes were counted they stood: Moyes 212, Richardson 187, and the former was declared the nominee. Mr. Richardson thanked the people for their support, but protested that cheating and stuffing the ballot box with votes of non-residents blad caused his defeat. Mr. Moyes denied the accusations and expressed his thanks. From now on until election day some hard work will be done. The city convention is to be held at the Fifth ward hall, Saturday, when the city ticket will be named.

The vote for councilmen stood: First ward, George Wilson, 187; B. B. Payne, 123; Second ward, Alex Moyes, 212; B. Richardson, 187; Third ward, J. B. Dana, 173; M. L. Jones, 48; Fourth ward, F. E. Grant, 135; Edwin Williams, 118; Fifth ward, J. F. Snedaker, 133; Daniel Pugh, 70.

WHITNEYS HISTORY IN SCOT-LAND.

Andrew Watson, a venerable citizen of Provo, has sent a copy of Whitney's History of Utah to his native town. Kettle Bridge, Scotland. He has received a letter from Mr. N. Lawson, president of the parish council expressing high appreciation of the gift. The following notice in reference to the same subject appeared in the People's Journal, Fife county, Scotland, of Sent. 7:

Seet. 7:

"The menthly meeting of Kettle parish council was brid on Tuesday alght. Mr. Lawson presiding. An interesting letter was read by Mr. Lawson from Mr. Andrew Watson of Provo, Utah. U. S. A., a nafive of Kettle Bridge, who has been in America for over 50 years. He sent along with his letter four volumes of Whitney's "History of Utah." These volumes were to be placed in the village library, but as such a library does not exist at present it was decided to leave them in charge of the clerk of the council, and any one desirous of perusing them may have an opportunity on application to the clerk. If at any time a library is formed the volumes are to be handed over to it.

"The books are very interesting his-tory of the founders and principles of the Mormons. They are profusely ill-ustrated with portraits."

was a lecture on the juvenile court law of the State of Utah by chief probation officer of Sampete county, Prof. Geo. Christensen, formerly of Mt. Pleasant, but who now resides in Ephraim. The club has previously discussed the law and to get the information desired from the right source, invited Mr. Christensen to speak before the club on this subject. He responded cheerfully saying it was his first official invitation to speak on the subject and was glad that it came from his home town. A synopsis of his talk follows:

The methods used in dealing with youthful offenders prior to the inauguration of the juvenile court system of fines, imprisonment, etc., had the opposite effect to what was desired. Instead of reforming them it threw them among a class of people unfit for them to associate with. "Children of today," he said, "need help, and instead of considering them as criminals, they should be handled as misguided youths, and outside of the criminal courts." All cases except felony are to be handled in the juvenile court. The taking of youthful offenders before the criminal courts had a demoralizing effect.

Mr. Christensen gave the origin of the juvenile court system in Utah as follows. The state legislature in 1805 first introduced the matter. The attempt was indefinite and as a consequence mistakes were made and failtair resulted. The legislature of 1907, corrected the errors of former laws. Under these laws it is made a misdemanor for parents or guardians to contribute to the delinquency of a child. This is the first instance where the moral training is imposed upon parents or guardians.

Mr. Christensen explained that the law rousides for juvenile courts in

FUNERAL OF MRS. FETERSON.

The funeral of Grandma Peterson was held in the meeting house yesterday morning after the No. 10 from Ogden arrived with the body. Bishop E. B. Parrish had charge of the services. The turn out was large, which, with what was said showed the respect and esteem in which Mrs. Peterson was held. The Milton choir and Albert Carrigon furnished the music. Catherina Peterson was born in Westmanland, Sweden, May 17, 1819. She became a convert to the Mormon church and came to Utah with her husband and family in 1861. They immediately came to Weber valley and heiped settle and build up the country. She was a faithful Latter-day Saint, and is survived by three sons and one daughter, John P., Eric W. and C. A. Peterson, and Mrs. L. B. Munsee. She died Sept. 21, at the residence of her daughter in Ogden.

where the moral training is huposed upon parents or guardians.

Mr. Christensen explained that the law provides for juvenile courts in cities of the first and second class and in judicial districts, where no city of first or second class appear a juvenile department is formed as part of the district court. The judges of the fudicial districts appoint probation officers, one for each county, in the district. The jurisdiction of the courts extend to all cases except felony.

tion officers, one for each county. In the district. The jurisdiction of the courts extend to all cases except felony, up to the age of 18.

Prof. Christensen deemed prevention better than cure and he has tried to create a sentiment for good among parents, teachers and religious bodies, in order to make it popular to do right and unpopular to do wrong. That it is not a good idea to see merely the good and extoil that in the youth, but evil should be noted and an attempt made to correct it in leading them to better lives. He said the greatest danger for the young is after they have finished the public school and do not continue their school work further, but get the notion that they are men and women, with nothing to do. He encouraged the idea of keeping children busy at least until the ages of 18 and 19, which is considered the most critical period, and Special Correspondence.

To keep dren, parents should mingle with then more, and associate with them more in their games and amusements. The speaker referred to and explained the urfew law, also the law forbidding th sale of liquor to minors and the keeping of them out of saloons. The use of tobacco, and the carrying of firearms by children under age were mentioned. A lively discussion followed the professor's remarks.
