

BIG COTTONWOOD DEEDS APPROVED.

Those Conveying Certain Lands to City Pass Council by Unanimous Vote.

NEW CLAUSE IS INSERTED.

Hobday Withdraws Resolution and Matter Goes Through Without Discussion.

At the adjourned session of the city council last night new deeds to the lands in Big Cottonwood canyon to be conveyed by the Utah Light and Railway company to the city were submitted and approved by a unanimous vote. The clause in the former deeds objected to by City Atty. Dey, and which he claimed made the transfer conditional, was replaced by the following clause which is a simple warranty clause without any conditions:

"To have and to hold the above and foregoing described premises and property unto the said city, together with the appurtenances, and the said railway company hereby covenants and agrees that in consideration of the premises it will forever warrant and defend the title to said premises with the covenants and conditions referred to above, against all persons lawfully claiming or to claim the same."

RESOLUTION OF APPROVAL.
By the adoption of the following resolution by Wells the new deeds were approved:

"That the deeds from the Utah Light & Railway company and the Utah Power company, approved by resolution of Sept. 11, 1905, be and the same are hereby withdrawn and approval thereof revoked, and in lieu thereof the deed from the Utah Light & Railway company herewith presented be approved and ordered to be filed and recorded, and that the form of deed herewith presented to be executed by the Utah Power company upon its execution be filed, accepted and recorded."

"That said deeds be filed as of the date said deeds were withdrawn and that said deeds be substituted for said former deeds."

HOBDAID WITHDRAWS.
There was no discussion of the matter at all. City Atty. Dey stated that the deeds were now perfectly satisfactory and Councilman Hobday withdrew his resolution, introduced Monday night, rescinding the former action of the council approving the former deeds. The resolution was then passed.

LORADO TAFT COMING.

Noted Chicago Sculptor Appears Here
Monday Evening.

The reproduction of a sculptor's studio on the stage will be the feature of next Monday evening's entertainment in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, when Lorado Taft, the noted Chicago sculptor, will give "A Glimpse of the Sculptor's Studio, or How Statues are Made." Prof. Taft uses a number of objects, and models in clay before the eyes of the audience, changing in a few moments a shapeless mass of clay into a face, and then changing expressions on the clay from one to another to show the varied emotions of the mind. The artist also builds up a bust from life, shows the muscular mask, changes in the shape of the head, drapes statues, and explains the perplexities of marble cutting. The en-

A CHARMING RECITAL.

That by Mrs. Cocks Much Appreciated
By Local Friends.

The many local friends and admirers of Mrs. Bonita Sabin-Somers-Cocks filled the auditorium of the First Congregational church last evening, to hear her fine voice after an absence from this city of several years. In that time she has studied abroad, diligently, and to a purpose, and the results of her efforts were gratifying. She was assisted by Prof. Thomas Radcliffe, A. G. O. Miss Gracia Flinders, George E. Skelton, and Arthur Shepherd, and these well known and popular artists acquitted themselves as usual with credit.

Mrs. Cocks' voice has filled out, become well rounded and polished during her absence on the continent. It has been advantageously placed, developed into strong dramatic form, has lost none of its original sweetness, and the enunciation is clear and satisfactory. Her "method" met the approval of all the best musicians present. But there is a lack of evenness of register, which, however, may be remedied with little trouble. The middle notes are powerful and substantial, but as they sinker approaches the light and lower notes these are not so firm, and appearances would indicate that she takes C with difficulty. The best work of the evening was done in the foreign songs, the English numbers not being given with the same excellence.

The aria from "Der Freischuetz" was remarkably well sung, and with a dramatic force and power which captivated the audience, and "Verborgeneit" and "Er laßt die Welt und Irden" ("Peleinamkeit") were also gems. But perhaps the best feature of the evening was Mozart's aria, "Il Re Pastore," with violin obligato by Mr. Skelton. The way Mrs. Cocks gave the cadenza brilliant in that number was a revelation of her powers which charmed her hearers. The audience went away well pleased with the artist and predicting a successful future in her chosen profession.

IS CONSTITUTIONAL.

State Levy So Ruled Upon by Idaho
Supreme Court.

According to a special to the Herald, the Idaho Supreme court has decided that the new state levy is certified to the various counties is constitutional. This point was raised by the authorities of Shoshone, Latah and Nez Perce counties. They claimed the levy exceeded the five mill limit on the dollar authorized by the constitution, to be raised for "state purposes." The three counties declined to extend the full amount of the levy on their tax rolls, and thus raised a very serious question. The matter was brought into court in the form of an action by the state board against each of the three counties, asking for a writ of mandate compelling each to extend the levy as certified.

The opinion rendered is in the case against Nez Perce county, being made applicable to the other two. The state claimed that the amount levied for state purposes did not exceed the five mill limit, other arguments, such as those for meeting interest, etc., not being included in the constitutional limit. Its claim was that the limit applied only to taxation for running the state government during the period for which the tax was to be collected. Attention is called to the fact that there is no limit to state indebtedness that may be created as the assessed valuation increases, as it may always be up to one and a half mills on the dollar.

Continuing the opinion, says: "If therefore, the total tax levy, both for the purpose of running and maintaining the state government and its institutions and for meeting interest on the public indebtedness and providing a sinking fund that must fall within the rate prescribed by section 9 of article 7, it would follow that the time will probably come when it will take the entire tax levy for 'state purposes' to pay the interest upon the public indebtedness and provide a sinking fund, and that no revenue whatever would be left for maintaining and operating the state government and public institutions. Such a construction could certainly never have entered the minds of the framers of the constitution. It is clear to us that the 'for state purposes' mentioned in section nine of article seven is for the running and current expenses in carrying on and operating the different departments of institutions of the state government, which is intended to be upon a cash basis as provided by section 11 of the same article. If 'for state purposes' means all the revenue the state can raise by taxation, then why use these words at all?"

It is further held that the county commissioners are obliged to make a levy to liquidate any indebtedness of the county to the state one mill of this revenue being for the purpose. The court states the board must make the levy if the county owes that much, but it does not attempt to decide whether the amount is due from the county.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Prince of Pilsen" drew the usual big audience at the Theater last night and sent it home as usual delighted. This comic opera or musical comedy, whatever it may be called, remains the one big green oasis in the desert of music farces. Its proprietor, Mr. Savage, is a producer of grand opera, and he always brings his taste and experience into anything musical that he has to handle. As a consequence, he has a good thing in "The Prince of Pilsen," which is a rare gem in similar works, soloists who can sing the music written for them; a chorus with all four parts balanced, and an orchestra built up to the necessary requirements. Add to this vivacity of action, bewildering magnificence in costumes, and a good looking chorus, and the result cannot be in doubt.

Everything in last night's production went in with a flourish. Mr. Jess Dandy in the part of the Cincinnati brewer was as laughable and natural as ever, and repeated his old hit with the audience. Mr. Donaldson in the part of the real prince, is a clever actor and a good singer, and his notable numbers which scored so heavily two years ago, won even more numerous encores than before. The violet song, the students chorus, the interpolation of "Heldberg," "The Tale of the Seashell," and especially the "Song of the Cities," in which the "Salt Lake girl" Miss Stanhope, with her Gibson stare, was a decided feature, were all given tumultuous receptions by the audience. Especially good work was done by Mr. Anderson, Mr. Clarendon, Mr. Rome, Miss Willis and Miss Welsh in their various characters. The "Prince" continues the remainder of the week.

At the Grand last night still another sensational drama was offered in "Escaped from the Harem," presented by Chas. A. Taylor and company. The American girl, who becomes an inmate of the harem of a prince in far off Islam. It tells the story of her experiences, and ultimately of her deliverance from the clutches of her captors through the aid of some American friends. On this foundation it can be seen that a play with any number of sensations and "thrills" can be built up, and Mr. Taylor and his company have made the most of their opportunities. The various situations afford food for gallery enthusiasm of the most tempestuous sort, and the gallery habitues last night were not backward in testifying their approval.

The same bill goes tonight and tomorrow night, and Saturday afternoon to the usual popular priced matinee.

MRS. BAKER'S READINGS

Audience Delighted With Beautiful
Story of Judith and Holofernes.

The beautiful story of "Judith and Holofernes" was the theme of Mrs. Bertha Kunz Baker's reading in Barratt hall last night. The delightful apocryphal narrative, told in the gifted lady's artistic style, held the audience spellbound and brought forth a good degree of appreciative comment and enthusiasm.

Preceding the story proper Mrs. Baker very generously designated her audience with Aldrich's intensely interesting and none the less pleasing bit of prose, "A Midnight Fantasy," dealing with Shakespearean characters, and prompted by an early production of "Romeo and Juliet." In this the author seeks to right Shakespeare's wrongs by linking together such striking opposites as Hamlet and Juliet-Romeo and Ophelia, and Othello and Desdemona, thus creating a situation rather amusing, yet truly illustrative of some phases of real life.
