SUSTAIN AN HONEST REPUTA-

TION. Elder John Henry Smith in speaking upon the principles of honesty and morality said. The devout work commenced in the homes of the Saints should be continued by the Bishops and organizations in the Church. The Later-day Saints should be careful and prompt in their business dealings with each other and with the world, thus eliminating distrust and establishing confidence. Those who obtain to public offices of trust should be aroused to a heroic devotion to honor and right. If the patriotism of the world can be en-Elder John Henry Smith in speaking the patriotism of the world can be engendered under the spirit of the Gospel there will be less defaulters and malfeasance of office. Let these principles of honor and morality be taught in the spirit and in th in the pulpit and in the school room. There is great danger in speculating with means belonging to others and the result in possible failures by so doing are extremely dissastrous. Each of our are extremely dissastrous. Each of our lives should be such, that those who know us best shall regard us highest along the moral lines and in our recreations the thoughts should actuate our minds to keep our children in the path of virtue over-confidence in our children is not always good and when our attention is called to some of their mistakes such information should not be spurned when given in kindness. Let us all be moral and honest and seek to impress these good things upon our surroundings. our surroundings.

ELDER SMOOT ON ECONOMY. Elder Reed Smoot said he believed in moderation in all things, as the opposite to moderation is probably the cause of many honest men falling by the way. There should be no occasion for a father o borrow money to make an elaborate wedding for one of his children, neither for the invited guest to seek to excell each other in costly gifts. Extravagance in dress is to be deplored when the home and its comforts are to be jeopardized thereby. We should be moderate in our living and live within our means. Elder Smoot proceeded to speak of the possibilities of the Latterday Saints becoming a power in the land financially, morally and spiritually.

The Gospel of Jesus Christ on the other hand reveals God the Father and the Redeemer of the world. The Gospel is broad and glorious, and will save all our Father's children who will submit to spoke upon the glories that await the faithful. While in this life the rain falls upon the just and the unjust, yet the day will surely come when those who have declared that there is no God shall be stamped as deceivers and those who have their names written in the Lamb's book of life shall receive their reward in the mansions of glory. But remember that those who will receive a full and complete salvation must do the bidding of the Father. In conclusion Elder Smith bore a strong testimony that God lives and that His work

ORCANIZATION 30 YEARS OLD.

Stort of the Novel Prize Offered by The Inventor of Dynamite Who Desired Peace.

Mr. S. Harris, an English manufacturer, with his factories at Hull, is spending a five months' sojourn in this ountry, visiting relatives in several states. He is now in this city accompanied by his wife, and leaves today for the Yellowstone national park, from which place they go direct to St. Louis where Mr. Harris will participate in the International Arbitration league conference, on the 12th and 13th of September.

The International Arbitration league was the outgrowth of an organization of a few poor laboring Englishmen, who sought to bring peace from reigns of war and terror rather than sacrifice their own lives and the lives of their sons on the battlefields. The organization was effected 30 years ago, and Mr. Cremer, M. P., then a poor laborer, was foremost in the initial movement, and having won the Nobel Peace prize of £8,000 pounds, promptly donated it as a basis for the larger and more effective operation of the league. Mr. Harris is Mr. Cremer's lieutenant in Great Britain, and is in this country at this time to participate in the coming conference at St. Louis, in which members of na-tional bodies from around the world will be delegates.

The Nobel prize was offered by a Swedish engineer, by the name of Nobel, who was the inventor of dynamite, and having amassed his fortune from the royalties from the sale of the destructive agency, donated one-fifth of his wealth as a gift to the man whose efforts were most successful in bringing about international peace. Because of Mr. Cremer's seccessful efforts in the arbitration of the difference between France and Great Britain he was awarded the prize, which he promptly gave as a permanent foundation for the international league.
