

VAN VLISSENGEN'S LATEST SENSATION

Years Ago Men Who Held $400,000 of His Paper Knew it Was Spurious.

THEY COMPOUNDED A FELONY

According to His Story—After Telling Them Everything He Continued To Dupe Others.

Chicago, April 27.—Peter Van Vlisengen, whose confession last winter to the forgery of mortgages to the extent of $1,000,000 caused a great sensation in Chicago, were he had been known for 20 years as a leading real estate man, exploded a bombshell in the bankruptcy court here today when he stated that his confession a few months ago was antedated by four years by a confession made privately to men who held $400,000 of his spurious paper.

IRREGULARITIES DISCOVERED.

"They discovered some irregularities in the paper in that year," said the witness, "and came to my office for a conference. I admitted the forgeries, and said: 'I will go before the state's attorney, tell him just what I have done, and let him handle it.'"

"We had another conference soon after," continued the witness. "Finally I agreed to settle with them for $15,000 a week. Altogether ultimately I paid them approximately $150,000."

"What became of the forged papers held by these gentlemen and that you canceled?" was asked.

"I locked them in my safe," he replied.

"Did you recall them?"

"Yes, not all of them, though."

"Did they promise not to expose you?"

"They came to my office regularly for the installments, but after a while they stopped coming."

"WE WANT OUR MONEY."

"We want our money," they said, and were getting it as fast as I could return it to them. "We don't want to know how you got the money," they told me at one conference in December, 1904."

Maurice Rosenfeld is a well-known capitalist and real estate dealer. He has been engaged in the real estate business in Chicago since 1887. He was a director of the Chicago National bank and the Home Savings bank, two of the John R. Walsh institutions, which failed years ago. He was vice-president of the United Hebrew charitable and aid society. In 1901 he served a term as county commissioner and is a prominent member of the Standard club.

Bernard Rosenberg likewise has been prominent in the real estate business and in Jewish society circles for many years.

Van Vlisengen's face was pale and his hands trembled as he told his story on the witness stand today. His eyes were bloodshot and his lips twitched as he faced initial and recognized former friends among the spectators in the crowded courtroom.

The witness stated that his forgeries had continued for 20 years, but that he did not know the exact extent of them.

"Will they aggregate a million dollars?"

"Surely."

"And may be more?"

"Yes."

Asked when his marriage occurred, tears came to his eyes.

"Only two years ago," he said.

"Have you any property or other assets not accounted for at present?"

"No, except my clothing. I had about $100 when I started, but I lost it all."

"Did you ever see the money?"

"At the mention of the wife the witness seemed on the verge of collapse, but great effort managed to control himself."

"I am serving a term in prison for my crime," said Van Vlisengen, "and it is just that I should feel good to have the whole thing off my heart and I must tell the truth, no matter what it affects."

MANY CASES OF PARALYSIS ARE CURABLE

This Kansas City Man Gives the Tonic Treatment Entire Credit for His Recovery.

There are still people who say that no form of partial paralysis can be cured. If you have partial paralysis or some other severe nervous disorder, do you think it is better to be treated by someone who insists that you are incurable, or to take a treatment that grateful patients throughout the United States testify has cured them?

Mr. J. R. Blinson, of No. 1740 Madison avenue, Kansas City, Mo., says:

"In November, 1908, I was taken sick with severe pains through my chest and in the region of my heart. One morning while working in the field, I was taken with worse pains than ever and before I could get back to the house my legs seemed to be paralyzed and I could just hobble along and had to be helped up the steps. I was in bed for over two years and so helpless that I had to be turned over. I was completely paralyzed from just below my heart down. I had not a particle of feeling in this part of my body. I wasted away until I was just skin and bones. My appetite was good. My kidneys were affected and I had no control over them. During the time I was in bed I was perfectly helpless."

"I was living at Lees Summit, Mo. During my sickness and was treated by two doctors. Both said that my case was hopeless. Their medicine did not help me and they said I could not live. I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After awhile I began to feel some control of my kidneys and bowels. I was finally able to get around in a wheel chair and kept improving until I was able to walk with a cane. Like a child, I began to learn to walk again. I can walk now without any effort and no one would ever know what my condition had been. I feel as well as I ever did before the stroke, with the exception I am not strong enough to do heavy work or lifting."

The tonic treatment of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by building up the blood, it can nourish and strengthen the weakened nervous system has made hundreds of cures in the most severe nervous disorders.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

commander, the mystery of an unusual surgical case was revealed.

Mrs. Haskell's neck has been broken for two years as the result of a fall while she was attending her husband during his first illness in Cuba. Two years ago she entered a local hospital for treatment and because she desired to avoid publicity her identity was kept a secret by the attending surgeons.

The muscles of her neck are paralyzed and while the fractured vertebrae have knitted she will be compelled to carry her head in the specially constructed apparatus for another year, according to the physicians, who declared that should the harness be removed she would be in danger of instant death.

No money is to be paid by the government until the site for the monument has been obtained. When finished, the responsibility for the care, keeping and preservation of the monument is to rest with the association.

NEW JERSEY WANTS SUMMER WHITE HOUSE

New York, April 28.—The plan of a number of New Jersey coast cities to present the nation with a summer capital for the president has been given impetus by the offer of J. B. Greenhut, Long Branch and other cities had started a fund for the purchase of "Shadow Lawn," the $1,000,000 mansion built by the late John A. McCull, when he was president of the New York Life Insurance company, at West End, for the purpose of donating the property to the government to be used as a summer White House for the president.

Before the fund was completed, President Taft selected the place at Greenhut, Mass., and a few days ago Mr. Greenhut purchased the local property. It is understood for $300,000, not knowing the plans of the coast cities. When he learned of these plans yesterday, Mr. Greenhut offered to sell the property to the association of cities for $20,000 less than he paid for it, thus making his donation to the project $50,000.

This has given new life to the movement and it is expected that the fund for the purchase of the property will be completed. New Jersey representatives in Congress have promised to see that the government accepts the gift.

TAFT'S TRIBUTE TO SOLDIER PRESIDENT

Grant's Mind and Brain Represented Very Genius of War to Suppress the Rebellion.

REPUBLICAN PARTY NEEDS.

Thinks Good Opposition is Necessary To Make Useful and Defeat at Times Will Not Hurt It.

Philadelphia, April 27.—President Taft today was the principal guest at the Grant birthday dinner of the Union League club in this city, and paid a striking tribute to the soldier president. Incidentally he said a defeat at times would not hurt the Republican party. Mr. Taft was sharply criticized a year ago because of references to Gen. Grant and he took advantage of tonight's opportunity to express anew his admiration for Gen. Grant as a man, as a soldier and as president.

Gen. Horace Porter of New York and President James F. Hope of the Union League club were among the speakers who preceded President Taft at dinner.

After making complimentary references to the Union League's patriotic support of the Union army during the war, Mr. Taft said:

"It is peculiarly fitting that this club each year should celebrate the birthday of that man who then was coming into prominence and upon whom hung, it would seem, the whole destinies of this nation."

"It is not for me, in the presence of a gentleman who knew him, who served with him, who ran the life of life and death with him, to dwell on his life, his peculiar views, or attempt to picture his character at length to this company."

"But there are certain things with respect to Gen. Grant that today come back with reference to our passing life. They said Grant had not the military genius that other generals displayed in the war. To my mind, his mind and brain represented the very genius of the war to suppress the rebellion, because it was his mind that grasped the thought that until we had fought it out with our brave opponents and met them in the field and fought them as soldiers, until we convinced them by our strength that the battle was hopeless, we could not expect to have a united country. And therefore, from the time he began at Belmont until he accepted the surrender of Lee at Appomattox, he fought not only the points of strategy, but he fought the enemy and he fought and fought and fought until he wore out the opposition, because only by wearing them out could he hope to bring about the condition in which there should be complete peace."

"The spirit shown by Grant and Lee at Appomattox is today, I trust, important. Between the two leaders it existed when the terms of the surrender were signed, but it was impossible under the conditions that that spirit should control and make itself immediately manifest between the two sections. The conditions were such that that could not be. But what I mean to point out is that that spirit we now realize in, as we find between the two sections no remaining bitterness, is a spirit that as between the two great commanders existed the day that they shook hands and signed terms of surrender."

REPUBLICAN PARTY NEEDS.

"It is a matter that I have very much at heart. I believe it is possible to bring the two sections even closer together. We are all in the same boat in a more emphatic sense than we ever were before in the history of the country—I mean business men—and they of the south, especially their business men, are trembling in the balance of doubt as to just where they are politically. I look forward into the next decade, not with the hope that the south shall become Republican, for, such an aim, I am in my support of the Republican party, I think a good opposition is necessary to make the Republican party fit to control the government, useful to the people, and a defeat at times would not hurt it. What I am looking forward to is a division in the parties in the south so that there shall be tolerance of political opinion there, so that in their state government and in their national affairs, there shall be more than one political creed to be subscribed to and supported."

Immediately after the banquet the president left for Washington.

Burroughs Electric

THE joke of this whole "just-as-good-as-the Burroughs" argument is that nobody believes it—neither the salesman who makes the claim because he wants a sale, nor the man who tries to hypnotize himself into believing it because he wants to pay a smaller price

¶ The fortunate part of it is the average buyer of adding machines is realizing that while he may be able to see little difference in mechanisms, that it is right there the reasons for short lived, trouble making machines arise.

¶ For sixteen years and more we have been talking about the mechanical reasons why the Burroughs is best. There can be no other reasons, because an adding machine is a piece of mechanism. A machine is a good or bad, a profitable or unprofitable investment, in proportion as it is a serviceable, durable piece of mechanism.

¶ If a piece of mechanism does not conform to known mechanical laws, it goes to pieces just as inevitably as a man improperly constructed.

¶ We didn't invent the Burroughs principle.

¶ Mechanical laws have a higher source than any man or set of men.

¶ Some people may tell you that pulling a sled over the earth is as easy as pulling a wagon; it may look as easy, but you know it isn't. But you don't know that the sliding principle, the governor-less control, in an adding machine, is not safe—that it will not wear—but you do know that the price is cheaper.

¶ We've been all through that, and we have the experience of the hundreds of brilliant inventors, nifty capitalists and determined investors who backed up the other style of machines, to guide us by their disappointment and failure.

¶ We haven't enough egotism in our organization to believe that we can alter the changeless, eternal law that has decreed the mechanical principle on which the Burroughs was designed to be the only safe one, for a piece of mechanism designed to do its work for a business lifetime.

These are things which prospective buyers of adding machines will do well to ponder carefully and why they should ask for a demonstration of a Burroughs in their own office, without expense or obligation to them
