But Resolution Providing for Removal of Officials Does Not Carry.

SEVERAL LAWYERS PRESENT.

Council Listens to the Thin Story of How Mutton Was Received for "Finding Horses,"

Five things were proven beyond a question in regard to sheep being grazed in City Creek canyon last summer, at the investigation of that matter by the city council, sitting as a committee of the whole last night. First, that sheep and horses were seen grazing in the canyon during the month of September; second, that the vegetation was literally tramped to death by the sheep in some portions of the canyon; third, that a sheepherder's camp, including tent, saddles, bridles, etc., was located in the north fork of the canyon about five miles above the high line intake; fourth, that a dead and highly decomposed sheep was seen at the herder's camp; fifth, that Joseph Pugsley and James Hilton, city employes who patrolled the canyon, accepted mutton from Mathew Cochran, a sheep owner. for capturing his horses for him in the canyon and for returning to him certain stray sheep which had been found in the canyon.

FACTS NOT DISPUTED.

Notwithstanding the fact that there was no dispute in regard to the testimony on those matters, an attempt was made by Black and Hobday to pass a resolution to entirely exonerate the employes and the heads of the departments under whom they worked from all blame whatsoever in connection with the matter. Fernstrom's resolution, which was the cause of the investigabeing made, provided that Land Water Commissioner MacKnight Superintendent of Waterworks and Hines and the two employes named above be removed from their positions for permitting such things to be done. After a number of witnesses had been examined in support of and against the charges, it was moved by Councilman Wells that the committee report unfavorably upon the adoption of the res-olution. He said that there was no doubt in his mind that the men had been guilty of negligence and improprieties in the matter, but he did not favor removing them from office as provided in the resolution for the reaa political movement. After the unsuc ceasful attempt was made to completely exonerate the men, the motion of Wells prevailed by a vote of 9 to 4. Barnes, E. H. Davis, Dean and Fernstrom voting in the negative. A. J. Davis and Neuhausen were absent.

He said he went up the canyon road a few miles above the high line tank, but did Armed With Rocks Tied in Handnot look up on the hills for the dead animals. He told Fernstrom afterwards that there was nothing to the report in regard to the dead sheep. He denied that Fernstrom had told him about the men accepting multon for allowing sheep in the canyon, slthough Fern-strom still maintained that he did tell him about it before he went up there SMASHED THE PLATE GLASS. to investigate the matter.

MACKNIGHT'S STORY.

Land and Water Commissioner Mac-Knight was then called to the stand and told of the investigation held in his office when Cochran admitted that he gave the men mutton for capturing his horses for him. Wells then moved that the committee report unfavorably upon the adoption of the resolution for the reasons stated above.

NOT EXONERATED.

Hobday and Black offered amend-nents to the motion by which they sought to entirely exonerate the men The amendments were defeated by a vote of nine to four. Black, Dean, Hob. day and Hewlett voted in favor of the same and Barnes, E. H. Davis, Fern-strom, Hartenstein, Martin, Preece, Tuddenham, Wells and Wood voted against the amendments. The motion of Wells then prevailed by a vote of

MOTORMAN SHOCKED.

Chris Petersen Has a Narrow Escape From a Live Wire.

Motorman Chris Petersen of the east Seventh South street line had a close call yesterday at Ninth South and Ninth East streets, where a high tension wire was found broken. Petersen failed to stop and think of the difference in the strength of the current in a trolley wire and the high tension circuit, and got off his car to throw the wire out of his way. He had no sooner touched it than he described the segment of a trajectory, as though shot out of a gun, landing some distance away wrong side up, and very much without care, exclaiming, "Oh, I am dying!" Fortunately the "red wagon" was right behind Petersen's car, and one of the men rushed up with a broom handle and knocked the sizzling wire from the motorman's paralyzed grasp. The latter staggered to his feet, ap-parently but little injured; and though somewhat dazed Petersen finished his run, and then took a lay off to recuper-

Supreme Court Affirms Judgment in Davis and Rose Bail Action.

The supreme court today handed down an opinion affirming the judgment of the lower court in the case of the State vs. D. H. Davis and Thomas Rose, appellants. The action was brought in the First district court in Cache county, to recover from defendants $500, the amount of the ball bond in the case of the State vs. Seth M. Wells, who was charged with abortion and who, upon being released under bond, left the state and became a fugitive from justice. The defendants, who were his bondsmen, were sued for the amount of the bond. They interposed a demurrer to the complaint in the court below, and the same was overruled. They elected to stand on their demurrer and judgment was accordingly rendered against them for the above amount. This judgment the supreme court affirms in its opinion, written by Chief Justice Baskin, and concurred in by Justices Bartch and McCarthy.

HAD LAWYERS PRESENT.

Mr. Hines and Mr. MacKnight were represented by Attorney J. M. Bowman and Pugsley and Hilton were rep-resented by Attorney P. P. Christen-An attempt was made by the attorneys to make the matter purely a political affair and they were only prevented from doing so by the frequent objections of several of the councilmen to their questions and method of procedure. Hobday also accused Fernstrom bringing the charges just as a piece of political spite work. The decusation was vigorously denied by Fernstrom, who stated that he only wanted to pre-vent the recurrence of such matters this summer. After considerable wrangling between the attorneys and the councilmen, the taking of testimony was commenced.

CHARGES STATED.

Fernstrom was sworn and made a statement of the charges which were made against the men. He told of the admission of Mr. Cochran at the investigation in Mr. MacKnight's office, to the effect that he had given the two men mutton for capturing his horses for him in the canyon and for returning to him the stray sheep. Attorney Christensen frequently interrupted the coun-cilman by technical objections to his statements and it became necessary for several of the councilmen to strenuous. ly appeal to President Hewlett to prevent the attorney from interfering with the statement of Mr. Fernstrom in such a manner.

IRRITATING TALK.

On cross-examination Hobday asked Fernstrom why he had not brought the charges before, he having known about the matter ever since the latter part of October. To this the council-man from the Third replied that he thought that a change of administration would occur and it would not be necessary to bring the charges at all. Hobday then accused Fernstrom of doing it just for spite work, which accusation was vigorously denied. Christensen asked Fernstrom if Mr would not rather see Mr. Luce in the office of land and water commissioner than Mr. MacKnight. This question was objected to by several of the Dem-ocratic members, who state that this is not a political investigation at all. The attorney withdrew his question.

SAW SHEEP SIGNS.

Dallin Clawson and his father Dr Stanley H. Clawson, both testified that they had seen tracks of sheep in the canyon in August and September that the grass and shrubbery had been trampled and eaten up by the animals. The young man stated that he saw about 50 head of sheep and several head of horses grazthat ing in the canyon and that he did not see a patrolman at all. He also testified that he saw a sheepherder's camp in the north fork of the canyon about five miles above the high line intake and that he saw a dead sheep there, which was decomposed. Mr. Clawson was decomposed. said that he saw unmistakable signs of sheep in the canyon and also heard them, but did not see the flock of sheer He said that the country was at all. literally tramped to death by the sheep. At the conclusion of his testimony Mr. Fernstrom rested his case.

AFFIDAVIT READ.

Mr. Christensen then read the affidavit of Mr. Cochran, who was unable to attend the hearing, in which he denied that he had grazed his sheep in City Creek canyon or that the patrolmen permitted him to do so. Mr. Wester-man testified that he rented his land in the canyon to Mr. Cochran to graze his sheep on. The land, he said, is at the head of the canyon, about 15 miles from the city.

MUTTON INSTEAD.

R. Nelson, tankman at the high line tank, stated that there were no signs of horses or sheep in the canyon to his knowledge. He said that Cochran of-fered Pugsley and Hilton money for James Montmorency Kelly Stole a Chicken and Delivered an Oration.

A second edition of "Nervy Nat" was arrested this morning by Officer Denny Sullivan for stealing a chicken from a butcher shop on State and Second South street. The fellow was only captured after on exciting chase, but when he was finally landed at police headquarters, he took his arrest good naturedly, and took keen pleasure in "jollying" the officers.

"Gentlemen," said he, "I can not tell a lie. I really did appropriate the said feathered creature. Why? The reason is obvious, gentlemen, and I am shocked that you should be so dense as to not comprehend my meaning. I annexed the fowl because my system had an unresisting craving for the delectate flesh and I longed to satiate my hunger. In other words I wanted a 'Mulli gan stew.' A hobo stew. But I am really overjoyed at my detention, since the hot and enervating chase this base and unfeeling minion of the law subjected me to. Now away with me to the cell as it is now past the hour for my beauty sleep." As he was led away, the chicken thief, who declared his name to be James Montmorency Kelly, said: "I trust his honor will be considerate of my feelings and confer upon me a sentence of at least 30 days. The hen was also taken into custody,

Most refreshing and invigorating it was last night to drink in again the delightful strains of "Robin Hood." Old and worn as the opera is, the beauty of its music, the merry swing of the production, and the cleanliness with which it is all invested, came like manna to the hungry, after the long slege of rag time and horse-play to which we have been subjected. Of course, no old timer who has followed the career of the Bostonians, could sit through "RobinHood" without giving something of a sigh for such vanished memories as Alice Nielsen, Jessie Bartlett Davis Grace VanStuddiford, Cowles, Hoff, and the many others associated with the familiar roles, but one still had to admit that the organization preserves a high standard, one that others migh well emulate, even though that standard of necessity falls below the very high one of previous years. Barnabee Frothingham and McDonald are the only three originals left, except one or two of the male chorus who have never changed. Mr. Barnabee was suffering from a cold, and being 72 years of age, it cannot be said in truth that the sheriff of Nottingham last night was all he has been in the past, but his humor, irresistible as ever, kept the house in a ripple. Of the newcomers the best impression was made by Mr. Chambers, the basso he has a big voice and is a fairly good actor, and both his notable songs were heartily encored. Miss Brown, the soprano, sang Maid Marian charmingy, and her number with the flute ob ligato was especially beautiful. Her speaking voice is less agreeable. Mi Ruthven, the tenor, has a strong voice. but he uses it in rather strident fash-ion throughout, and he fails to impart the tenderness necessary to an ideal presentation of Robin's love scenes. This was especially noticeable in the duet with the soprano in the first act. Miss Donald, as Alan A'Dale, has a voice pitched rather higher that the contraitos we have so long been accus tomed to associate with the part, and her rendition of "Promise Me" while it was capably and sweetly done, was

UTAH CANNERIES DO IT.

Lower the Price and Cut Out Compe tition in Montana and Northwest.

Shoppers wonder at times why they no longer pay the high prices for some canned goods they did in years previous, says the Butte Evening News. Few know or care why the cost is less, but the fact is the garden state of Utah, that 10 years ago did not have a cannery, is now taking the lead in turning out canned vegetables. Four years ago all canned vegetables came from east of the Mississippi, with the exception of a few cheap tomatoes put up in California. Now California has not only been crowded out of the northwestern market, but canning has reached such a state of perfection in Utah that eastern canned vegetables are beginning to dir. appear and from present conditions in begins to look as though the next few years will find all eastern canneries out of competition. Utah now packs 300, 000 cases of tomatoes annually, 60,000 cases of peas and 10,000 cases of pumpkins. To this they are adding canned corn, beans, baked beans, succotash and asparagus. Nearly all this product is contracted for long before the vegetables are matured or a wheel turning in the cannery. Utah has had no hold. overs yet.

The inroads made on California fruit packing can best be estimated from the fact that there has been no increase in the output of the canneries in three years, for Utah and Idaho have begun putting up peaches, pears, apri-cots, plums and even catsup.
