

attaining the position I wished. The enemy retreated slowly before us. Five of their 7-pounders and nine centimetre guns were speedily got under by our artillery. The object of my reconnaissance was attained, and I determined to withdraw. This movement was carried out with the most perfect regularity and precision.

The troops fell back by alternate companies with the regularity of a field day. Every attempt by the enemy to advance was crushed by the beautiful precision of the 40-pounder and the steady firing of the 9-pounders.

The losses of the enemy appear to have been very great. They were so dispirited that, contrary to the usual practice of Asiatics, they made no attempt to follow up our withdrawal. I regret to state that our loss was somewhat heavy. Lieut. Vyse was one of the most promising officers I ever met. Our total loss was four killed and twenty-nine wounded.

The government has instructed Lord Dufferin to present an ultimatum to the Porte demanding the Sultan at once to declare Arabia a rebel, and to receive the English proposals for joint action in Egypt. In the event of the Porte failing to comply, Lord Dufferin will be recalled and the landing of Turkish troops in Egypt would be opposed by the English.

The Porte requested a delay for the consideration of the demand.

Lord Dufferin has telegraphed the foreign office for further instructions. It is believed the government will not consent to further delay. The dispatch from Constantinople reports great excitement there on account of the British ultimatum.

The prospects of coming to a satisfactory arrangement with the Porte are undiminished, as Said Pasha, Turkish prime minister, is convinced that the British alliance must be maintained. There are the best of reasons to believe that a military convention will be concluded.

It is believed that the question of proclaiming Arabi Pasha a rebel is now in a fair way to be arranged. The greatest good humor prevailed on all sides at the sittings of the conference. The council presents the appearance of a reunion of eight friends rather than the meeting of statesmen. Their labor is often lightened by little jokes and even playful badinage.

VIENNA, 7.—It is believed that the Anglo-Turkish arrangement will not be long deferred. A convention is now practically arranged which defines the points on the Egyptian coast where the Turkish forces may disembark, the condition under which the Turkish troops will receive help from the British, and lays down the routes which the Sultan's soldiers will be permitted to take in their march to Cairo and all other places in the interior.

TRIESTE, 8.—Persons were arrested charged, by implication, with throwing the bomb shell into the procession of the Society of Veterans.

The man who actually threw the explosive has not been discovered yet. Excitement over the affair continues.

PARIS, 8.—Two men, while attempting to climb over the railing of the Tuilleries Gardens during a display of fireworks, caught hold of an electric wire used in the illumination of the ground, and both were struck dead instantly.

ROME, 8.—Newspapers continue to display a very hostile feeling towards England. They declare that the reconnaissance of Saturday was really a heavy defeat for the British though disguised by the official dispatch.

BERLIN, 8.—It is believed that the conference will be adjourned if military operations in Egypt assume a more serious character and will reassemble to discuss the Egyptian question after the campaign.

LONDON, 8.—It is rumored at St. Petersburg that Russia is making warlike preparations at Odessa in view of the possibility of a complication between Turkey and England.

With reference to the expected acceptance by the Porte of the military convention demanded by England, the Post prints an unconfirmed rumor that Lord Dufferin, the British Ambassador at Constantinople has been ordered in the event of the Porte's non-compliance, to quit Constantinople.

ALEXANDRIA, 8.—The armored train returned from Mahalla junction without engaging the enemy, who about the same time brought up some troops by train from Kafr el Dower, who are daily entrenching and burying the dead.

THE SAN JUAN COUNTRY.

THE following letter written to Brother Jones, of Parowan, is from a reliable, practical man who has gone by appointment to settle in and help build up the country in the region which he describes. We direct the attention of those desiring to locate in a new place and grow up with it, to the report made herein by Brother Adams:

BLUFF CITY,
San Juan County, Utah,
June 26th, 1882.

President T. J. Jones, Parowan:

Dear Brother—Things look very promising in this part of Utah at present. The brethren have been very busy putting in crops for the last four or five weeks, having now under cultivation two hundred acres, most of it up and looking well, the ditch supplying all the water that is needed. There is plenty of the choicest of land on this river suitable for all kinds of grain and vegetables, and I believe there is no locality better for grapes and fruit in Southern Utah. Climate similar to Toquerville, cool and pleasant at night.

Bluff City has a co-operative store; the company was organized on the 25th of April last, and brought on the first supply of goods ten days ago and is sending another train to Darango, the terminus of the railroad, for more. It will be quite a convenience for the citizens here, and command the trade of the Indians who have large quantities of wool, sheep and goat skins to sell.

There will be one or perhaps two cane mills brought in this fall to work up the cane into molasses; also a portable steam saw mill is strongly considered and talked of bringing in this fall. A company is going to explore a new road to the Colorado River and connect with Bishop Thurber's route west, also to look for timber in the Elk and perhaps the Blue Mountains.

The fall or early winter is the best season to move to this location; the road is in better condition for traveling, the tanks are full of water, and the only time you can put in current or water wheels as the River is low, and have all winter to build houses and prepare your land for cropping in the spring. There is a beautiful bottom, about two hundred acres of land above Recapture, where ten or twelve men could unite and put in a wheel that would cost $250 or $300 all with their own labor except the gudgeons and lumber that would cost $50, that would throw out water to irrigate all the land. Those water wheels are a success, and cheaper to keep in repair and less liable to damage. The reason I speak of this bottom is, the brethren at Recapture are calculating in the near future having their city at the head of their water ditch, which is a little below this bottom, and one settlement would be better for both places for meetings, school purposes, etc. This river will afford homes for hundreds of families, and with less labor than any settlement in Southern Utah, and the finest places for ranches to keep stock and for dairy purposes; cattle are fat the year round, all it wants is settlers to occupy the land and develop the country.

The Saints here feel well, are encouraged at the prospects before them, and are united with Bishop Neilson in building up Zion and developing this country; they received us as brethren, and treated us with the greatest kindness, supplying us with land to crop without charge, which will be a great benefit to those that came in late this season. With the kindest regards to you and the brethren I remain your Brother in the Gospel of Christ,

WM. ADAMS.
