OFFICIALS VISIT STATE SCHOOLS

Blind and Industrial Institutions Found in Good Condition by Gov. Cutler and Party.

CO. SCHOOL CONSOLIDATION.

Is Many Advantages Under Investigation by Other Counties—Damage Suit and Other Court Business.

Ogden, May 2.—Gov. Cutler, Rev. P. A. Simpkins and Dr. T. B. Beatty of Salt Lake City came to Ogden yesterday morning and spent the entire day visiting the two state schools located here. They were met at the depot by Supt. H. H. Thomas of the state industrial school, to which institution they were taken first and spent several hours inspecting the building and grounds, also the workshops. They were agreeably surprised to find the substantial improvements that have been made in the buildings, but agreed that the main building especially is in great need of more dormitories for the boys, for which an appropriation has been asked, and will no doubt be granted, together with other necessary improvements.

The gentlemen were taken to the state deaf school about 4 o'clock, where they spent a couple of hours witnessing the excellent work being accomplished by Supt. Briggs and his assistants, both in the scholastic and manual training departments. They also took special note of the various improvements necessary at the school.

Special Correspondence.

Provo, May 2.—The case of A. P. Acord vs. A. L. Booth et al, is being heard before a jury in the Fourth district court. Plaintiff, who is a newspaper reporter, was ordered out of the council chamber June 18, 1906, after the council had resolved itself into a committee of the whole, and has brought suit for $50 damages against President Booth, all the members of the council and City Marshal Henry for the ejectment. The council prior to the time when Mr. Acord brought the action was in the habit of frequently resolving itself into a committee of the whole, and excluding the public. Judge Booth in overruling the demurrer in the case has already held that the council had no right to exclude the public from a session of the whole in a regular session of the council, which the law provides shall be open. In the case of James A. Loveless et al vs. Benji Johnson, Jr., et al, Judge Booth has rendered a decision in favor of defendants, estopping plaintiffs from asserting any claim to the lands in question in the suit, which are accretion lands south of the city. John Mason and James Bradley entered a plea of guilty to burglary in the Fourth district court yesterday.

visor Tillie Peterson in visiting some of the Weber county schools. They were pleased to witness the high standard of work attained in the schools here. The purpose of Supt. Whitesides' visit was to thoroughly investigate the advantages obtained by the consolidation of the county schools, which has proved so successful in Weber county, and its benefits are being realized by other counties. Through consolidation all the schools in the county are placed on a uniform basis of study, on an equality with the city schools, and instead of the schools in one precinct being able to hold a nine months school, while in another perhaps only six or seven months can be held for the want of funds, on account of no corporate taxation, all precincts are able to hold a nine months school. Miss Peterson leaves Ogden today and has so notified the county board of education. She had several flattering offers to go to other places next year but has declined the same. The Rebekah lodge entertained the Mt. Pleasant Odd Fellows Friday evening. The evening was spent in games and lunch. This is the eighth anniversary of that order of a century as a result of the manipulations of their attorneys, the control of legislative bodies and alleged corrupt methods. It is a shame that the coal companies like the railroads of Wyoming, have paid taxes on only about one-twentieth of the value of their property and holdings in the state, and the sale in value set on made by the state board of equalization was only brought about by the demands of the last legislature upon the board.

At 10 a. m. the officers and teachers met at the stake tabernacle, where a very able paper on the subject of stake union meetings was read by Miss Ruby Wright. It was decided that hereafter union meetings be held on Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m.

KEMMERER, WYO.

COAL COMPANIES KNOCKING.

Reported That They Object to Paying a Fair Share of Taxation.

Special Correspondence. Kemmerer, Wyo., April 29.—An official of the Kemmerer Coal company is reported to have made the statement today that the coal companies of the state would not pay their taxes for 1907, owing to the recent action of the state board of equalization in raising the assessment valuation fully 30 per cent. This they claim is entirely too high a valuation and not within the bounds of reason. They state they will carry the matter through the highest courts in the land before they will submit to what they regard as a hold-up, but which the people regard as only fair taxation.

It is action by the coal companies will undoubtedly bring on a bitter feeling among the people of the state against them, and future legislatures may enact legislation that will make the corporations disgorge some of the easy money they have been making in the state for the past quarter of a century as a result of the manipulations of their attorneys, the control of legislative bodies and alleged corrupt methods. It is a shame that the coal companies like the railroads of Wyoming, have paid taxes on only about one-twentieth of the value of their property and holdings in the state, and the sale in value set on made by the state board of equalization was only brought about by the demands of the last legislature upon the board.
