Monterey Bay, Cal., was visited last week by an immense school of whales, which are on their way from ice north to the warmer waters of the south to rear their young.

Editor Charles E. Hastie, of the Green River (Wyo.) Star, has gone over to the Rock Springs Independent. It has been succeeded by H. A. Haines, late of Salt Lake.

The people of Lehi will soon be given another musical treat by the choir. Arrangements are being made by the executive committee to give a concert in the near future. Time and place will be given hereafter.

The Rocky Mountain Huckleberries says that with well filled granaries and root houses, immense tons of hay and abundant good pasturage, and their stock in fine fleet, Montana farmers go into the winter smiling.

Two men were arrested at Leadville, Colo., Friday, one giving the name of Harriet, and both answering the description of the Denver jailbreakers who escaped. Hale Wheeler, Tony Brothers came and robbed a peddler in Leadville Thursday night and are on this charge were arrested.

Phillip Bottarra of Butte, Mont., against for citizenship papers, on which he instead cost a fee of $5 was required on return to pay it, enjoys the privilege of becoming an American citizen. The cost will be $25. The cost may be remitted on some and offered to pay the fee, but the judge gave him a chance and refused to issue naturalization papers to him.

The Uinkaret Hay company, Payette valley, Idaho, according to the Payette Independent, gathered this year 17,000 pounds of hops from twenty-six acres. To gather this crop, 180 pickers, nearly all women and children were employed and received for their services $1,800. The present is the big Bear State's yearly harvest of immeasurable prizes.

Judge W. H. Francis of Missoula, attorney for the Northern Pacific, yesterday, says the Boise (Idaho) businessman, on behalf of the receivers of that road, secured from Judge Beatty an order restraining Bannock county and certain settlements from using a toll road and a bridge on the company's right of way at Hand Point. The order was made returnable on November 9-5.

Two years ago yesterday, remarks the Laramie, Wyo., Boomerang, of history, the great October snowstorm of that year began. Two years ago today it was raging with the greatest violence and continued through the 15th. People were shut into their homes here and some lasted up the wayside in planning through the big drifts now facing the storm.

An important decision has been rendered at San Jose, Cal., which in effect decides that the bondsmen of George Hughes, the fugitive forger, are liable for the amounts he secured on bogus mortgages. It is held that the fact of Hughes not having signed his bond once can effect the validity so far as the sureties are concerned, and each of them is liable for the full amount. Hughes stole $15,000 and is believed to be in Mexico.

Frank O'Donnell, a miner employed at the Midnight mine at Leadville, Colo., was fatally injured on Friday night. O'Donnell and his partner, Edward Judge, were spelling holes. They had already split five holes and Judge came out and called to his companion to do likewise, but O'Donnell remained to spit the fourth hole. While doing this one of the blasts went off, throwing O'D mold to the ground. Judge ran up giving pardon to get him out, but too late. The other shots went off with terrific roar. When O'Donnell was finally removed he was found to be in a most pitiable condition. He was removed to St. Luke's hospital, where he died early next morning.

Quite a sensation was created on Second street in winter afternoon says the Laramie Republican, by the passage through that thoroughfare of the Davis traction engine. The machine traveled at the rate of about ten miles an hour while making its trial trip, and the easy manner in which it appeared to get over the road made it apparent that in fulfilling the purpose for which it is designed—that of hauling coal from the mines—it will prove an unspeakable success. The traction engine will be put to work in a few days hauling coal from the Sunshine mine on Mill creek. Five miles an hour is the time that it is guaranteed to make over an ordinary road with a thirty-ton load.

A Lincoln, Neb., dispatch says that Tom Carr, who was of some repute as a sales man in Lincoln several years ago, is in rather serious trouble. He has been on the down grade for a long time, and of late has been running a boot-legging joint in his once famous resort. On Friday afternoon a man who gives the name of Thomas Griffin, and hails from Montana, Wyo., where he was employed in the round house, was kicked out of the front door of Carr's place and fell landing in the pavement with about pounding from three rather serious wounds inflicted by some sharp instrument. He was picked up by the police and sent to one of the city hospitals, where, after his wounds were dressed, he stated that Carr had done the cutting, but he was too weak to give particulars. He recovery is considered doubtful, and Carr is under arrest.
