

FINANCIAL CIRCLES LESS APPREHENSIVE

Prices Show Some Improvement But No Great Demand For Stocks.

LITTLE PRESSURE TO SELL.

Rumors of Alarming Character Freely Circulated But Had Small Influence on the Market.

New York, Sept. 1.—The feeling of anxiety and apprehension which has been prevalent in financial circles for several weeks past was perceptibly quieter last week, and this was reflected in some improvement of prices. This was accompanied, without any very substantial revival of demands for stocks, the buying coming chiefly for the most part from the covering of short contracts left open as a consequence of bear operations during the prolonged decline. On the selling side, however, there was a marked subsidence of the kind of pressure which has kept the market in disorder during the recent period. The change in sentiment was easily discernible in the disregard of the rumors of an alarming character which were circulated in the early part of the week's alleged embarrassment by stock and bond houses, and even by influential houses. The bears soon perceived that these devices were ineffectual, and they were led to perform to buy in shorts on a rising scale to cover their short contracts.

Quite the most influential factor in the situation was the announcement by the secretary of the treasury of his intention to make large weekly deposits of government funds with the national banks during the period of the crop advancement demand. The response was prompt, and not only in the American market, but in the great foreign money centers as well. In London especially, the discount rate declining, and it became quickly manifest that defensive measures in that market against New York's supposed intention to draw on foreign money resources were being abandoned. As a matter of fact, the earnest part of the present recuperation among some of the great foreign banks was based largely on the solicitude over the short supplies of funds.

The treasury measures for supplying our currency needs give promise of a relaxation of demand on foreign money resources for this purpose. There is general agreement, however, that this country's position in the situation is stronger than for several years past at this period of the year. For one thing, foreign lenders of money have exercised a sharp discrimination against would-be borrowers, so that it is outstanding bills in foreign markets running to maturity are much smaller than usual. The past few months also have seen a very large return of foreign holdings of American securities to the home market. This has been a material factor in addition to the burden of home stock market during the period of stress, but the floating supply of American securities abroad has been correspondingly reduced and a smaller supply left available for sale to influence the market.

Not all of the early rumors of formation of a bankers' syndicate to bid for the whole issue of New York bonds were confirmed, but the opinion was that the offering would prove a success, and a goodly portion of the issue would be placed with foreign investors. The fact that the rate of interest on the New York issue has been raised to 4 1/2 per cent, compared with the previous 4 per cent rate, lent a clear inference of a high prevailing rate for capital still existing and led to some readjustment of not only New York city bonds, but of other high grade investments. The prospect that the issue would be placed, however, indicated the fixing of New York standard and of the breaking of the deadlock which has existed between capital and its employer.

A forcible reminder, on the other hand, of the difficulty which still remains was shown by the decision of Erie to offer scrip as a dividend instead of regular cash dividend. This determination to conserve cash resources for a general in required optimism was regarded as so far symptomatic of a general condition as to cause some renewed weakness in stocks of companies known to be similarly situated. Evidence was at hand also of the continued reaction in the iron and copper industries, but reports of the conditions in general mercantile lines showed activity sustained.

TOURING CAR ACCIDENT.

Goes Over Embankment, Killing One Man, Injuring Four.

Elmira, N. Y., Sept. 1.—A powerful touring car plunged over a 15-foot embankment at Pine City today, killing H. B. Smith of Toga, Pa., and injuring four others. One of the injured men is expected to die. The chauffeur and James Barrett, a guide, were seated in front. At the point where the accident occurred the road turned abruptly. Through a misunderstanding between the chauffeur and guide the car continued straight ahead and plunged off the embankment, turning completely over, pinning the occupants under it.

JUDGE PARKER HAS NO DESIRE TO HOLD OFFICE.

Portland Me., Sept. 1.—In an interview given tonight Judge Alton B. Parker declared he has no desire ever again to hold public office and in this respect his views have not changed since his defeat for the presidency. "I do not desire ever again to hold public office. I stated by position on that question before the national election in 1904, and I have not changed my mind. I shall, however, always be interested in any question affecting the public welfare and I express my views when it seems desirable. And it will be understood that I shall not be deterred from doing so by misrepresentations."
