Senate. One naturally goes with the valent belief now is that the threaother to perfect the organization. This conclusion will neither be delayed nor obstructed by any vote of mine, and it cannot be reached too soon for the public interests. I do not regret at all that the new admin-istration which has to confront the country with its policy should have control of both houses of Congress. The responsibility of the measures o be proposed cannot be avoided With the power to initiate all legislation the majority is not large enough to include in a rash experi-ment, and the minority is sufficient-

y strong to check any tendency to excess between these two elements. The great voice of independent opinion can always be heard with effect, and the country has every prospect of peace and prosperity.

ill December. Brown said the recent action the republican party and the Senator from Virginia had shown that the period had been reached when no more would be said about confedermore would be said about confederate brigadiers; that the period had been reached that was spoken of by a very old book when it said, "The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid, and the calf, and the young lion and the fatling together, and a little child shall lead them." That eriod has been reached when the eriod has been reached when the ion of the debt paying republicans and the lamb of readjustment and partial repudiation had lain down in loving embrace together in green pastures of luxuriant richness. He would not say a child or little general, should lead them; but that gal ant confederate general would lead them. (Laughter.) He hoped the day had come when the bloody chasm had been bridged and when that old bloody shirt of which so much had been heard, would be folded up and buried beyond the

I have voted steadily against change, and I shall continue in that way until the end is reached, being lieving him from embarrassment in answerable only to my conscience and to my constituents for this act. What my friend, the distinguished in the habit of shrinking from a conwhat my friend, the distinguished senator from New York properly calls a constitutional majority, was disclosed when the Vice-President, not a member of this body, gave the casting vote for the committees. However fleeting, or fractional that majority may be, we are commanded to accept it, and obey it, the majority that choose the officers of the Senate. One naturally goes with the

The Commercial Advertiser, Conk ling's paper, says: It will be regarded by every friend of Conkling, and by the public generally as a direct snub and an insult to New York's Senator. and an insult to New York's Senator. It adds, barring the "faux-pas," made by Judge Robertson at Chicago, no man in the State is more deserving of the honor conferred. He would be a credit to the effice of collector of the post, but his nomination is not calculated to harmonize the party. Better, far better, for Merritt to remain.

Merritt to remain.

Albany, 24.—On motion of Jacobs democrat, the Senate unanimously passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That the thanks of this Senate are tendered President Garfield for the nomination of Senator Robertson, as collector of the port of New York, and we cordially join in a request to the Senate of the Unit-edStates that they promptly confirm the nomination.

Chicago, 24.—Journal's Washington's: Conkling's friends say that he does not apprehend any difficul-ly in securing the rejection of Ro-bertson as collector of New York. The nomination is in Conkling's hands as chairman of the commit-tee and he will not delay action upon it. He believes the Senate-will not, against the wishes of both senators from New York, confirm the nomination and therefore is not disturbed over it. Politicians to-day credit Blaine with having brough about the nominination as a rew to Robertson for having divided the New York delegation at Chicago and favored Blaine's nomination.

the two parties were in 1876-7. More than 90 per cent of the votes voluntarily cast for me, as senator, were from democrats, without pledges, conditions or correspondence of any kind whatever. They knew my political antecedents, and they also know that neither the honer which was freely conferred upon me, nor any other distinction that could be offered, would alter any conviction I had formed or divert me from the course of duty as it appeared to my best judgment. Having accepted this generous trust under these circumstances, good faith required me to sustain our organization of the Senate as it had existed in the last Congress. THE NICE CONFLAGRATION.

NICE, 24, 3 a.m.—Up to this hour 59 bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the Italian Opera House, destroyed by fire last night. It is feared that many more lost their lives. The fire commenced soon after the curtain had risen for the performance of "Lucia di Lammer." performance of "Lucia di Lammer-moor." Subscribers for the orches-tra stalls and boxes of the grand tier had mostly not arrived. The majority of the victims to lang to the working classes. Shortly after the fire began, the gas exploded and the darkness. A scene of terror and disand was built without regard to architectural design; the outside walls were brick, chiefly, with blocks of stone interlarded for no scenning purpose further than to make the structure appear unsightly; the interior looked very pretry with its ornamented walls and ceilings and dazzling gilded work, but it was all gimerack. I have heard professional people who are accustomed to strong built and handsome theatres in America say: "What a magnificent America say: "What a magnificent structure for a bonfire." It resembles a great many of the lightly-built theatres in the south of France. Like all theatres established at watering places, the season was allort.

St. Louis, Mo. Nice, 24.—Up to 3 o'clock this afternoon 63 corpses had been extri-cated from the ruins of the Opera House, mostly Italian artisans. Among the dead is a German doctor named Arend.
