

GENERAL NEWS.

By Telegraph to the News.

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—A special from Albuquerque says: The east bound freight train on the Atlantic & Pacific Railway fell through a partially burned bridge over the Arroyo of Canon Pade, and fireman Wm. Ward went down with the wreck of fifteen cars and was crushed beyond recognition.

ST. LOUIS, April 24.—A special from the City of Mexico says the war department makes known the fact of a doubly fatal duel. Lieut. Col. Loziz, of the 8th battalion, challenged M. M. Savalla, musical director attached to the command of Guarrilles. They were in a saloon in San Luis Potosi, where they were stationed, and the challenge was accepted at once. The two officers, accompanied only by a captain in the regiment, were driven to Ladrillera, and at the word, both shot at once and both fell dead.

LOUISVILLE, April 24.—The brutal assault of Jennie Bowman, a white domestic who was so horribly and fatally beaten up by a burglar in broad daylight, has been captured. The arrest was made last night, and the guilt of the man is surely established by his own confession. The police authorities withheld the news from the papers until ten o'clock this morning, when they had taken the miscreant, who is a black negro named Albert Turner, to Frankfort, fearing that he would be lynched here. Had the details of the capture become public last night, the negro would almost certainly have been hung by a mob before morning, so incensed are the people at the outrage. It will be remembered that the man entered a house located in the fashionable residence portion of the city between the hours of 12 and 12 in the morning, having first observed that all of the inmates had left. While he was ransacking the place the girl returned and pluckily fought him, giving him several severe gashes in the face with a tumbler; the brute knocked her down, crushing in her skull with a brass poker and otherwise disfiguring her, and then made his escape.

MONTREAL, April 24.—The water in the river has been fluctuating all day and to-night has an upper tendency. The ice is piled high between Longueville and Boucherville islands, and from an elevated position before dark this evening the ice appeared to be moving some miles down the river. Two funerals took place on boats in Grifintown to-day and the civic relief committee of aldermen has been kept busy all day distributing relief. The distress among some of the poor families in the suburb districts is very great, and many appeals for food were made to-day.

BERLIN, April 24.—The commission at Metz investigating the case of the French commissary Schnaebele reports that the arrest was undoubtedly upon German territory. There are numerous charges of high treason against Schnaebele and the evidence against him is overwhelming.

MONTREY, Cal., April 25.—The evidence against Symons, who was arrested yesterday for having fired the Hotel Del Monte, is said to be very strong. It is known beyond a doubt that the water pipes had been tampered with, all the circumstances point to the fact that the whole matter had been so thoroughly arranged by a person to make a success of the scheme. Whoever set fire to the Hotel Del Monte did so with the intention of making a clean sweep and fully succeeded. What evidence the officers have of his guilt is not known, but it is said by Chief Brown that they have witnesses who will swear they saw Simmons walk away from the fire a few minutes before the flames were discovered; also that when it was found that the books were uninjured by the fire an investigation was made and it was discovered that Simmons was $4,000 short in his accounts. Another statement that at the time of the fire, when every one was doing all they could to save lives and property, Simmons was walking around with his hands in his pockets. When he was requested to lend his assistance, he replied: "I have nothing more to do with this place."

NEW YORK, April 25.—The police received strict orders to arrest violators of the excise law to-day and confined their operations to up-town hotels and restaurants. Early in the day a waiter at Delmonico's was arrested for selling liquor to a disguised policeman. The word was passed along Broadway and for the balance of the day the bars of the big hotels were closed.

PARIS, April 25.—In the office of commissary Schnaebele there has been found a letter from commissary Gautsch, addressed to Schnaebele, written on Tuesday. It begins "My dear colleague," and says: "I have a communication to make to you, which concerns neither the French nor the German government, but when I make it we must be alone and if you think fit, we can profit by meeting at a blow down frontier pole to talk there." Schnaebele is a knight of the League of Honor; he refused a high German office in 1870 and was immediately expelled from Germany.

VIENNA, April 25.—Startling rumors are current here of the discovery of anarchists plots to destroy the opera house and numerous factories at Pesth. It is stated that only the extreme vigilance of the police prevented the conspirators from carrying out their designs.

BOSTON, April 25.—A Providence special to the Globe says: Doc Levi Wilson, who is widely known through his famous suit against P. S. Moen, the barbed wire manufacturer of Worcester, attempted suicide last night at his room in the Hotel Dorrance, Providence, by taking laudanum. Medical assistance was quickly summoned and his life was saved, although he is in a very weak condition to-night. His wife some time ago instituted proceedings for divorce, and for a time Wilson was denied the privilege of seeing his two children.

BERLIN, April 25.—The tone of the comments of the press on the Schnaebele affair and fresh rumors in relation to the arrest are causing alarm in Berlin.

SANTA FE, N. M., April 25.—Governor Ross signed the death warrants of James Anderson and Theodore Barker, two of the four condemned murderers now in the territorial penitentiary. Anderson will be executed at Socorro, Baker at Springer, next Friday, Thomasson and O'Donnell remaining, and be respite for two weeks, until the governor can consider their cases. A very strong effort has been made to have Thomasson's sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The United States secret service officers late Saturday night arrested two women named Mrs. Annie Kelly and Miss Ellen Barrett, who have been engaged in counterfeiting silver coins for a number of months at 287 East, 116th Street. The officers caught the women at their work and captured thirteen plaster of paris moulds and 168 counterfeit dollars. The Kelly woman is the wife of the notorious George Kelly, the counterfeiter who is supposed to be in Paris. The Barrett woman is 21 years old and Mrs. Kelly's sister. When arraigned before the United States commissioner to-day, Mrs. Kelly said she had been making counterfeits for months and had been snoving them among Italians. She has two children, a boy of three and a girl of twelve years. The commissioner held them in $5,000 bail each for examination.

LOUISVILLE, April 25.—The revolting details of the confession of the negro, Albert Turner, in the case of the girl Jennie Briman, who was so brutally assaulted by the negro burglars at midday last Thursday, has aroused the indignation of the community to a degree unparalleled almost in history. Turner's confession implicates another negro named Anderson, who has been arrested on suspicion, and the authorities have taken him to Frankfort in order to escape the mob. So terribly intense are the people, that there is danger of a mob proceeding to Frankfort and lynching them there.

PROVO POINTS.

FIRST DISTRICT COURT PROCEEDINGS.

Provo, April 19.—The United States vs. John Watters, unlawful cohabitation. An order was made, dismissing the case, as defendant had recently died.

The cases of Joseph Clark, James Smith and George T. Peay were set for sentence on the 25th, when a motion for a new trial will be made.

The prosecution closed in the case of Joe Young, charged with murder, and Mr. Thurman made an opening statement for the defendant. What was done was done in self-defense. There was no living eye witness except the defendant. This is a case, peculiarly so, in which good character is an important feature. The Indian is a peaceable man and loved in his community, raised to the habits of our own race; that Wm. Gibson was a desperado, a man whose hand was against every man, and for some reason had a particular grudge against this Indian boy, quarrelling threatening and drawing weapons on him. The Indian boy would always forgive and forget, but found it necessary to guard against him. He (the defendant) had been robbed of his money in a gambling scrape, but settled the affair at the corral, and the Indian went to take his horse, which Gibson had promised to give up, when Gibson objected and drew his knife on the Indian; the Indian then pulled his pistol and Gibson said, "Hold up, Joe, you've got the drop on me." Joe said, "I know it, and I expect to keep it," on the way to the house Gibson said he would get his gun; and the defendant shot Gibson in defense of himself.

The defendant was put on the stand and said he was born in Iron County; when three years old was taken to live with a Danishman; when eight years old he lived with a man by the name of F. Young, and that is where he got his name; is now 24 years old; had had a little trouble with Gibson before this affair happened; he said something he did not like, and he went to Young's mine; his brother interfered with him; we had a horse race after that and he made threats; at Charley Mack's saloon Bill Gibson asked me to go down to a dance that night, and I refused; he said, "You feel yourself above me, don't you?" and then commenced to call me names—called me a liar and said he could whip me and all my friends, that he could cut my guts out, etc.; I told him I did not come to pick a quarrel; the boys told me I'd better go home; I went out to get my horse and Bill got on him and the horse threw him off; we played cards at another time and they won three dollars of me, then proposed to play for horses, then for saddles, just for fun, and when we got through Gibson took my saddle and kept it; he would not let it go at any price; I offered him a colt for it, and he would not take it; I then offered him a cow and calf and he took them; I got the saddle; while in the house we got in a dispute over the saddle and Gibson said, "Get your gun if you want to." I told him I didn't want any trouble; this was about a week before the last affair; I left a horse with him for security for the cow and calf; on Saturday, the day before the shooting, I saw Gibson again and we had some talk about the saddle. The supposition is that Gibson and Emerson worked together in the game to beat the Indian out of his money. The Indian broke into tears while relating the story twice. Gibson asked me to come down the next day (Sunday), and get the horse, and he would take the cow; about sundown we went out to the corral, took a drink of brandy from a flask, about an hour before the shooting; we were talking about the horses, and after Mathews could not get a trade out of me, they went to the house and left Gibson and me alone; I said I might as well take that mare home with me; he said, "The hell you will!" "Yes," I said "that's the understanding, as Mathews is to hold the cow and calf as security;" I went up to get the mare, and he said "Leave loose the horse, d— you;" I said I wouldn't and he said, "Leave loose, d— you," again, and I said to take her; I saw he was mad; he started toward the house and said, "You d— son of a b—, I'll get a gun for you." I asked him to stop and he would not, give me any answer; I got excited and did not know what to do; I was going to Mathews' and saw that would not do, as he would follow me; it was just getting dark and I shot, and had no idea I would hit him; he hollered and I thought maybe I had hit him in the leg; I ran over to the house, about 150 yards; I saw him lying there and thought I had just hurt him a little; I went toward my horse and I spoke to one of the boys to go and see Bill; I then rode up towards Mathews; I went up town where I usually stopped there.

A number of witnesses called for character, etc.

The Indian says he feels so sorry now that he wishes he had been killed instead of Gibson, as he says they were at school together and he loved Gibson.

PROVO, April 21st.

The arguments were concluded this morning in the case of Indian Joe (murder), and the jury were out about twenty minutes, and brought in a verdict of not guilty. It did not change the complexion of the Indian at all—he took it as unconcerned as though not a party interested. When asked by counsel if he understood the verdict, a gurgle came in his throat and he answered "u-hu."

The case of the U. S. vs. Isaac Bullock (unlawful cohabitation) demurrer was overruled. Defense moved for a continuance of the case for the term, owing to the condition of the defendant's family—the death of his daughter (Mrs. Smoot); this was denied and the case goes to trial this afternoon.

An attachment was issued for witnesses.

Maria Higginson vs. James Higginson; divorce. An order was granted restraining disposing of property.

Fillmore City vs. Gabriel Huntsman; Mr. Thurman asked that injunction be dismissed. The court agreed to take it up to-morrow morning.

Some civil matters are to be heard the balance of the term.

PROVO, April 22.

Fillmore City vs. Gabriel Huntsman; injunction, was set to be tried next Friday at 2 p.m.

Hart Preston, Wm. Meakin and Geo. Meakin were arraigned on a charge of battery. They pleaded guilty and on each a fine was imposed of $25, as it was an aggravated case.

Notice was given the court that a motion would be made to dissolve an injunction in the case of Reuben T. Miller vs. H. R. Watrous, as to Wilson and Price. Set for Wednesday next.

Arguments were made by S. R. Thurman and J. E. Booth, on behalf of the defendant, Joseph Clark, for a new trial; unlawful cohabitation.

The case of the United States vs. Isaac Bullock was continued till Tuesday next.

Only one week more remains of this term of court.

PROVO, April 23, 1887.

Deputies Redfield, McLellan, Ether and Taylor went to Pleasant Grove early Saturday morning and arrested John Harris and Charles Richins, who with a number of witnesses, were brought to Provo before Commissioner Hills; each was bound over in the sum $1,000, the witnesses in $200.

A strange proceeding has grown out of a case at Alpine the last few days. Lee L. Clark complained of Ike Healey before the justice of the peace of that town, charging Healey with attempted rape on his (Clark's) seven-year-old girl. The defendant was placed in bonds of $1,000 and time set for trial Monday, the 25th. In the meantime the same party made a complaint before the Commissioner at Provo, and the deputies immediately brought the defendant to Provo, where he was placed in jail

Saturday; he was placed under bonds by the commissioner and to-day (Monday) he is to have the aforesaid trial before the justice of the peace at Alpine. There does not seem to be much foundation for the complaint. B. W. Driggs, Jr., prosecutes and J. E. Booth defends.

Prof. J. E. Talmage, of the Brigham Young Academy, is organizing a scientific class, to start immediately after the close of the present term, on a geological trip. They expect to go to Pleasant Valley, Castle Valley, thence through southern Utah, and the Grand Cañon of the Colorado, returning through western Utah.

RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.

CONDUCTOR LOWRY, OF THE UTAH AND NORTHERN, CRUSHED TO DEATH.

There was a smash-up on the C. P. at Promontory this morning. A train was standing on the main track and was run into by another train from an opposite direction. Four engines were reduced to an incomprehensible mass of iron, but fortunately nobody was hurt. All the men jumped off before the collision occurred.

On this morning's C. P. train was a young man whose head was bandaged up. Inquiry proved his name to be Frank Allen and that he has been employed as a brakeman on the road. While passing under a bridge near Wells he was on top of the cars. A detached brace struck him on the head, bruising it terribly and inflicting some serious scalp wounds. He was attended to by Dr. Bryant and is now staying at the Chapman House.

The U. & N. passenger train did not reach Ogden till 11 a.m. to-day. The train was reported late yesterday but the cause of the delay could not be learned. When the train arrived here, however, it was apparent. There had been a smash up in Beaver Cañon and a life had been sacrificed. As near as can be ascertained, the particulars are as follows: A freight train of about eighteen cars with three engines was going up the hill and had almost reached the top when the cars broke away from the engines. They commenced to run back, gathering speed as they proceeded down the winding track of the cañon. No power on earth could stop them, and finally all were ditched. Conductor Lowry was in his caboose at the end, and in the smash-up he was buried under a car of ties. When taken out he was still alive, one leg was broken and he had suffered internal injuries. It is thought also that both legs were broken, but of this there is no certain statement. His head and face are also terribly bruised and cut. He was brought to this city, but died on the cars as they came in. His remains were removed to Undertaker Preshaw's, and this morning instructions as to the disposal of the remains were being awaited. Lowry was a Mason and a member of the Brakemen's Brotherhood. His wife lives in Moline, Ills.—Ogden Herald, April 23.

Widening the Gauge.—Of the preparations for changing the Utah & Northern division of the Union Pacific from a narrow to a broad gauge, which is to take place about July 1, the Dillon (Mont.) Examiner says:

"The company now has eight work trains and 500 men at work, and the force will be increased as rapidly as possible. On the division between Spring Hill and Silver Bow there is now one steam plow and scraper and a single plow will be added shortly, together with a couple more work trains. These plows and scrapers can be used almost any place and reach thirty-five feet on either side of the track. Between Apex and Silver Bow, a distance of fifty miles, the road is at present laid with forty pound steel, and after the long ties are put in, the heavy steel will be laid at the standard width on each side of the present track, and this, with twelve miles more at Beaver Cañon, will all be completed, except the switches, some days before the other widening is done. It has been determined to keep the ties on the centre of the grade, and to do this it will be necessary to move both rails ten inches. About one thousand men will be employed on the final day, and it is expected that the widening will be done between sundown and sundown of one day. Freight traffic will probably be suspended two days to allow the clearing of the track of all narrow gauge rolling stock, but there will be no material interruption of the running of passenger trains."

At Colusa, Cal., April 15, G. Kammerer, proprietor of the Colusa Brewery, got into a fit of delirium about 3 o'clock on the morning of March 31st, walked to the river and slid into the stream. He was tracked to the bank and the marks of his body going down the steep bank were plainly visible. A reward of $200 was offered for the recovery of his body, but it was not found until a boat passed up and agitated the water when his body made its appearance.
