Shocking Deed Was Witnessed by Several Persons-Unfortunate Man Had Been Ill Some Time,

Despondent because of failing health and advancing old age, John Connors, aged about 65 years, ended his life iate yesterday afternoon by sending a bullet into his brain. The deed was ommitted while the man was seated on a bench at the Saltair depot, corper of First South and Fourth West streets, and was witnessed by three or four persons, neither of whom was enough, however, to stay the hand that held the weapon. Jacob Bai, who drives a wagon for the J. G. Mc-ponald candy company, was passing in his vehicle at the time, and he saw in his vehicle at the time, and he saw a man with a gun pressed against his head. The boy gave a shout of warn-ing, and jumped from the wagon, but gearcely had he reached the ground when a report was heard, and instant-ly the body of Connors dropped from its bench dead.

CLOSES COURSE WITH "DAVID."

Frof. Clark Delights Large Audience in Reading of Romantic Drama.

HAS TINGE OF TRAGIC IN IT.

Aenointing of the Young King and the liard Road Over Which He Traveled to the Throne.

Barratt hall was well filled again last night, by a most attentive and appreciative audience in attendance on Prof. Clark's last lecture recital for the season in this city. His theme was "David," a romantic drama by Cale Young Rice; and the presentation of this now noted literary work was made so effectively and impressively that the lecturer ensily held his hearers' attention firmly to the close.

firmly to the close. As introductory, the professor said, "Thia is a poetic drama, a romantic drama, with a tinge of the tragic, and is the only really American poetic dra-ma of recent years of any particular merit. We are glad to welcome to the cause of literature any new American whiter. Mr. Rice is now putting in his best efforts on a new dramatic work for which we have great hopes. True, he has been more or less include with the faults and the fancies of the Ro-settl clique, but he is drawing away the faults and the fancies of the Ro-settl clique, but he is drawing away from their influence, and we shall have better hopes than ever of him in con-sequence. Mr. Rice takes the Bible story of David as his general theme, interweaving with it with poesy and the fruits of a fertile imagination. The first scene ones to the hall of King first scene opens in the hall of King Saul of Israel at Gibeah, and through the porch we can discern in the dis-tance the camp of the Phillistines, the traditional enemies of the Israelites. The author introduces dancing girls re-clining in the hall and exchanging gossip over the situations occasioned by the stirring exigencies of the times." the stirring exigencies of the times." The lecturer then read from the play, with skilful elocutionary descriptive of the conversation of these dancing girls who included in their talk plentiful gossip about David.the young shepherd king whom the Prophet Samuel had very lately annointed as the future king of God's chosen people. Then the scene was just previous to the shep-herd's conflict with Goliath of Gath, and the intensely dramatic surroundand the intensely dramatic surround-ings at the time were admirably portrayed by Mr. Rice, and as admirably per-trayed by Prof. Clark. The plot of the drama introduces lively amatory passages in which Michal, the daugh-ter of Saul, and David figure in a ter of Saul, and David ngure in a treatment which seems to be true to oriental experiences, and yet involves a flavor of the modern that lends uniqueness and a piquancy to the whole. The passage in which Michal is mentioned in portent as the coming queen of Israel, and the consternation into which Saul's court is theorem in into which Saul's court is thrown in consequence, is a dramatic gem, the value of which the talented lecturer fully impressed upon his audience. Then the introduction of Jonathan, with the subsequent exhibitions of that model of brotherly affection which forms one of the most charming idyls of Old Testament story, is cleverly effective way.

Senor Quesada, Cuban Minister to the United States, is an orator born. In article in The Outlook for July, 1899, by George Kennan, who heard Quesada speak at the Esteban Theater, Matanzas, Cuba, he said: "I have seen many audiences under the spell of eloquent speech and in the grip of strong emotional excitement, but I have rarely witnessed such a scene as at the close of Quesada's eulogy upon the dead pairiot, Marti." In a letter to The Peruna Drug M'f'g. Co., written from Washington, D. C., Senor Quesada says:

"Peruna I can recommend as a very good medicine. It is an excellent strengthening tonic, and it is also an efficacious cure for the almost universal complaint of catarrh." --- Gonzalo De Quesada.

Above is represented one of the two dredgers at work on the new bathing lagoon at Saltair. This improvement has been rendered necessary by the shrinkage of the great lake so that bathers are forced to go quite a ways out to reach water deep enough to bathe comfortably. The lagoon is located partly under and in front of the pavilion. It is being built by scraping the sand to the depth of 10 inches or a foot, and heaping this sand up in a circular dyke 2,400 feet in circumference, five feet high, 10 feet wide on the top and 220 feet wide on the botton. There are 40 men and 40 terms engaged in this work. They began the first of the year, and the finish is set for May 15, the cost of the improvement being over $30,000. The depth of water in the lagoon will vary from 21% to 4 feet. Other valuable improvements in the way of public entertainment, are being pushed at Saltair beach
