

WANT TOURISTS TO TRAVEL WESTWARD

Scheme Forming to Attract Easterners This Way in Great Numbers.

CO-OPERATION IS SOUGHT.

Representatives of Western Association Would Have Salt Lake Join In General Movement.

Can the western cities get together on a gigantic plan to force eastern travel west and keep it here longer when it comes?

Two visitors from California were investigating the question yesterday and spent this morning with Fisher Harris at the Commercial club, asking his views. It is their plan to form through out the west an incorporated "Travel Association" that through a headquarters in some western city will send out information to all eastern centers and keep up a constant campaign for people to come west.

One item it hopes to have to work on at once is the matter of railroad tickets from the east and return. At present these allow but a brief stay in the western towns, and it is hoped to arrange for longer stop overs everywhere west of Denver.

"What we want," said one of the organizers last evening, "is a get-together spirit in the west, to bring eastern people out here. Cities need not fight each other for them after they come, for one city can absorb the attention of them all, and if they are free to stop over wherever they choose, each will gravitate to the city he likes best from his particular viewpoint."

The men who were here seeking to find the local feeling towards the formation of such an organization are W. Scott Smith and J. W. Manker, both of whom are officers of the association at the present time. Its plan now is to extend its influence eastward from California.

Railroad tickets, Mr. Smith believes, should be made good for four months, so that tourist traffic would not be forced eastward so quickly after it comes west.

SLANDERS LESS POWERFUL.

Mr. Smith was much impressed with Salt Lake's progressiveness when he completed a tour through the business district yesterday. "You see many building operations in times like these make you one of the most pushing and progressive western cities," he declared, "I have just come from a month of travel through eastern cities, and everywhere I was surprised with the kindly sentiment towards Salt Lake and the favorable light in which big eastern financiers are beginning to view its outlook."

"On previous trips I think I heard a knock for the Mormons and another for the city almost every time the town was mentioned. On this trip I don't think I found a single knocker anywhere in the east, and there were boosters in numbers greater than there previously had been of those who could only mention the city with a sneer. The east seems to be learning the Mormon people better, and to hate them less the more it knows them as they are, rather than as embittered enemies painted them. Of all western towns, I think your future here is the most certain and most promising."

Mr. Scott and Mr. Manker left last evening for the coast. At noon they met President Halloran and a number of prominent real estate men at the Commercial club.

WHERE TO LIVE AND EAT.

Vacation-seekers who are looking for information in regard to names of hotels, accommodations, rates, etc., at the many Rocky Mountain resorts, are now being supplied by the business department of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad with its latest publication, entitled "Hotels and Boarding Houses," which contains full information on the subject.

FUNERAL OF MRS. WELLS.

Last Respects Paid to Departed Yesterday Afternoon.

The funeral services of the late Martha G. H. Wells were held at the residence of her daughter, Emily W. Grant, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. In the presence of a large number of sorrowing friends and relatives, Bishop Clawson of the Eighteenth ward presided. Feeling and impressive remarks were made by President Joseph F. Smith and Elder Grant F. Whitney. Prayers were pronounced by Elders Richard W. Young and Seymour B. Young, and the grave was dedicated by Elder A. W. Ivins.

of 1908, who are soon to leave their Alma Mater. This morning 50 University seniors, the largest number ever assembled in a graduating class, held a class meeting and each pledged himself to give his notes for $25, redeemable in 1911, the $1,250 thus realized to go into a class memorial on the campus. Heretofore graduating classes have not done much towards erecting permanent memorials on the campus, and the 1908 graduates have reached the conclusion that the time is opportune to do something really handsome in this direction. Mahorri M. Young has been at work on a plan for a fountain that is both unique and a powerful piece of original design, and it is understood that the seniors will make an effort to use this design in their class memorial.

WILL BE COOL TONIGHT

Dr. Hyatt Sees Drop in the Thermometer Coming This Way—Forecasts And Warnings by Telephone.

Salt Lake and vicinity and Utah in general will experience cooler weather tonight and tomorrow. Tonight will be partly cloudy but tomorrow is expected to be fair. A trough of low barometric pressure extends over the plateau this morning, causing light precipitation over portions of the Pacific states and plateau region. Another disturbance is central over the upper Mississippi valley, producing rains over the northern portion of the country from the Rocky Mountain slope eastward to the North Atlantic. Rainfall is also reported over the Gulf states. Over the Pacific and North Atlantic states the barometric pressure is high.

Dr. R. J. Hyatt, director for this section, wishes the attention of telephone users called to an announcement found in the front of the new May directories of either Bell or Independent companies. This announcement reads:

"Suburban subscribers may obtain the daily forecasts and special warnings of weather bureau from their respective exchanges after 11 o'clock, eastern time (9 o'clock here). These forecasts usually cover the 24 hour period, ending at 1 o'clock the following day."

Lake measurements today show the level of the water to be at the 5.7 fathoms, a tenth of a foot lower than it was a month ago.

SHIP STORAGE WOOL

Swapp and Pugh Have Four Cars Which Leave Modena Monday for Boston.

Archibald Swapp, Jr., of Glendale, and C. R. Pugh of Kanab, both wool men, are in this city. They have ordered cars for 325 bags of wool weighing on an average of 300 pounds each. This wool, they say, is to be moved from Modena to Boston for storage under the Utah Wool Growers' association's direction. An advance of 5 cents per pound will be made when the wool is loaded and between 60 and 70 per cent upon the wool when it reaches destination. The per cent of advance will depend upon the value of wool upon receipt. Mr. Swapp and Mr. Pugh say a million and a half pounds of wool will be sent east for storage from Modena before the season is over. They explain that the wool they are shipping is fine wool, which brings 15 cents in the eastern market, before cleaning.

Secretary C. R. Stewart continues cheerful and optimistic. He says the outlook throughout the south is most favorable, and reports the movement meeting with sympathy throughout the States as well as throughout neighboring states.

Considerable criticism is being heard over the cries of "Traitor" raised within the class few days ago. Some say it is an injustice to do this without making known the name of the person, as it leaves all of them under a cloud. This is not a fair and square way of playing, and will result in much bitter feeling at just the time when harmony and trust should be supreme among growers, they declare.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—The grand old historic and romantic play of "Richelleu" at the theater last night drew the largest audience which has yet assembled to greet Mr. Mantell and his company. While this play to Salt Lake theatergoers is so old as almost to be hackneyed, yet in the hands of an artist like Mr. Mantell it is invested with a freshness, a vigor and a new life which cause one to forget its age, and the stirring episodes of the play are so well portrayed by the excellent company, that they thrill with all the delight that used to greet Richelleu in its virgin days.

Mr. Mantell's interpretation of the wily cardinal is strongly impressive, clear cut and majestic. He has chosen not to give the part the foxy, cunning shades with which most actors invest it, but he rather makes the character one of lines of dignity, patriotism and loftiness of purpose. In the telling climax, and especially in the great scene where he invokes the aid of Rome upon those who would dare to tear Julie from his side, he rose to grandeur and here he was greeted with tempestuous applause. The curtain calls were as hearty and enthusiastic as usual. The supporting company has never been seen to better advantage. Mr. Burby has done nothing better than his Laramie and Mr. McLean was strong as Adrian. Miss Russell gained new laurels to her already heavy accumulation, by her rendition of Julie. The costumes, mounting, and music were of the highest degree of excellence. The rendition of some old time familiar airs by the orchestra, was especially appreciated.

Tonight Mr. Mantell presents "Othello."

Orpheum—This evening is "society night" at the Orpheum, and the popularity of the bill ought to assure a big audience.

Grand—"Convict 999" is in its closing nights and will be succeeded by a new play, "The Confessions of a Wife."

VETOED ONCE MORE.

Mayor Bransford Still Disapproves of James Kennedy $9,988 Award.

Mayor Bransford has again vetoed the action of the city council in awarding to James Kennedy $9,988 for pumping water from the intercepting sewer, reiterating his former contention that the work was covered in the contract, and that the city was not liable for any additional expense.

The claim was vetoed first two weeks ago, when Mayor Bransford returned the resolution of the council approving the money to the body, stating that the city was not liable for the claim. The council not desiring to override the veto, but still wishing to pay the claim, which most of the members considered a just one, amended the veto, making it read that the bill was to be payment in full for all extra claims for damages, of whatever nature arising from the work of pumping water from the intercepting sewer that might be claimed by Kennedy. The city attorney had declared that should the matter come to a suit, the city would have no defense against the claim, and the city engineer admitted that the city was liable for at least part of the claim. The matter will no doubt be disposed of at the meeting of the council next Monday evening, when the mayor's veto will either be sustained, in which event Kennedy will sue the city for the money, or passed, the claim over the head of the city's chief executive, and settle the contractor's bill.

STARS TO CLASH IN ANNUAL MEET

Five-Sided Intercollegiate Track And Field Event for Tomorrow.

STRANGERS ON THE CAMPUS.

Entries Reveal Some New Men Whose Merit is Known Only in the Schools From Which They Come.

Five teams, representing as many educational institutions of the state will clash on Cummings field tomorrow afternoon, in the annual intercollegiate track meet. The state university has defeated two of the strongest teams that they will meet tomorrow, but in each of these schools they have found some stars that take some firsts. The A. C. U. has several strong weight men who have not been beaten, including Hansen, and in Nebeker, a young runner that has not been defeated in the mile. The B. Y. U. expects to win the mile, and the C. U. expects to win the broad jump with Baird, who recently established the new state record of 22 ft. 7 in. Baird and Henline are both good high jumpers, and Peterson is strong in the weights. One of the keenest fights will probably be between Archie McAllister of the L. D. S., who just completed in the trout for the Olympic games in San Francisco, and Sam Brinton, the "U" track sprinter, who has not been defeated this season. These stars clash in the trial heat of the hundred yard dash and if they run the fastest heat will race again in the final.

The 220 yards are arranged so that it is possible for Brinton, McAllister and Peterson to clash in the final. A close fight is expected between Ferguson, who won fame in the Golden Foot ball game, and Nielson, last year's champion on the low hurdles. Coach Macdonald will be in the crowd, as he has not returned from Chicago, where his mother is very ill. The entries for the meet are as follows:

High hurdles, first heat, Aldens, A. C.; Hunt, U. of U.; Roskelly, B. Y. U.; second heat, Nielson, U. of U.; Couger, A. C.; Love, B. Y. U. 100 yard dash, first heat, Jensen, B. Y. ## RETIREMENT COMMISSION.

Principals and teachers of the city schools held a meeting yesterday afternoon in the Packard library, at which time three members were chosen to serve as commissioners for the retirement fund. The board will consist of seven members, three of whom will be principals, and four teachers, one of whom will be named by the board of education, and the superintendent of city schools, and the clerk of the board to constitute the remaining two.

The election conducted by the teachers' association yesterday was highly spirited, resulting in the selection of William Bradford, Miss Frances Quatroch and H. H. Hansen, B. Y. U., to serve three, two and one year terms, respectively. Miss Quatroch and Principal Oscar Van Cott were candidates with Mr. Bradford for the long term.

RECRUITS ARE SCARCE.

More Young Men Desire to Join the Navy Than the Army.

The army recruiting stations in this city and Ogden are not having a specially rushing time of it in harvesting recruits, for in the last 10 days, but one man has been accepted at Ogden and five in this city. Capt. Meyer of the Fourteenth cavalry, the officer in charge, says there are applications for enlistment in the navy every day, but as this is entirely out of his line the applicants are referred to the nearest naval recruiting station, which is at Denver. He believes it would pay the navy department to open a recruiting office in this city—it would certainly be a convenience. When the matter of the disparity of enlistments between the army and navy was mentioned, Capt. Meyer said the navy is having a great boom now, in consequence of the trip of the great American fleet, and the displays in California and Mexican waters. Then, besides, the naval service offers many more attractions than the purely land service of the army, for warships are constantly visiting foreign ports, so the men on board mingle with the people of many nations, and acquire a general and valuable knowledge that only such an experience can bring. Moreover, when any forces are to be landed, it is the marines who are sent in first.

Capt. Meyer is pleased with the deserved advance in the pay of non-commissioned officers, by the new bill that has passed congress, especially the increase in the pay of first sergeants. He says a first sergeant of good administrative capacity and character is a veritable treasure. With such an officer in a company command, the captain need not worry about the management of his command. A good first sergeant is of more value even than a sergeant major, as the duties of the latter are more of a clerical character, being the chief clerk of the regiment. The action of Congress is on the whole very timely, and will do away with a great deal of dissatisfaction in the army.

BAMBERGER ABANDONS PLAN.

In the Face of Opposition He Will Not Enter Ogden This Year.

Explaining that unfair and unjust measures have been used by enemies anxious to block the arrival of the Salt Lake & Ogden in the Junction City, President Simon Bamberger, who is up to the light, "It is useless to try, when every move possible is being made to prevent our coming to Ogden. We do not want our line we will get along without a Junction City terminal for the time being. We had planned big things for the city, but in the line right at once is an impossibility. There are many motives behind this policy, but we will not discuss them."

Everything was completed except the entrance into the city. The Ogden Rapid Transit and various citizens have objected strenuously to Lincoln avenue being made the right of way for a steam system. Mr. Bamberger promised electricity as soon as possible, but failing to get a welcome, he has decided to relinquish the hope of entering Ogden this year, and to withdraw such request so made and now pending for your consideration.

"Respectfully," "SALT LAKE & OGDEN RAILWAY COMPANY."

General Manager, Simon Bamberger, President and General Manager.

MEET HERE TO WED.

An interesting romance was consummated yesterday afternoon in this city. F. W. Shrader, formerly of Utica, N. Y., and now a well-to-do mining man of goldfield, Nev., arrived here to meet the love of his youth, Miss Jennie Chaffield of Troy, N. Y., to whom he has been traveling for some time, and who had traveled the distance to Salt Lake to meet him. A license was secured and the two went to the First Methodist church, where they were united by the Rev. F. H. Short. Mr. and Mrs. Shrader are stopping at the Knutsford for a few days, preparatory to locating at Goldfield.

Juvenile Court Officers Have Two Little Girls Seeking Mother's Care.

The juvenile court officers are trying to find a home for two pretty little tots, 4 and 2 years old respectively, the children of Mrs. Emily Leatham, of 58 West 1st St. Mrs. Leatham's husband came to Salt Lake from Europe a year ago, but had not been here a month when the father and husband deserted his wife and children and compelled the woman to earn the living for herself and two little ones. Mrs. Leatham has been working in a laundry leaving the children at the home of friends, but the people are now moving and they were unable by the Rev. F. H. Short to secure a place for them temporarily in an orphan's home. The children are healthy and strong and exceptionally pretty, and are both girls.

LID ON THE GRAND JURY.

From now on until an indictment is returned or a report is made finding that evidence has not been secured on which to warrant the issuance of one, the United States grand jury will continue its investigations in a more secret way than heretofore. Judge Marshall has issued a request to all federal officials in the building that they do not discuss the case further until it is found that the grand jury has had access to the ante-room where witnesses were waiting, have been requested not to publish names of more witnesses. A long session was held this morning and the hope of an early adjournment seems to have passed.

WIFE TELLS SAD STORY

Margaret Smith Says Her Husband Beats and Locks Her Up At Home.

Margaret Mattie Smith, a bride of less than one year, has entered the divorce courts praying for divorce and liberal alimony. Her suit is filed against Charles Smith, whom she charged with acts of inhuman cruelty and non-support. She says that they were married in this city Aug. 5, 1907. All apparently went happily until Dec. 3 of last year. At that time she was hit in the chest by a heavy blow delivered from the fist of her husband, causing her much pain and anguish. When this year was only four days old, Smith, according to the wife's plaint, threw her to the floor with such vigor that she was made ill and lame, being forced to remain in bed for two weeks. The following March he pulled her from her bed and locked her up, thereby causing her much pain, mental suffering and anguish. Many times, she says, her husband has locked every room in the house except the kitchen and one little bedroom, keeping her out of the locked rooms and forcing her to live in two unlocked rooms. She asks divorce, $25 temporary alimony, $100 suit money, and $1,000 permanent alimony.

Mrs. Ethel M. Anderson Sues $10,075 Damages for Personal Injuries.

The case of Ethel M. Anderson vs. the Salt Lake & Ogden Railroad company commenced in Judge Lewis' court this morning, when the work of securing a jury was taken up. Mrs. Anderson seeks to recover $10,075 damages from the railroad company for personal injuries suffered by her in alighting from one of defendant's trains at Farmington Crossing on April 8, 1907, in which the plaintiff claims she was violently thrown to the ground and injured externally and internally by the negligence of the company in starting the train before she had alighted on the ground.

The company in its answer denies each and every allegation made in the complaint, including the charge that the train was started before the plaintiff could alight from the train.

SUPREME COURT.

The supreme court this morning heard arguments in the case of Mrs. O. W. Benson, respondent, against the Oregon Short Line, appellant, appealed from the judgment of the district court at Logan. The case was submitted after argument, as was also that of K. A. Pennington, respondent, vs. the Redman Van & Storage company, appellant, brought up on appeal from Judge Lewis' division of the Third district.

NON-SUIT GRANTED.

A Colaianni vs. the Central Coal and Coke company was the title of a case which came to an unexpected termination this morning. The suit was for the death of a member of the Colaianni family while in the employ of the company. Towards the close of court yesterday afternoon the defendant moved for non-suit. Judge Marshall before whom the case was being tried took the motion and granted it.
