

Utah. Care is required for the production of fine fruit of all kinds and pear growers will do well to examine their trees during the present season and stop the ravages of pear blight as soon as the disease shall appear.

Another Marriage.—And now we are to chronicle the marriage of our fellow workman, Mr. Godfrey Lienhard, for many years night-watchman at the News office, who yesterday was united in wedlock with Miss Eliza Roth, a lady from his native Switzerland. The ceremony took place in the Endowment House. We wish our worthy friends all the joy and happiness their hearts can wish in the life now passing and in the eternity to come.

Scalded to Death.—The following special came over the wires, this morning at 11 o'clock:

KANAB, May 21, 1880.
Editors Deseret News:

Yesterday, at 2 p. m., George Francis Stillson, aged six years, son of Wm. Lacy Stillson, of this place, accidentally fell into a tannery vat of hot water, submerging the entire body except the head and one shoulder. He was helped out by an older brother, and ran home, a distance of thirty rods. He apparently did not suffer much during the afternoon and night, but expired at 8.30 this morning.

Respect for Dead.—Our correspondent, "Nephite," writes from Nephi, Juab County, under date of the 20th inst., giving a description of ceremonies over the grave of Bro. Benjamin B. Riches, whose death was noticed in this paper a short time ago. Deceased was a workman on the Utah Southern Extension, and his fellow laborers, as soon as the were apprised of his death, which was an unexpected blow to them, appointed a committee, consisting of Messrs. David Latimer, James Duncan, John H. Brough, William C. Wheeler and Levi Hunt to draft sentiments of respect and condolence, and wait upon the bereaved family and obtain permission to manifest their love and esteem for the departed by placing a marble tombstone on his grave. The father was much moved at the kindness evinced by the deputation and their friends, and freely gave his consent. Accordingly, on the 18th inst., the stone was put in its place with appropriate ceremonies. It is a well executed piece of work from the establishment of Morris & Evans, of this city, and bears upon it an inscription and some verses. A large number of the citizens of Nephi attended the ceremonies, and during the placing of the stone the Nephi Brass Band, under Captain Hawkins, played appropriate music. Remarks were made by Elders L. A. Bailey and David Latimer, and by the father of the deceased, who thanked the assembly for the respect shown to the memory of his son.

Railroad Fatality—Drowned.—A Junction correspondent writes from Beaver Cañon, Idaho, that on the morning of the 19th a man named Case, was run over by a loaded car while it was switched around by hand in the yard at Red Rock, M. T. Both his legs were broken. He was sent to Logan, but died of the effects of his wounds.

Also, on the morning of the 20th a little girl of three or four years was drowned in a creek near her parents' residence in that vicinity.

"Watchman" Writings.—From the Beaver Watchman of the 19th: The fruit is nearly all killed in Beaver County.

The first regular train of cars arrived at Milford on Saturday evening last. For the time being, trains will arrive at 11.30 p. m., and depart at 1.30 next morning.

A tin shop is badly needed in Beaver, and the opportunity for a good mechanic in this line to make at least wages, is as good as can be found elsewhere.

Bishop Shepherd informs us that his sheep herd of some 20,000 head got through the winter without considerable loss. The main portion of the herd was wintered in the western part of the county on greasewood with a small admixture of white sage.

Dr. Cowdery, Post Surgeon at Fort Cameron, on Saturday last successfully removed a splinter of steel from the eyeball of William Williams of Milford. The operation was performed without administering ether, the patient exhibiting great nerve.

Horse Thieves Captured.—The Pioche Record, of a recent date, says that Sheriff Chas. Thomas, of Lander County, arrived there on Sunday last from Pahranaagat Valley, accompanied by S. Dodge, having in charge two horse thieves, named Charles Watson and Henry Bodden, arrested in the valley for stealing horses in Lander County. These two thieves stole cattle in Utah, drove them to Austin, and sold them, and desiring to make the return profitable, stole horses around Austin. Sheriff Thomas, accompanied by another man of Austin, started in pursuit and were about three weeks on the trail, the thieves doubling on their pursuers and giving them a great deal of trouble to keep the track; but Thomas and his assistant persevered, sleeping out in the mountains most of the time, covered with only a saddle blanket, and kept on the track all the time, until they finally captured their game, with the assistance of Dodge, in Pahranaagat. Sheriff Thomas left Pioche with his charge for Austin, the Monday following his arrival there.

Missionary Report.—We have had the pleasure of perusing an interesting letter from Elder John W. Burt, now on a mission to the northwestern States, to his father, in this city. By permission we make some extracts from it.

The letter is dated May 17th, at which time the young man and his companion, Brother Jackson, were in Dowagiac, Michigan, where they had held an open air meeting the day before, in the public park. The people have much prejudice against our principles, though they listen respectfully to the elders. Some are favorable, but fear to have it known, fearing that their business will be injured. The town is described by Brother Burt as teeming with corruption and licentiousness, and wickedness of all kinds is practised in the most shameless and unbecoming manner. The brethren were, at the time of writing, awaiting directions from Brother Palmer as to where they should proceed and begin their permanent labors. The writer was in good health and in the best of spirits, and feels anxious to perform an honorable and useful mission.

Accompanying the letter is a communication to the mother of the young missionary from a Mrs. Harper, who is boarding at the same house in Dowagiac as the elders. The lady writes very warmly concerning the youthful messenger who, she declares will never lack friends wherever he goes, having already made many in that place. She had listened to his preaching, was impressed with his earnestness, and was disposed, at least, to treat all such persons kindly, and with due consideration.

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY, MAY 24.

P. E. Fund Meeting.—There will be a meeting of the assistant Presidents of the P. E. Fund Company, at the Council House on Wednesday evening at 7 p. m. A full attendance is particularly requested.

ALBERT CARRINGTON,
President.

Reorganization.—Sisters E. R. Snow and E. B. Wells yesterday visited South Cottonwood, where Sister Eliza reorganized the primary association. Sister Martha G. Young was elected president, and 135 members were enrolled.

The "Breach" Suit.—The case of the London Bank of Utah vs. Wells, Fargo & Co., for alleged breach of contract, is in progress in the District Court. The representations of the plaintiff were published at the time the suit was instituted, over a year ago. They were to the effect that the defendant had contracted to sell its banking business to the plaintiff, but afterward repudiated the agreement.

The Silk Factory.—The new silk factory at the mouth of City Creek Canyon is rapidly approaching completion. The building, which is a substantial brick structure, is finished, the roof on and the work on the interior is progressing rapidly. The machinery will soon be put in and running. The ground on the south and east of the building has been put under cultivation, and quite a number of mulberry trees are set out and growing nicely.

McClanahan's Case.—P. D. McClanahan, the "indignant doctor" of Provo, it will be remembered, was at last accounts in jail, unable to procure bonds, pending his examination at Springville, on a charge of indirectly causing the death of Henry Wheelan, the stranger who died at that place a few days ago. We are told by the Enquirer that on Wednesday last, McClanahan secured bonds to the required amount ($1,000) and was set at liberty. His wife and Mr. John W. Brown were his sureties. Last Friday the accused party went to Springville, accompanied by Attorney J. B. Milner and Sheriff Turner, to attend the examination. McClanahan, on account of the prejudice of the citizens of that place, moved for a change of venue. This was refused, but the case was continued until Tuesday (to-morrow) the 25th inst.

"Enquirer" Notes.—A new postal route is opened from Ferron City via Castle Dale to Huntington, and thence to the point where mail route No. 33,164 crosses Green River.

Geo. H. Clark, of Pleasant Grove, was arrested on Thursday night, by Sheriff Turner, on a charge of obtaining property (a cow) under false pretenses.

A Glenwood correspondent writes: "The health of the people here is generally good; crops are doing well, notwithstanding the late and backward spring. Peach buds have all been killed by the hard winter; there are good prospects, however, for a large crop of apples, plums and small fruit. The new grist mill is progressing, as also are other improvements. Our tannery that was burned down last year has not yet been rebuilt, for the reason that we have no tanner in our community, and we have so far been unable to engage a man who understands the business."

The Ogden Libel Case.—The case of Reeves vs. Gillogly, wherein the plaintiff claims to have been libeled in an article written by the defendant to an Ogden newspaper, on the 31st of January last, came up before Judge Emerson on Saturday morning. The complaint was a lengthy one, setting forth the facts above and asking $50,000 damages. The plaintiff says:

"Judge Thomas, after reading the complaint, entered a demurrer to it on the ground that the plaintiff had failed to show wherein the libel lay or to specify what particular portion thereof was objected to as being slanderous. The gentlemen made many citations, and was followed by Mr. Richards, who produced several authorities to prove that the article was libelous to the fullest extent. The gentleman made an able and convincing argument in his reply. After the reassembling of the court, Judge Williams, commenced his argument. Mr. Margary next addressed the court, and after arguments, each side was required to furnish briefs, and the case was taken under advisement. Court adjourned until 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Further Particulars.—Last week we published a notice from the Junction of the death, in Logan, of a man named Case, from the effects of injuries received on the Utah and Northern Railroad. The following from the Logan Leader of Friday, gives the full particulars of the affair. In this account, it will be seen, the man's name is given as Casey.

On Wednesday morning last at the terminus of the Utah and Northern Railway an accident of a most distressing nature occurred. A man by the name of Peter Casey, a carpenter, working there, was crossing the track while a flying switch was being made. He did not see his danger until the car was close upon him. He endeavored to escape, but as he sprang to one side his foot caught the rail and he was thrown prostrate. Before he could arise the wheels were upon him, and a terrible injury was incurred to his right leg, being broken in two places above the knee, while the flesh and muscles were literally chopped to pieces. He was picked up and such assistance as could be rendered was given. He was brought to this city by the first train, arriving here on Thursday morning. Doctor Ormsby was summoned, and examination made by him revealed the fact that speedy amputation was necessary, as gangrene had commenced. Casey was removed to the Logan House; and there the operation was performed by Dr. Ormsby, assisted by Doctors Lamoreaux, Norcross and Wingard. The amputation was made a very short distance below the hip joint.

It was thought after the amputation, that the patient would survive, but it appears he afterward succumbed to the frightful shock received in the accident. Deceased was 33 years of age, and was a native of Dublin, where his mother is now living. He also has a brother in St. Louis.

Tabernacle Services.—A good sized congregation assembled at the Tabernacle yesterday afternoon and were addressed in turn by Elders John Morgan and Chas. W. Penrose.

Elder Morgan was pleased to have the privilege of once more meeting with the Saints; a privilege he esteemed the more on account of his recent absence from home, fulfilling his mission in the Southern States. The speaker then gave a condensed report of the progress of the work of the Lord in those regions where he had recently been laboring. A marked change had taken place in the minds and sentiments of the people during the past twelve months. The spirit of mob violence and persecution, so prevalent a few months ago, had to a great extent abated. Newspapers which formerly published the most bitter and persecutive articles, which incited the ignorant masses to deeds of violence against the Elders and their converts, were now more moderate in tone, and especially deprecated mob violence. They began to realize that wherever the elders were mistreated and abused the most, they afterward made more converts than anywhere else. They therefore advised the people to cease using such means to stop the spread of "Mormonism," as it was evident that such methods were but assisting its growth. Elder Morgan spoke of the faith, energy and perseverance of the young elders who went forth to preach the gospel, and of the sympathy expressed for them by the people who admired their honesty, hardihood and sincerity, in leaving their homes and everything dear to them, to preach an unpopular religion and meet the taunts, insults and abuse of its inhabitants. Many not only expressed sympathy, but evinced their kindly feelings by protecting and entertaining the brethren while in their midst. The people of the Southern States, as a race, were kind and hospitable in nature. The most intolerant persons to be met with were professed ministers of the Gospel. To their efforts, mainly, was due all the unkind treatment experienced by our missionaries and their adherents. A spirit of unrest and disunion seemed widespread among the people, a spirit of inquiry, and a desire to be up and moving. Many were emigrating, especially the saints whose hearts warned them of the things that were coming. Their main object was to leave the homes of their childhood and "flee unto Zion for safety." Many of the saints from the Southern States had removed to Colorado during the past year, and were doing well there. The inhabitants of those regions did not at first like the idea of the "Mormons" coming among them. They had learned from past experience with other "whites" how little they were to be trusted, and supposed the "Mormons" were even worse, from the stories told about them. But they had since found that the "Mormons" had been misrepresented, and the latter now had their confidence. The speaker then spoke of the inconsistencies of the religious world, of the hypocrisy of those who overlook the corruption existing under their very eyes to gaze afar off at what they consider the immorality of Utah, and of the divisions in religion and politics manifest everywhere, among those who boast of the greatness and power of civilized Christendom. The prediction was certainly fulfilling that every man's hand should be turned against his brother. The seeds of dissolution had been widely sown and the harvest thereof would be very great.

Elder Penrose expressed his satisfaction at hearing from Brother Morgan of the favorable condition of the work in the Southern States, and of learning from time of the progress of the cause among other nations of the earth. The Gospel had been preached in many countries, but there were many that had never heard it. All must hear it ere long, for it was to be preached to every nation under heaven, as a witness, before the end should come. The speaker was pleased to hear of the faithful labors of the young elders, upon whom a portion of the work devolved of warning the nations of coming events. There were in this church upward of 70 quorums of sevens, whose special mission was to go forth, under the direction of the Apostles, and proclaim the glad tidings of peace and salvation to the inhabitants of the earth. Their priesthood was not an ornament nor an empty title, but it was an appendage to the Apostleship; and they were expected to be up and doing, at all times ready to respond to a call to go forth in the performance of their important duties. There was a great work to be done. Every man and woman among this people was to be a minister of righteousness. Preaching the Gospel to the nations was not all of that work, though much of it; yet remained undone. Darkness covered the earth and gross darkness the minds of the people. Men had gone astray from God, and he had withdrawn his spirit from them. He had ceased to reveal himself as formerly. But now the Gospel was again restored for the conversion of the world to the truth, and all had something to perform. Every man warned, must warn his neighbor. The time was short. The signs predicted by the Savior were taking place, which were to immediately precede his coming. Among these signs, was that of the Gospel being preached to all nations. Israel was gathering from the four quarters of the earth. The wise were trimming their lamps and preparing to meet the Bridegroom, while the foolish were idly slumbering. There was yet much good in the world, and it must be gathered out. Every soul was precious. It was the mission of the Gospel to save souls. The Saints should be alive to their duties. The whole Church should thrill with life and spirit to accomplish the great and mighty work for which it had been established on the earth. The speaker then bore his testimony and closed his discourse.

UNQUESTIONABLE.

The "Herald," Detroit, Mich., says of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure: "Its efficacy in kidney, liver and all urinary diseases is so fully acknowledged that it is not worth the questioning. Bona fide testimonials from well known citizens in public and private life are evidences strong enough to convince the most stubborn doubter."
