BREVITIES.

Grace is to the body what good sense is to the mind.

Voters in Italy have to pay a tax and able to read and write.

Tostee has brought $10,000 worth of "Grand Duchesse" costumes from Paris.

Bal temper is now called a "severe attack of inflammatory disposition."

Can call "After Dark"—Boulevard's best (speculation).

Leaded dust is being extensively circulated in Idaho and the Walla Walla country.

A truly loyal speaker at Sumpter, S. C., declared that radicalism would triumph "from Dan to Omega."

A live Lord and Member of Parliament has been playing on the London stage.

A young stock broker having married an old widow with $100,000, says it wasn't his wife's face that attracted him so much as the figure.

To an epitaph on a husband and wife, in an English graveyard, this holy text is added: "Their warfare is accomplished."

Homer Lane, the New York wrestling champion, offers to wrestle any man in the world for from $500 to $2,000 a side.

Another indication of peace! Opposite the town of Mayence, Germany, two thousand workmen are employed in constructing three new batteries.

A man who objected to the broken and disconnected notes of the mosquito, bought a net, and says he is now satisfied, as they all get inside and keep on a steady hum, which is pleasant.

One who has ciphered it out says that ten cents placed on compound interest would accumulate sufficiently to pay our national debt in four hundred and fifty-six years.

The Baboos in India have given up idols and the Shastees, and have for themselves accepted Theodore Parker. Some are Pantheists, others Deists.

A Boston paper claims that Neal Dow was not the originator of the Maine Liquor Law, but that it came into existence in Connecticut in 1841.

The Age says that never were the streets of Philadelphia in such a filthy condition as they now present. The stench from some of them is enough to breed a pestilence.

If you would add lustre to your accomplishments, study a modest behaviour. To excel in everything valuable a great; but to be above conceit on account of one's accomplishment is greater.

A working-woman in New York tells Miss Anthony that working on a machine wears out faster than with a needle.

"We're in a pickle now," said a man in a crowd. "A regular jam," said another. "Heaven preserve us!" mourned an old lady.

A grocer in France not long ago subscribed towards a statue to Voltaire. "Idiot!" said his wife, "what did you do that for?" "Polity, my dear, polity! I've read somewhere that he is very fond of coffee, and perhaps he'll trade with us."

The milkmen of Toledo recently had a picnic, when one of their number wore pumps, which was regarded as a reflection upon his associates, and they gave him a ducking.

Teacher—"If a man gave you a hundred dollars to keep for him, and died, what would you do? Would you pray for him?"

Pupil—"No, sir; but I would pray for another like him."

"Say, Sambo, where do de rebels suffer de most?"

"Why in de feet (defeat) to be sure. What you ax such silly questions for, Peter?"

It may not be generally known that the first man killed in a duel in America was stabbed by his adversary one evening on Boston Common, and his body was buried in the old Granary Cemetery, near the Park Street Church. He was a young man about twenty years of age, named Benjamin Woodbridge, and got into a quarrel with his companion over a game of cards. This occurred July 3, 1728. Woodbridge's antagonist, who was a young merchant, fled to France, where he died of disease of the heart.

Corn for seed should be selected personally before the stalks are cut up. Go through the best part of the field, marking the ears on the most prolific stalks, and choose the ears which please you best on the stalks, which are of medium size and not given to suckering. Mark by a string tied around the middle of the ear. At husking time all these ears should be saved by themselves, and out of them when the husks are stripped back, one can select the most perfect. Mark two or three times as many as you will need.

It is astonishing to see how well a man may live on a small income, who has a handy and industrious wife. Some men live and make a far better appearance on twenty dollars a week, than others do on thirty dollars. The man does his part well, but the wife is good for nothing. She will even upbraid her husband for not living in as good style as his neighbor, while the fault is entirely her own. His neighbor has a neat, capable and industrious wife, and she takes the difference. His wife, on the other hand, is a whirlpool into which the appearance of the water would not be changed. No Nicholas Diver is there to restore the treasure. It is only an insult for such a woman to talk to her husband about love and devotion.
