Warsaw, 16.—At the grand banquet last night, ninety persons participated. The Emperor William conducted the Czarina to the table, the Czar and Emperor Francis Joseph followed next. The Czarina was seated at the center table with the Austrian Emperor on her right and the German Emperor on her left hand. The Czar sat on the opposite side of the table. On his right hand sat the Grand Duchess Maria Paulovna, and next to her Prince Bismarck. There were no toasts, but at the instance of the Emperor William the three monarchs drank wine together.

London, 16.—A Vienna dispatch to the News says: While the three Emperors were hunting at Skiernivice, their three premiers were in conference, and there is reason to believe a triple alliance is concluded. The same dispatch states that the Austro-Hungarian cabinet will be convened upon the return of the Emperor. The Berlin Emperor will go from Skiernivice direct to Castle Henrath to witness the military manoeuvres at Dusseldorf. The Empress and General Von Moltke have already arrived at the Castle Henrath.

The Times correspondent at Foo Chow telegraphs: Five of the French vessels have returned to Malson. Great indignation is felt at the death of the lieutenant of the Zephyr. The French are more severely censured than the Chinese. The public is agitated at the condition of affairs. Meetings are being convened to urge mediation or the French will march on Peking. Complications are occurring daily which are certain to involve the neutral powers. The correspondent comments on the weakness of the armament of the English fleet, as compared with the French squadron. The French, he says, can fire eight guns to the English one, and their crews number five to one. England, he concludes, whose interest in China are 8 per cent of all the foreigners there, is the only power not making preparations for possible war.

The Foreign Office has written a letter to the Chamber of Commerce, Glasgow, stating that the British Consul at Shanghai has formally advised the Chinese authorities that it would be to the interests of commerce to reconsider the contemplated blocking of the river at that port.

The phrase to "fire out" as meaning to expel may be slang now, the New York Graphic points out, but Shakespeare concludes his 144th sonnet with the following two lines:

Yet this shall I ne'er know but live in doubt
Till my bad angel fire my good one out.

DROWNING.

The following simple directions will be found beneficial in a case of drowning:

Keep the head raised, dry the body, and rub with hot cloths, let one person press on the chest with his flat hands, and another, also, with his flat hands, shove the belly up to the chest, then suddenly take away their hands, in this way by performing the action of respiration, endeavor to restore breathing. A hot bath is also of great value. Have several assistants to rub the body with their hands, clear the mucus from the mouth, hold the nose and then suck out the foul air with a tube and blow in fresh air as represented in the cut; place hot bricks and bottles of hot water in the armpits, between the thighs and at the feet, keeping up the friction the whole time; irritate the nostrils with a feather or hartshorn and administer a clyster of warm turpentine. If possible apply electricity. This has been known to restore persons after being under the water twenty-five minutes.
