FirlY-SECULOR CONFERENCE.

The choir sang the bymn on page The time is nigh, the happy time, That great expected, blessed day. Prayer by Apostle F. M. Lyman.

The choir sang the hymn on page When earth in bondage long had lain, And darkness o'er the nations reigned.

APOSTLE ERASTUS SNOW

Had experienced much satisfaction in visiting for a few weeks past the Saints in the southern part of the Territory. He rejoiced in the spirit of the Most High made manifest thus far during this Conference. The Saints feel peculiarly interested in these things that pertain to the boilding up of the kingdom of God, and had the weather been favorable, this large Tabernacle would have been crowded. The Saints have ofttimes been persecuted in days gone by and their faith and perseverance have been severely tried; but God gave them success and laid His Church upon a sure foundation. The Prophet Joseph Smith, together with his bro her Hyrum, both sealed their testimony with their blood. The mission of the Latter-day Salats is not a mission of blood, war, strife nor contenbroadcast, falls upon a variety of soil, which is expressed in the parable of the Savior. Where the soil is rich and deep, it brings forth in some 60 and some an hundred fold. It teaches us charity, to love one another and to care for each other. It also teaches us to become one, according to the prayer, of our Savior. One main objection that the Chris-twin relics of barbarism. The Christian world at that time was very much divided and during the war, Christians on both sides, sent up their prayers to God for the success of their respec-tive armies. Had those prayers have been destroyed. The religion bill, the democratic scheme may succeed. of Jesus Christ enjoins Christian unity, and this unity is what the so far as morality is concerned there is more prostitution in one year in one of their large cities than there has been immorality of any kind in this Territory since its organization. He then gave an interesting and historical account of the way in which this country was first ceded by treaty to the American Government from Mexico, and touched upon the nature of the Territorial system of government and the refusal of Congress to admit Utah into Territory which was ceded to the United States. However, with all the disadvantages of being under a Territorial form of government, we have been a prospered people, we have opened up farms, established factories, built school-houses and manufactured many articles of general utility and educated our children without any aid from the children without any aid from the general government. These facts must be patent to the world, and give the lie to the charge of our being a licentions and vicious people. Are these the products of lawle: sness? We invite statesmen and others to our Sunday Schools, our assemblies and other places where they can learn our true character, instead of being led by the lying scribblers who are all the time trying to poison the public mind against us. Why are they afraid to mingle among the people about whom they wish to real information and learn the states than on the Pacific States. The labor element is very powerful in Pennsylvania, and if the democrats can derive any advantage from the Chinese issue, the fall election may show some strange results. The veto simply adds another factors to the already well defined issue between American capital which wants cheap labor and American labor which wants good wages. Chinese immigration our Sunday Schools, our assemblies

A great hue and cry is often heard about the one-man-power. Where, he would ask, could be found a greater exhibition of the one-manpower than was made manifest by the Governor of this Territory in giving a certificate of election to a man who received but 1,300 votes against 18,000 cast by the people for the man of their choice? He referred to the course taken in Congress during the passage of the Edinunds bill evitor money from Charles Francis Ad. ing the passage of the Edmunds bill and asked where was the state-men who did not vote as whipped into line by the lash of his party. He spoke of that great and glorious instrument of human liberty, the Constitution of the United States, of the world, and which he substantiated by reference to the Bibie and the Book of Mormon, showing the liberty of Isreel under the rule of the Judges, each tribe a commonwealth, and the chief ruler a man of God, and the happints of the Nephites under similar government. In the Book of Mormon we are told that God would establish upon this continent a free and independent government, and in the Book of Doctrine and Covenants that there would te no need for the Saints in observing the commandments of God, to break the laws of the Inditation of the country. This doctrine has been preached by the Prophet Joseph and his successors and practised by the Saints, and if this nation had hearkened to the voice of Joseph Smith it would have been freed at a tenth of the cost and without the shedding of blood. But following the war there has been a without the shedding of blood. But following the war there has been a diegeneracy among men in high places, moral, spiritual and political adams, waived examination, and in tending to the breaking down of the off barriers of constitutional literty. Even the Supreme Court once thought to be incorruptible had become tainted with this degeneracy, and now a returning board was sought to be folsted upon this lad was sought to be folsted upon this people after $5 years of vassalage under territorial government. He drew attention to the camyon roads in these mountains which often looked as though passage was barred, and yet a turn of the road would open to the view a broad and pleasant valley. So it would be in our experience if we keep our covenants and do right; the Lord will open the way and all will turn for our good. He endorsed the remarks of President Taylor and advised the purchase of such goods as must be imported, through our own co-operative stores instead of handing money the our correspondent and defamers,

St. Joseph, 7.—The Ford boys to-day received a threatening letter from a party signing himself "Neme, alias Reme." in an official envelope of the Tennessee Logislature. The letter vows bitter and bloody vengeance upon Robert for killing Jesse James. The Ford boys are in excellent spirits, and are treated royally by friends and admirers. Robert admits he said he regretted the killing of James, but maintains he said it in fun. He would have shot James if he had known he would be sent to the penitentiary for a vear, as James would have killed him if he learned of his connection with the detectives.
