READY WIT.

SOME HISTORICAL EXAMPLES OF REPETITIVE REPARTEE.

Parliamentary elections usually afford a good field for the exercise of wit, as a Chamber's Journal. While a noble lord was conducting his canvass he met a wily, who declared fiercely that he would "muster" vote for the devil than him. "I've not the slightest doubt of it, my friend," said the candidate, quietly; "but in the event of your friend not coming forward, I shall count on your vote?"

Here is another of the same kind: At an open political meeting a man cried: "Give us Jackson!" to which a bystander retorted, "Harrah for a jacker!" "All right, my man," exclaimed the first speaker, "you can vote for your favorite candidate and I'll do the same for mine."

As an example of quickness of repartee was shown by a French actor when the head of a goose was thrown upon the stage. He addressed the footlights, he said: "Gentlemen, if anyone among you has lost his head, I shall be glad to see it at the footlights, for the price of the table, remarked, 'I see, sir, that philosophers can sometimes indulge in good things.' 'Why not?' asked Descartes. 'Do you really imagine that Providence intended the good things of this earth only for the foolish and ignorant?'

Of wit bordering on the malicious there are many examples, and some of the reparations are fully deserved, while others are only calculated to give pain. Among the latter is one told at the expense of an elderly French widow who had fallen in love with a young nobleman, whose she was never tired of praising to her friends as 'handsome as one of Dumas' three musketeers. 'Yes,' said a young man who heard her, and who was possibly jealous, 'he is the musketeer, and you are 'Twenty Years After.'"

Much more merited than the above, probably, was the answer given by a fool to a disappointed suitor, who asked him in what new character he should go to a masquerade. 'I am a sober lady,' 'No, I'm not exactly engaged, but I have the refusal of two or three girls.' He undoubtedly deserved the crushing rejoinder: 'I suppose you mean you have asked them and they have said no more.' 'Then I guess you said to an idle Skyman: 'Why do you lie there all day with your hands in your pockets?' must have been taken back by the cold reply: 'Cause the has been far enough south to learn to put them in other people's'.

Ready wit cannot be said to be natural to youth, for the answers given by precocious schoolboys are not witty, being usually the outcome either of misunderstanding or of misapprehension. There are exceptions, however, to this rule. A teacher asks his class what was meant by "divers diseases" and was rather surprised when one of the boys answered, "water in the head."

A little girl of a girl asked her mother the meaning of "trans-Atlantic," and was told, "across the Atlantic." "Does 'trans' always mean 'across'?" mamma?" she then asked. "Yes," replied her mother, "but don't bother me any more." "Then I guess you mean a cross parent," was the conclusion the unconscious little humorist came to as she lapsed into silence.

Turning from expressed repartee, we find that there can be no less wit in the manner in which writers subscribe themselves. For instance, we have it upon record that, when Gleaner claimed the chieftainship of the MacDonald clan, the generally acknowledged chief wrote to him as follows: "My Dear Gleaner—As soon as you can prove yourself my chief I shall be ready to acknowledge you as such; meantime, I am yours, MACDONALD."

This letter may have suggested to Benjamin Franklin the note he wrote to a friend in England when the American colonies declared their independence, and which closed thus: "You and I were long friends. You are now my enemy and I am yours."

During the last half of the eighteenth century the governments of the day frequently kept themselves in power by bribing and corrupting members of parliament; and this was the case during the debates on the India bill, when the opposition, led by Fox, found its majorities steadily decreasing. This, it was known, of the work of the secretary to the treasury, John Robinson, who used both places and money to carry out the ministerial policy. One evening Sheridan, speaking of the decrease, said: "This is not to be wondered at, Mr. Speaker, when a member is employed to corrupt everybody to obtain votes." "Who is it?" Name him or withdraw!" rose fiercely from all parts of the house. Sheridan saw that he was in a predicament, but he was equal to the emergency. "Sir," he said, "it would be an unpleasant and an invidious thing to name the person and therefore I shall not do it. But don't suppose, sir, that I refrain because there is any difficulty in naming him; I could do that, sir, as soon as you could say Jack Robinson."

Sheridan's ready wit was equalled some years ago by another prominent politician on the occasion of the Derby being won by a French horse. The Frenchmen present, as was natural, cheered vociferously, and not content with that one of them shouted "Waterloo avenged!" "Yes," said the remark, "you ran well in both cases."

A Novelist's Arithmetic.

In Dickens' Christmas number, "Dr. Marigold's Prescriptions," one of the tales, 'To be Taken in Water,' describes the adventure of a clerk who, through France, through France, in charge of $250,000 in specie. He had it "in two iron boxes, inclosed in leather to look like samples." The French porters seemed to have noticed that the boxes were heavy, but managed them well enough for two porters to each box. My copy of "Dr. Marigold's Prescriptions" has a marginal annotation by an impatient reader, "Boh! A quarter of a million in gold coin would weigh upward of two tons. The calculation does not seem to be quite correct, but it would weigh about one ton, 1,700 weight, avoidupois. A clerk who got at the boxes is described in the story as stopped in making his way out of a window with a carpetbag full of sovereigns. The sanatorium reckons again, from the description of the bag, that it must have weighed 800 pounds. The wonder that the clerk easily noticeable escaped the sharp-tongued eye of Charles Dickens. Notes and Queries.

SOMEWHAT MISUNDERSTOOD.—Capt. George Brown, commander of the Norfolk navy yard, is at the Robert H. predecessor was Commodore Belknap, now commander of the Mare Island navy yard, California. The commodore used to tell a little story with great gusto. "A young lady was stopping with my wife," said he, "and went up to the city to do some shopping. After making her purchases she ordered the porter to take her to the house at the navy yard."

"Where?" asked the clerk.

"To the commodore's house at the navy yard," replied the young lady.

"Oh, yes; certainly. I thought I hadn't heard you right."

"When the young lady reached home she found her bundles addressed to 'Miss C., Common Dance House, navy yard.'"

SHE WAS CERTAIN.—The husband stood at the door, hat in hand, and spoke with a lunge of impudence in his tone.

"I am waiting, Maria," he said, "for my customary good-by kiss."

"Kissed you only a moment ago, John," replied the wife.

"Why, so you did, my love," said John, putting on his hat. "The you did."

"I spoke as nasty a pipe as you do," said Maria, "you would have no difficulty in remembering my kisses."

—Chicago Tribune.

NOT FOR INTERVIEW EXES.—"As you can only be a sister to me," he said, "and I am sure you will let me kiss you good night?"

She shyly said she would.

Then he folded her in his strong arm and, gently placing her head against his manly breast, kissed her passionately.

"Mr. Bamford," she said, softly, "this is all so new to me, so different from what I thought it to be, that I don't know what to do."

"To let it over, I say."

But let us withdraw from the sacred case.—New York Sun.

JUDGE CARLTON'S LETTER.

SALT LAKE CITY, August 7, 1888.

Dear Doctor—Before leaving for the east I wish to express my appreciation of your treatment of a complicated case of the eye. I have tried for several years to get far-seeing glasses and I had concluded that I could get none that would be of any use to me. But after I saw the wonderful benefit of your system, I take pleasure in saying that the glasses that you have restored my vision both for reading and far-seeing to the same condition as in my boyhood. I resolved to have you furnish me glasses after I witnessed your system applied to a beautiful young lady of 16 years from Summit County, afflicted with a complicated condition of the eyesight. She told me she had never been able to distinguish one's face at a distance of six feet. With Dr. Prentice's glasses she could see as well as any one. As she looked up and down the street, and for the first time in her life saw the distance clearly to him as follows: "I was delighted, and inquired with childlike simplicity, 'Do other people see this?' 'Yes,' he answered, 'a new world was opened to her view, as novel and beautiful as 'Eden's rose bowers,' appeared to our first parents."

Yours truly, B. CARLTON,

Chairman Utah Commission.

DR. PRENTICE, Salt Lake City, Utah.

The following are a few of the many cases of cross-eyes cured and straightened in this city in less than one minute:

Geo. A. Smith, Salt Lake City.

Louis M. Shettler, Salt Lake City.

Frank J. Hocking, Salt Lake City.

Florence Peppers, Salt Lake City.

Leah Riggs, Salt Lake City.

Sarah Wilder, Salt Lake City.

Joseph Melles, Salt Lake City.

David M. Campbell, Providence, Cache County.

Catherine Bivens, eye turned outward, and many others.

PILLS.

I have been tortured with Piles for many, many years, and have tried a great number of so called cures without any benefit. About two months ago Dr. Prentice treated me just once and has effected a perfect cure, and I feel confident from the condition I am now in they will never return.

Spanish Fork.

For twenty years I have suffered very much with Piles. I have often been obliged to quit work, and had become discouraged of ever being cured. Two months ago Dr. Prentice gave me one treatment, and I consider myself entirely cured. My health is better than it has been for years.

HUGO MOORE.

Spanish Fork.

I have been afflicted with Hemorrhoids (or Bleeding Piles) for the past twenty-five years. For several years past the pain has been so intense that I was forced to quit work. I found no relief either day or night, and was frequently compelled to walk the floor all night long, as it was impossible for me to sleep. In this condition I called on Dr. Prentice at the Continental Hotel, who, after a painless operation of less than one minute, relieved me from all pain, and I have been able to sleep and rest well ever since.

I consider myself perfectly cured, and unsolicited offer this testimonial for the benefit of those who may be similarly afflicted.

HENRY GANCOFF, 149 N. West Temple Street.

MADE HANDSOME.

Mr. B. H. Shettler, of Zion's Savings Bank, has a bright and intelligent little son, nearly nine years old, but who has suffered the unfortunate disfigurement all his life of being badly cross-eyed. Since Mr. Shettler's parents were very loath to trust any one to operate on her eyes. But they had faith enough to trust Dr. Prentice, and he has made the eyes perfectly straight, which was done in less than a minute, and Susan Shettler is now a handsome little girl, while her parents are well pleased.

SATISFIED AT LAST.

Geo. A. Smith of Salt Lake City is a young man formerly known throughout Utah. He has been troubled with a bad case of cross-eyes all his life. Several years ago he had an operation performed by an oculist, but it was not successful and did no good, consequently his faith was very much shaken about its ever being made straight. But at the Continental Hotel on Monday of the 12th Dr. Prentice made it straight in less than half a minute. Mr. Smith is delighted with the result and his friends are pleased. Mr. Smith said it caused him practically no pain.

At Continental Hotel, Salt Lake City, Utah, October 10.

ESTRAY NOTICE.

I HAVE IN MY POSSESSION:

One bay MARE, branded on left thigh 78 white strip in forehead, legs from knees down black.

If the above described animal is not found, and taken away on or before October 24th, 1888, it will be sold at the city estray pound, Washington Square, at public auction, to the highest responsible bidder, at 3 o'clock p.m.
