

day. The revised statutes provides that in case of a vacancy occurring during a session of the legislature, it shall be filled on the second Tuesday after notification is received.

The Post comments: They have resigned in a pet because they have not been allowed to have their own way. The act is contemptible in its childishness.

The Commercial says: The two republican representatives of the State whose electoral votes gave Garfield the presidency, are compelled in self-respect and out of regard for the honor and dignity of their State, to leave the two seats of New York in the United States Senate vacant.

The Express says this double resignation fills the city with excitement and speculation is rife. Senators refuse to talk. They evidently feel deeply.

If two good, loyal republicans like ex-Secretary Evarts and George William Curtis should be chosen in their places, the whole country would rejoice, and this would probably be the result if Conkling and Platt had resigned their places, subject to the filling of the vacancies by the election of a new legislature directly by the people upon a Conkling and anti-Conkling issue specifically defined.

The Senate confirmed Richard A. Ellmer, of New York, second assistant postmaster general; J. Henry Wilson, collector of customs, District of Columbia; Wm. H. Hunt, Jr.,

collector of customs, district of Montana and Idaho; Chas. E. Henry, United States marshal, District of Columbia; United States consuls—Albert Dow, Aleppo, India; Sydney Cooper, Gottenberg; Ernest Lappenheina, Cadiz; McWalter B. Noyes, Venice; Theodore M. Elder, Quayauquil.

ALBANY, N. Y., 16.—The clerk called the Senate to order this evening and read the following communication:

ALBANY, N. Y.

I hereby designate Senator Sessions to preside at the evening session of the Senate.

WM. H. ROBERTSON, Pres. pro tem.

Senator Sessions then took the chair. On motion of Wooden the reading of the Journal was dispensed with. Woodin said he understood there was a special order for tonight, but as no one felt like entering upon it he moved to adjourn. Carried, and the Senate adjourned.

At the session of the Assembly a communication was received from the Governor concerning the letters of resignation of United States Senators Conkling and Platt, also the joint letter from the senators giving their reasons for resigning. The resignations and letter of explanation were read by the clerk. The chamber was crowded with spectators, among whom were many senators. At the conclusion of the reading the chair announced the message would be entered upon the Journal.

When the resignations of Senators Conkling and Platt was received it was bulletined by the evening papers, but excited little interest. The hotels as usual on Monday were quiet and empty, and those who talked of the matter simply wondered what would be the next move. Later—Members of the legislature commenced arriving when some interest was manifested. No one, however, appeared to know what the result would be, not a few thought both senators would be re-elected, and it was suggested that Conkling would be elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Platt. This would give him two years more than he had to serve. No information could be secured at executive chambers beyond an expression of a supposition that the news was correct. Several rumors were set afloat, among them one that there will be a union of anti-Conklingites with the democrats to elect one senator from their wing and one democrat. The general impression is that both the resigned senators will be re-elected, and thus show the legislative endorsement of the position they occupied in order to counteract the influence of the resolutions of the Senate and assembly endorsing Senator Robertson's nomination. As soon as it was made known that the Governor intended to send a letter of reasons for the resignation to the legislature great interest was manifested to learn what they were. Both houses were crowded with spectators, and when the senate adjourned, those in that chamber found their way into the assembly chamber. During the reading of the letter, spectators occupied all the standing room, and at the conclusion of the reading the Speaker was obliged to order the floor cleared so that business could be proceeded with. Conkling men are very reticent and will not intimate what is to be done. Anti-Conklingites are in high glee. The time for going into election to fill the vacancies will be fixed to-morrow.
