CLUB CHAT.

An interesting meeting of the Daughters of Utah Pioneers was held on Wednesday afternoon, and the time devoted to reminiscences of Pioneer dramatics. A number of the old time local stars who were expected to speak were unavailable, and the time was filled by Mrs. Margaret Clawson, Mrs. Zina Young Card, Mrs. Henrietta Simmons and Mrs. Edna Clawson Tibbitts, who all gave most interesting and laughable memories of the dramatic days. Mrs. Clawson spoke of her first experience on the stage and related many amusing incidents connected with her stage career. Mrs. Card dealt more particularly with the audience of the early days describing the many unique incidents which attended the gathering of an early-day audience at the local theaters. Mrs. Tibbitts also told of amusing things that had happened under their observation. Music was rendered by Miss Margaret Summerhays and a chorus under Mrs. Ida Horne White. Bishop Sperry, who was present, made the opening prayer, and the county president, Mrs. Minnie Horne James, presided.

The current events and current literature section of the Ladies' Literary club, together with the tourist section, held a Russian afternoon yesterday at the club house, when all the club members were present. George N. Ift, gave a talk on that country, and Russian music was a feature and Russian tea served.

In Woman's World.

You can prepare a Christmas morning surprise for your family by sowing a week or ten days before some flowered in rich earth. On Christmas morning, transplant the seedlings to half watered shells, which must be glued to little cards with "Greetings" on them and tied with little red bows. Put one at each plate at the breakfast table and the delight they are sure to produce. If you can get some very small ferns you can add one to each fernery.

Following are some verses published in the December delineator as appropriate to be sent with Christmas gifts:

CALENDARS.

May all the days
Throughout this year
"Red-letters" be
To you, my dear.

May all the jeweled beads
Upon Time's rosary
Be gold without alloy—
This is my prayer for three

HANDKERCHIEFS.

Twelve bits of white fluff to my lady's
Boudoir—
As many as months in the year;
Here's hope that never a month nor

PREFERS HER DOGS TO MEN.

Princess de La Tour, one of the heiresses of the Parisian haute mode, is one of the most universally courted women in France, but to her intimates she has confided that she has never had cause to distrust anyone of her 'many dogs, while men, she believes—all men—are gay-deceivers.

Will hold for that lady a tear.

A BOX OF CIGARS.

Many a film of fairy fancy
Goes up in smoke each year;
But, being a woman, of course I can't see.

What dream-chrysalids are here.

NECKLACE.

A slender, golden, jeweled chain
For midday's neck so white and warm;
Both throat and chain new beauties gain—
They but enhance each other's charm.

A PHOTOGRAPH.

My replica I send,
As substitute for me;

Perhaps 'twill hang more gracefully
Than I could, on the tree!

A POCKETBOOK OR PURSE.

Shakespeare called me trash,
And that, perhaps, is true;
But when I'm filled with cash,
And you've been feeling blue,
Even a trashy friend, you'll find,
Has mighty power to ease your mind!

A RING.

As the circle is endless,
So it life typifies;
When broken, 'tis mendless;
Whosoever is wise
Its fair jewel will hold
And cherish its gold.

SALT LAKERS IN GOTHAM.

Special Correspondence.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—Last Monday evening, Prest. Ben. E. Rich, gave his first social, an "at home" to his friends of the Brooklyn conference, and a great crowd responded to the invitation. In the afternoon he entertained at dinner several relatives who are here, including Mrs. Libbie Rich Pratt, her daughter, Viola Pratt Gillett, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Bergener and Miley Pratt; an impromptu program was arranged. Mrs. Gillett, Mr. J. B. McFarlane, baritone, Leona Pratt Bergener, Oscar Kirkham, R. C. Easton, A. M. Durham, Harold Goff, Mesdames Stuart Kohn, E. Klein, Helene Davis, Ruth Hayes and Mabel Borg participating. Music was the principal feature, though recitations formed a part of the amusement which lasted until 11:30 o'clock when refreshments were served. Elder and Mrs. Ogden provided for that part of the entertainment. As a host Prest. Rich is at his best, and everyone felt himself and herself the most favored guest. At the conclusion all present pronounced it among the most enjoyable of evenings passed at the mission headquarters.

From Brooklyn Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Russon and Mr. and Mrs. C. Salisbury were visitors; both these gentlemen are art students of the Pratt institute, Brooklyn, and only occasionally are they seen on the New York side.

President Rich left for Albany Saturday to attend the New York conference there; he will then have visited every conference from Maine to West Virginia and as far west as Chicago, and personally will have talked with every elder in the field.

A week from today our conference will convene at Hawthorne hall, 151 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, and a good time is expected, as friends from Newark, Jersey City, Ocean Side and other places will be well represented.

At the Mutual Improvement session Tuesday evening several elders on their way from Great Britain and Germany, were present, among them E. L. Roberts of Provo, of the German and Swiss mission, David Birdshaw, E. D. Hanson, and Chas. Parsons, secretary of the Swiss mission, and Julia M. Thomas, who has labored in England; these elders, with Elder Lisle Smith, returned on the Republic, landing at Boston. Elder Smith came down from Boston Wednesday, and is visiting with friends for a few days here before starting west; his labors have been mostly in Switzerland, and the last year in Germany. In each field where he has lived there has been no lack of friends among elders and converts.

Mr. Stuart M. Kohn, who went as far west as Kansas City to take Mrs. Kohn's uncle, Mr. John Pett, to his home, returned Wednesday evening. After leaving Kansas City, business took Mr. Kohn to St. Louis, and while there he went to see Maude Adams in "What Every Woman Knows," the new J. M. Barrie comedy. He sent her over the footlights a handsome bouquet of American Beauties, with his card, stating that he was a stranger to the lady, but like herself a Utahn, and that they had many mutual friends living in New York. It was a graceful compliment to the actress, and no doubt one much appreciated.

Frohman announces that Miss Adams will be seen in her new play on Monday, Dec. 21, at the Empire for a run of eight weeks.

Julius McVicker, once of "The Bountiful" Erie "Bush" company, has been seen in several Salt Lake engagements; he has many friends there who will be glad to know that he has signed with Liebler & Co., and will support Viola Allen, Mr. McVicker was secured by Alan Dale and other critics for his work with Bessie Bonnell at the Majestic, but he drew the attention of managers to his acting, with the result that Liebler engaged him.

Thanksgiving has come, the turkey has gone and all are now looking forward to Christmas, and the arrival of the Christmas News. Thanksgiving is children's day in New York and the exhibitions of wild Indians, Buffalo Bill and other fantastic costumes, the children put on for this festive day would stampede a cowboy's parade. The streets are dangerous abiding places, for mischief is in the air and if you want to save your good clothes, do not wear them on Thanksgiving day. The occasion was well observed throughout the "colony," Mr. Turkey men in his profession here in a big city.

"The Southerners," a drama of war time, under the management of Wagners & Kemper, is playing the southern circuit. A. M. Moon, who has been studying with the Wheatcroft dramatic school in Carnegie Hall, for over a year, is now with the company, playing in the south. Arthur Morse, the stage name Mr. Moon has taken, includes his two first names only. Mr. Moon is a Salt Lake High school boy who has many friends in the west.

The big game between the Middle and West Point cadets, which came off yesterday, was witnessed by several Utahns. Mr. Jack Richards and Miss Nan Clawson, at the invitation of Midshipman Dan S. McQuarrie, took the early train to Philadelphia, meeting Mr. McQuarrie, and they all enjoyed an hour's social chat before the game started. The marching of the navy and cadets to their seats on the grand stand was a sight never to be forgotten; the flags, pennants and gaily trimmed megaphones, with the cheering and excitement attendant, made a deep impression on the Utah visitors. Mr. McQuarrie was overwhelmed with thanks for his courtesy to his home friends. The day was perfect, and every participant in the game was in excellent form. There was regret on all sides that the navy did not win, but it will prove an incentive to greater work with the defeated ones for the coming year. Midshipman McQuarrie, Miss Clawson and Mr. Richards, all enjoyed dinner together before separating to take their different trains home. The memory of it will remain always with the Salt Lake visitors, who were fortunate enough to receive invitations.

Miss Rea Nibley and Miss Margaret Spargo were invited by Mr. Scott Keating to be his guests for the day, and witness the game. Mr. Keating is a student at the Pennsylvania university, and with the other Utah students doing good work.

From West Point and Annapolis, the Messer, Bension, who are cadets at the military and naval academies, were spectators of the great contest, and hunted up their western friends at the finish.

The New York papers have all included in lengthy notices of the death of Lydia Thompson, the leader of the once famous "British Blondes" troupe who invaded Broadway along in the 60's and 70's. Members of the Lydia Thompson Co. penetrated the wild west in the beginning of the 70's Salt Lake being among the favored cities visited. Lydia Thompson, Rose Massey, Ada Harland and Pauline Markham were the four bright peculiar stars of this English group of English beauties. Ada Harland, who became the wife of Brander Matthews, dramatic authority and critic and prof. of dramatic literature at Columbia college, died a few years ago, but enjoyed the fame of a beauty to the last.

There has always been a romance attached to Pauline Markham and her disappearance from the footlights, and not long ago one of the leading papers of the city printed a supposed interview with the old favorite. Her subsequent life is buried in oblivion.

MRS. McRANEY'S EXPERIENCE.
Mrs. M. McRaney, Prentiss, Miss. writes: "I was confined to my bed for three months with kidney and bladder trouble, and was treated by two physicians but failed to get relief. No human tongue can tell how I suffered, and I had given up hope of ever getting well until I began taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. After taking two bottles I felt like a new person, and feel it my duty to tell suffering women what Foley's Kidney Remedy did for me. J. Hill Drug Co., 'The Never Substitutors.'"

NOTHING IS RICHER THAN PLUMES.

Only the woman whose dress allowance is generous can afford the expensive luxury of willow plumes. These sumptuous plumes are made doubly long by applying the ends of one ostrich feather to another, each tiny, separate end being fastened on by hand. French willow feathers are often only pasted, and when the hats reach this country American fingers patiently knot each of the little feather tendrils—of necessity a most expensive operation. This gorgeous hat is of gray of tulle silk, the two huge willow plumes in shaded grays being held under a big dull silver buckle.
