

Mrs. M. A. O'Neil, Bishop George W. Larkin and wife, Bishop Levi J. Taylor and wife, Alfred Dixon and Christopher Burton.

An early morning wedding took place on Tuesday, Oct. 10, at 9:30 a. m., at the St. Joseph Catholic church, when Miss Christina Christensen and Mr. Frank Hirt were united in holy bonds of wedlock. Rev. Father R. N. Cushman officiating. The wedding was a quiet one. The bride wore an elegant gown of dark silk and carried a bouquet of white flowers. The groom wore a tuxedo. After the ceremony the bride and groom were driven to the home of the bride's parents, No. 24 Twenty-first street, where a very sumptuous wedding breakfast was served. There were present only the relatives of the contracting parties. At 7:30 a. m. the bridal pair departed for the Union Pacific east-bound train for Chicago and other eastern points on a wedding tour, to be absent about three weeks when they will return and take up their home in Ogden. The bride is a beautiful and accomplished young lady, and the groom is prominent in social circles in Ogden. He is also manager of the Utah Coal Springs which position he will resume upon his return.

A pretty home wedding took place on Wednesday evening, October 11th, when Miss Ella Cunningham and Mr. Henry P. Jones were united together in holy bonds of matrimony at the home of the bride's parents, No. 123 Barlow Lane, when Mr. John Rasmussen, grandfather of the bride, officiating. The bride wore a gown of cream silk and carried a bouquet of white roses, while the groom wore a tuxedo. There was an immense crowd of relatives and friends present, and the presents received were numerous and beautiful. The contracting parties are well and popularly known in Ogden. They will make their home in Ogden.

The beautiful home of Mr. Abe Kuhn corner of Madison Avenue and Twenty-fourth streets was the scene of a very enjoyable card party given in honor of Mrs. Houx, of San Francisco, who is visiting in Ogden. The game played was euchre, the ladies' head prize being won by Sarah Anderson and the gentlemen's head prize by Mr. H. H. Spencer. After cards an elaborate menu was served in the dining room. Those present were: Mrs. Houx of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Chevers, and Mrs. Ada Kuhn, Mrs. Sarah Anderson, Miss Roberts, of Idaho, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Kuhn, Misses Kuhn and Mr. Arthur Kuhn.

On Tuesday evening a farewell party was tendered Elmer Joseph Folkman at Plain City meeting house, previous to his departure on a mission to Germany. The hall was well filled with friends. Remarks were made by F. D. Richardson, C. A. Folkman, Bishop Bramwell and Bishop Andrew Anderson of Logan, and several musical numbers were furnished by the Y. L. and Y. M. I. A. members, and on Friday evening a hall was given in his honor at the hall.

Mrs. A. J. Warner gave a Kensington party last Saturday afternoon at her beautiful home, No. 123 Twenty-fifth street, to a few of her friends.

Wednesday evening Bernard Denkers gave a social party at his residence, No. 45 Twenty-eighth street, to a number of gentlemen and lady friends, and an evening of real merriment was enjoyed by all present. At the gathering a new organization was instituted for instruction of the Holland gentry in this city on various topics of interest. The organization will meet every Wednesday evening at the residence.

CLUB NOTES.

The program at the Ladies' Literary club yesterday consisted of a debate on Expansion vs Anti-Expansion. Mrs. Arthur Brown and Mrs. Ritchie were for the affirmative. Mrs. Brown making the opening and closing speeches. Mrs. Eugene Lewis and Mrs. Martha Jennings were on the negative. A discussion of the subject was held by the members after the arguments. The subject was very ably handled and the afternoon voted one for the affirmative.

The president's address was the main item on the opening program. Mrs. Linda Hall Larned, of Syracuse, N. Y., president, is a clever and forceful speaker. This is her first year of office and she created a splendid impression by her concise and thoughtful address. She reviewed the history of the woman's movement in this century. She stated that it was really out of the throes of the movement of the famous Women's Congress of the Chicago Exhibition in 1893 that the National Household Economic association was born. She said her association is to be a clearing-house for information upon all of these matters. In fact this organization endeavors to be a clearing-house for information upon all of these matters. In fact this organization endeavors to be a clearing-house for information upon all of these matters.

Lady Taylor, president of the National Council of Women, also made an address for women. She said her association stood for motherhood. Woman's sphere was the home. Lady Taylor lamented the fact that few young women know anything about cooking. Very few trained servants were to be had in this country. If a woman could not train her servants she would be a helpless, discontented woman.

Miss Schaller, of New York, introduced the servant girl question. Mrs. Hoodless stated the situation as follows:

Household conditions must be re-adjusted on a more uniform and business-like basis, thereby producing greater sympathy between mistress and maid. (4) There must be proper simplicity in living, stated pay for stated work, and the hours of a servant's work regulated.

Mrs. Helen Campbell said that in this progressive age the domestic was coming to her own.

Those engaged in this work were, she believed, soon to have their chance to rise to a higher plane of life, and if the mistresses were wise they would make it easier for the girls and for themselves. New Zealand had led the way in the solving of this problem by its labor bureau, its laws for graduated wages and for trained service, which as a result will shortly become a trade.

Mrs. Florence Kelly said that in her experience in Hull House she found that girls preferred office or shop work because it did not separate them from their own home life and the environment to which they returned when their work was done. To the statement that it was to a girl's advantage to be taught in a good home how work ought to be done, Mrs. Kelly said that it had been proved that when they had finished the girls did not perform their household work as they did when in service; their food and their homes being so entirely different. She thought that some household work would have to be done by women trained to a knowledge of the different departments and specially engaged for that purpose.

Mrs. Hoodless, of Huntington, gave a talk on Schools of Domestic Science. Mrs. Hoodless is a rapid and brilliant talker and her address was followed with close attention. The speaker urged that there should be the same grants for domestic science as for other sciences. Wherever co-education exists consider herself a committee of one to interest the representative citizens of her community in the work of the clubs and the coming convention. Let it be understood that the open sesame is extended to all regardless of club affiliation.

THE UTAH FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUB

The seventh annual convention of the Utah Federation of Women's clubs will be held at the Congregational church, Salt Lake City, on October 25th, 26th and 27th. There will be seven regular sessions supplemented by a reception for club women and their friends, at the Ladies' Literary club house, on Thursday from 3 to 5 o'clock p. m.

The local committees, the committee on program, and the executive board of the U. F. W. C. have been working hard to make this convention the best in the history of club endeavor. The transportation committee has secured a general rate of one and one-fifth fare on all railway lines within the State. Moreover, the hospital women of Salt Lake City are steadily working to perfect every detail that will add to the pleasure of the occasion. The program is running over with good things. The topics for discussion are: Educational, Industrial, Art, and Literary lines are of exceeding interest not only to club women, but to men and women generally. The musical program, in charge of Mrs. Kate Brimwell Anderson, is of par excellence and should of itself insure your presence. None can afford to miss the evening devoted to The Perfect House and Home nor that to be contributed by Miss Zona Gale, Wisconsin's brilliant young journalist. Clubs desiring membership and representation will forward constitution and application, together with annual dues of two dollars and a half, to the recording secretary, Mrs. Charles D. Moore, 253 Thirteenth East street, Salt Lake City, before October 25th. The courtesies of the floor will be extended to all visiting club members, and it is to be hoped that very many will be moved to speak.

Upon the personal effort of the women of Utah goes the success of the local club movement. Since fellowship, instruction and help are desired, depend so largely upon numbers and interest, we earnestly request the club presidents urge all club members to attend this convention. Let every club woman

There should be a domestic science department in the school. By united effort this could be secured. Mrs. Hoodless said that five or six years ago the Education department had discouraged the idea of domestic science departments. She said that the government was now coming round. She could scarcely understand why public school boards were so obtuse. A training school had now been established and everything looked bright. But what was needed was money. Special schools of domestic science were not required except for training teachers. The household science school would be the one generally adopted. In providing for these schools, she advocated the idea of co-education as it exists at present at the university. She did not intend that women should be educated along the same lines as men. We should have sewing teachers and domestic science teachers as well as teachers of drawing. Schools should be made as attractive socially as possible. Grammar, geography and history should not be taught by book until a child reached the age of 13 or 14 years. Children should be taught geography by showing them raw materials and products from different countries. Teach them domestic science in the same way. Let them learn arithmetic by counting up how long it takes to prepare for dinner. This would be eminently practical. Every part of domestic science could be made practical. Household science should be four years in length. If it took four years for a doctor to get his education, it should take a girl four years to learn how to prepare for dinner. Many other interesting addresses were made during the conference, the list embracing a wide range of subjects relating to Household Economics.
