Witness for Government Declares

The Deposit.

OFFICERS ARE STILL ACTIVE.

Federal Agents Looking for Evidence
Of Land Frauds for Special
Grand Jury.

That the Utah Fuel company knew there were coal beds underlying the lands which they, according to allegations, caused to be taken up as grazing lands by "dummy" was the testimony given yesterday before Master in Chancery S. H. Lewis in the United States court room by J. J. Kierker of Harmony, Utah, who is said to have been the original discoverer of the coal beds.

Mr. Kierker's testimony included the following points: He declared that he had traced the coal deposits from Colorado into Sumner, a distance of 60 miles, and that long before the government survey had been made, he made a survey in order that he might be the first to profit by his original discoveries. Mr. Kierker said that he had shown the land to Supt. Shaw of the Utah Fuel company and to the company's attorney, Maj. Bird. At that time, he said, he told them of the value he placed on the lands. It was soon after that time that the "dummies" were used by the company and their locations made.

GOVERNMENT IS ACTIVE.

It is declared that the United States officers in this city and the agents of the department of justice sent here to ferret out evidence of land fraud, are preparing to hold many more cases before the federal grand jury. Unless the present grand jury continues in session for some time, to come, which is regarded as improbable, the necessity may arise for the summoning of a special grand jury. It is said that many of the cases cannot be prolonged until the sessions of the April term, because of the fact that at that time the persons upon whom it is sought to fasten evidence of fraud would be protected by the statute of limitations.

Col. Wallace of the department of justice, who has attained to some measure of fame as a ferret in land cases, is in the city going over the records of the local land office. It is said that he is undoubtedly being before the attorneys who will place the evidence before the grand jury, much that may fasten crime upon many other persons who have escaped the net heretofore.

When the hearing was resumed this morning before the master in chancery, Mr. Kierker was recalled to the stand. His testimony given in answer to Mr. Kane was mostly technical, referring to geological formations he had found in Utah and other places where his investigations lay. Mr. Kierker was in the witness chair at the noon adjournment.

MAY APPEAL SMOKE CASE.

Atty. Waldemar Van Cott has gone to New York, called there, it is believed, by the officers of the Utah Consolidated Smelting company. It is believed here that the officers of the company are desirous of appealing to the United States supreme court in the matter of the decision of Judge Finer of the circuit court of appeals, sustaining the decision of Judge Marshall in ordering the smelters to smelt to ores containing in excess of 10 per cent sulphur or to emit fumes containing sulphur, arsenic or other poisonous gases.

SISAM CASE CONTINUES.

The case of Joseph Sisam against the United States Smelting company continued before Judge Marshall yesterday. The time of the court was occupied by the plaintiff in presenting valuations of property alleged to have been damaged by the smoke from the defendant's smelters.

JAPS ARE FINED.

Nakajima and Munoto, Japanese restaurant keepers, were arrested, tried and convicted of battery upon Patrick Bryceland with a potato masher, were fined $40 each by Judge Diehl in the criminal division of the city court. The Japs were convicted by a jury.

ORE SHIPPED IN TRUNKS.

The Florence Goldfield Mining company yesterday filed suit in the district court against the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railway company, and Richard Roe and John Doe, for $5,000. It is alleged in the complaint that ore of the value named was stolen from the mining company in June last, and shipped over the railway company's line to this city, the shipment being made in trunks. The names of the shippers are unknown to plaintiffs, but the railway is charged as being accountable.

WACH FAMILY PARTS.

Leila Wach was granted a divorce from Emil Wach by Judge Morse yesterday afternoon. The wife complained that her husband had treated her in a cruel and inhuman manner, had spent his earnings for liquor, failing to provide for her, until life became unbearable and she was forced to leave him, which she did in June, 1906. She was granted custody of the custody of a minor child, and two-thirds of the family property, valued at $1,500. The divorce was granted at Logan, June 29, 1906.

CHARGES SLANDER.

Sophia Hedin Says Mathilda Elders Induced Her Repudiation.

Alleging that she had been slandered, Sophia Hedin today filed in the district court, suit for damages in the sum of $2,000 from Mathilda Elders. The plaintiff charges that on or about the 24th of July, 1907, in the presence and hearing of a number of persons, the defendant uttered false and defamatory words to the effect: "She," referring to the plaintiff, broke into my house and broke open my trunk and stole money from me." For this injury to her reputation plaintiff asks for damages in the sum of $2,000.

The second cause of action is based upon Elders' alleged to have been made in defendant against plaintiff, in 1907, among the alleged false statements being that "she has been stealing money from me off and on for several years." In this instance, also, $2,000 damages are asked.

Judge C. B. Diehl of the criminal division of the city court, held a session at 10 o'clock this morning for the purpose of trying three Greeks accused of battery upon Frank Eagon, on West Second South street, a few days ago. Eagon is the man who was battered up by a gang of Greeks because he made the mistake of taking the wrong grip from the Rio Grande saloon.

The men tried this morning were Nick Kalapodis, Mike Arnone and Zenoth Riaz. Eagon failed to appear for the prosecution and the court took the case under advisement until Monday. The case against Bill Rhoads and Cleve Fossell was dismissed.

Colonel Clayton was away seven weeks.

POSTERS MEET DISFAVOR.

Warden Pratt Says Some Show Pictures Have Pernicious Effect.

The appearance of advertising posters on the billboards giving graphic pictures of convicts overpowering guards and effecting their escape—generally in the company of one or more beautiful, handsomely dressed women, is attracting not only the notice and admiration of susceptible local youth, but also the notice and condemnation of unsuspicious citizens. In New York the police are trying to have this sort of billboard work suppressed as it is found to have such a demoralizing effect on the rising generation that children are coming to regard escaping criminals as heroes and are copying after their crimes. A gang of young boys were recently rounded up by the New York police, who found their collar captives had been robbing flats and even holding up people at the point of the revolver. Considerable property, including jewelry, had been recovered. The organization of the gang was traced to the influence of the bill boards.

Warden Pratt of the Utah state prison, as well as eastern police authorities, favor the abolition, by ordinance if necessary, of this class of billboard advertising, as he also recognizes its pernicious effect on the minds of susceptible youth.

MYSTERY STILL DEEP.

ANOTHER BURGLARY.

Young Men Lose Jewelry and Money By Leaving Door Unlocked.

Another burglary occurred yesterday afternoon when a room occupied by W. J. Brown and A. J. Vandenberg, 561 South Main street was entered and smashed. A gold watch, a fish and lock of hair in a case and two stick pins were stolen.

Two men claiming to be looking for their room when they left yesterday afternoon, upon being shown the room, discovered the loss of their property. The matter was reported to the police and detectives are at work on the case.

HUSBAND MUST PAY HIS WIFE

Judge Morse Orders M. V. Clays
To Abide By Court's Order.

WOMAN DEEPLY AFFECTED.

When She Left Witness Chair She Was In a State of Collapse Produced by Ordeal.

An unusual proceeding at law is that of Delia Clays against M. V. Clays, an trial in the district court before Judge Morse today. Mrs. Clays was granted a decree for separate maintenance with $50 per month alimony on March 20 of this year. She is now in court to compel her husband to live up to the requirements of the orders then issued, something which she claims he has not done.

QUICKER PAPER INTRODUCED.

When certain papers were handed to her on cross-examination, with the question as to whether or not she had signed them, she declared that the document contained charges that were not true and that she attached her signature thereto. She positively swore that she did not sign them during the month set down, and not at all as the paper now appeared. The document, she declared, was drawn in the office of Hon. John Johnson, her attorney, by Mr. Johnson, and that she subsequently had cause to distrust her counsel and employed another attorney.

HIS COMPANY MANNERS.

The defendant sought to show that although he had not paid his wife an average of $50 per month, personally, he had expended since March, 1907, much more than that amount in her behalf for doctors' services and hospital bills. Part of these amounts were found to have been due and unpaid at the time Mrs. Clays obtained her decree for separate maintenance, and Judge Morse declared that in paying these Mrs. Clays was but meeting his own obligations. As to subsequent bills Mrs. Clays testified that her husband had urged her to go to the hospital, proffering to bear the expense himself. She said he always tried to be very nice when other people were around.

Had the figures in each case been compiled since the October bulletin the increase in stockholders would have been much greater.

OPERATIONS OF BRITISH MINT.

There are some significant observations in the annual report of the deputy master and controller of the mint for 1906, which throw an interesting light on the activity of trade during that period.

It is recorded that "the total coinage of the year, both as regards number and value, was above the average of the previous 10 years."

The year was characterized by exceptionally heavy demands for imperial coins in each of the principal mints. No less than 100,000,000 of such coins were struck, a figure which has only once before been exceeded. That was in 1904, when 107,500,000 were produced.

The increase in the imperial coinage was, however, accompanied by a great falling off in the production of the sovereign, brought about by the complete cessation of demands from Hongkong. Still the total of the year created a record.

The value of the gold coinage of 1906 was £1,131,541,966 as compared with £955,503 in 1905. The percentage of light sovereigns was more than in the previous year, and the percentage of heavy sovereigns was higher than in any year since 1894.

It was thought probable that the demand for silver coins for the United Kingdom would show some improvement in 1906, but the actual increase was much greater than was anticipated, notwithstanding the fact that the issue of new coins was made to Scotland and Ireland.

The total number of silver coins issued (excluding Maundy money) was 29,818,573, as against 25,216,240 in 1905. The amount taken by the Bank of England exceeded the total of the issues to the United Kingdom for the previous four years.

There was a profit on the purchases of silver bullion and worn silver coins together at the rate of 16.47 per cent. The profit on the sale of silver bullion purchased for coinage was 11.1-16.6 per cent. standard, or 1-16.6 more than that of the mint. The lowest quotation for silver in the London market for 1906 was 30.75d., or a rise of 1-16.6 per cent. since 1905. The lowest quotation for silver in the London market for 1905 was 29.75d., or a rise of 1-16.6 per cent. since 1904.

The issue of imperial bronze coin for 1906 exceeded that of any year since 1892. The issue in the last three months of the year was quite unprecedented. London was a large customer, absorbing three as much as was issued to the metropolitan district during the same period in 1905. A proportion of this demand was due to the activity of trade, which had penetrated even to the traveling and street hawker class. The new design of the coin, which was issued last year, had a stimulating effect on the demand for bronze coin, and another cause was the rapid development of the use of automatic machines.

The general account of expenses and receipts for 1906 showed a very favorable result. The profit amounted to £149,048, as against only £1,192 in the previous year, and a loss of £7,745 in 1904.

The number of persons proceeded against for counterfeit coin during the year was in excess of that of 1904 and nearly twice as many as in 1902.
