SUGAR INDUSTRIE'S BRIGHT OUTLOOK.

Seed Planting Delayed But Season is Propitious and a Large Acreage Promised.

To Carry Them Through Coming Year—Michigan Man Falls a Victim of Pneumonia—Wedding.

Ogden, April 7.—The planting of sugar beets has been greatly delayed this year because of the heavy storms which the state has experienced during the past few weeks. The ground is so wet that the planting of the beet seed is almost impossible in most localities.

The Amalgamated Sugar company last year began planting the beet seed by the middle of March, but this year was unable to begin until this last week. This delay of over two weeks will greatly delay the crop for harvesting, but the company believes that the beets will grow very rapidly as the soil is damp and in good condition for the planting of the seed. The prospects for this year's harvest is very encouraging. The shortage of water experienced last year which caused great loss to the beet growers, will not be felt this year as there is apparently plenty of snow in the mountains to furnish quantities of water this year for irrigation purposes.

The farmers have signed up contracts much better than was expected for the growing of the sugar beets, and already over 3,000 acres have been contracted for, and many more it is expected will sign before the time of planting is past, so that the prospects

CITY SCHOOLS NEED $118,200.

Board of Education Makes Estimates For Year 1906-7.

Ogden, April 7.—The Ogden City Board of Education at its meeting last evening agreed on the amount necessary for the maintenance of the Ogden city schools during the coming school year of 1906-7. The amount necessary will be $118,200, of this sum it expects to derive $44,000 from the apportionment of the state school tax, and the balance of $74,200 will have to be raised by local taxation. It is estimated that the total amount will cover all expenses for buildings and sites, salaries, text books, improvements, etc.

Bids were opened for the furnishing of school supplies for the coming year, but will not be acted upon until next week as the board desires time to consider the various bids.

The finance committee reported cash on hand at the present time $19,211.53. Bills to the amount of $1,833.55 were allowed, and adjournment taken for one week.

A MICHIGAN MAN DIES IN OGDEN.

George McNally died at 5:30 last evening at the Ogden general hospital from pneumonia, with which he had been afflicted only a few days. The deceased was brought to Ogden Thursday from Layton, Davis county, where he had been employed for a short time by Mrs. Harriet Ellison. When he was taken to Mrs. Ellison arranged for his care at the hospital, but the disease had developed so rapidly that it was impossible for Dr. E. C. Rich, who was attending him, to get it broken up. He was about 45 years of age. His body was removed to Larkin & Sons' undertaking parlors, where it now lays awaiting burial instructions from deceased's brother, J. M. McNally, who lives at Escanaba, Mich. He was apprised by telegraph last evening of the brother's death.

MURRAY DEPARTMENT

The "News" is delivered in Murray and vicinity from the branch office every night. L. E. Lauritzen, Branch Manager. Orders for Church Works and advertisements received. Office at D. B. Jones' Block.

The following business was transacted at the city council meeting Tuesday evening.

John P. Cahoon presented a communication asking the council to extend the time for laying the mains for the Murray water system to sixty days. He claimed that he has been unable to do anything on account of the bad weather, but as nearly all of the material is ready, the work will be pushed with dispatch. He was granted 30 days time.

David Frame presented a petition asking the council to raise his salary 25 per cent and reduce his bond from $2,000 to $1,500, which was granted.

Attorney Richards reported in answer to the council's inquiry concerning the liability of merchants on the west side of the city limits on orders solicited and received by telephone messages to pay the license tax imposed by the ordinance of Murray city on meat wagons. It was his opinion that they were carrying on business in the city limits for three reasons:

1. The said merchants are using the streets and highways of the city for the purpose of delivering their goods to the inhabitants thereof.

2. The buying and ordering of the goods in question is done at least in part by means of a system which is located within the limits and under the jurisdiction of the city.

3. The license imposed can be construed as a means of regulation of the said business for the purpose of protecting the inhabitants of the city from injury and unwelcome meat.

Attorney Richards also gave answer to the petition of Heusser Bros. and Andy Adamson, referred to him at a previous session, saying it is transferable, and by its terms it is a liquor license. He stated that the matter was wholly within the discretion of the council. The same was ordered filed.

INSTALLATION OF WATER SYSTEM.

It is now sure that Murray is to have a water system. All the material has arrived and the work will be accomplished by May 1, if no obstacles are to be encountered. With a good force, work on the trenches commenced Thursday morning, and it will be pushed vigorously to completion. The water mains will extend through the business and principal streets of the city and a perfect system installed.

LIVELY RUNAWAY.

A lively runaway occurred here Thursday evening about 7:30. James Atkinson, wife and baby of Brigham Junction were returning after making a call on E. T. Gibson, who lives on Sixteenth South, and upon approaching the business section the horse seemed rather shy of everything and received a lash from the driver. At this the horse floundered and broke the shaft, which gave him the start in the mad flight made down Main street. At the postoffice he turned toward the sidewalk, running into a pile of pipe unheeded for the water mains. Striking this, the buggy came to a sudden stop, throwing husband, wife and child from the rig, the two former receiving severe bruises, but not serious, while the babe escaped unhurt. The family was removed to the Lyon Drug store, where Dr. Olsen attended them. After having their wounds dressed and recovering from the shock, they returned to Mr. Gibson's, where they remained until morning.

SAD DEATH OF MRS. NOWLAN.

The sad death of Mrs. George P. Nowlan occurred this morning shortly after 2 o'clock. Tuesday, Mrs. Nowlan underwent an operation at the Murray hospital for appendicitis, and since then she has been lingering between life and death, until early this morning when her spirit took its flight. The remains are now at Banks' undertaking parlors preparatory for burial. The date Mrs. Nowlan is a resident of Union, and a much beloved citizen. As a girl she was honest and industrious, and as a wife she was kind and true, and as a mother she was a faithful Latter-day Saint. She had

SUGAR BEET GROWING

A Wide Extension of Production on Irrigated Lands is Predicted

The experience of the last 20 years has shown the probability of a very wide extension of the sugar beet industry on irrigated lands. The desirability of such an extension rests upon an economic basis. In the first place, the control by irrigation of the distribution of water renders the production of a crop practically sure. The other meteorological data are usually of such a constant nature as not to endanger the production of an average crop. The predominating factor, therefore, in so far as yield is concerned is the distribution of the crop. Thus it happens that the crop of beets that will be harvested in the arid regions may be confidently predicted within a few tons. Such a prediction renders all of the farm operations connected with the production of the crop more certain and more economical.

In the second place, it is highly important to secure for irrigated areas a crop which shall have a high money value per acre with a reasonable margin of profit. The cost of bringing lands under irrigation as a rule is considerably greater than that of preparing land in the non-irrigated region for cultivation. The actual cost, therefore, of the land, other things being equal, is greater in the irrigated than in the non-irrigated area. This higher cost fastens upon the farmer a fixed charge which must always be provided for in the crop before a margin of profit is possible. The ordinary average crops do not always present the most hopeful avenue of securing this increase of profit. For instance, the amount of Indian corn or other cereals or grass crops, with the possible exception of alfalfa, or other species of clover, does not afford the opportunity of certainly discharging the obligation accruing from the interest on the investment in land. The sugar beet, however, adds further inducements in this direction because of the possibility and the certain production of an average crop of not less than 15 tons per acre, having a money value delivered at the factory of from $60 to $75. These ideas are fully borne out by the data from the Utah and Colorado stations. The average yield at Logan is 18.5 tons per acre and at Fort Collins 20.4 tons. The average content of sugar in the beets is 16.5 per cent. The average sugar content of the beets is 16.5 per cent. The average sugar content of the beets is 16.5 per cent.

GETTING READY FOR BEETS.

Half the success with a beet crop comes from proper preparation of the soil before planting. Thorough fall plowing, harrowing, rolling pulverizing and firming of the soil, should result in a good stand early in the season, after which the care of the crop is comparatively simple. When alfalfa soil has been turned under, considerable work is required to get the roots out of the soil and the trash all cleaned off so as to enable the drills to do good work in planting the seed. With the best possible work in raking, harrowing and double plowing, enough of the old crowns are always left to furnish a fairly good stand of alfalfa, and this causes considerable difficulty in the work of cultivating, hoeing and thinning the beets.

The best crop year with sugar beets is the second year after turning under alfalfa soil, although clean culture the first year is essential to success either the first or second seasons. The best season for planting is before the 15th of April. The eight-inch row is now most popular, although some good growers prefer a 20-inch space. From six to eight inches apart in the row is the most economical distance for thinning. The closer distances require extra work in thinning and increase the number of beets that must be handled when it comes to pulling and topping the crop in the fall, while the size of beets is so reduced by the crowding that no larger tonnage is secured than when an average wide space is adopted.

Out here in Utah the beet growers are able to get their best plants up and thinned without irrigation, except to put the soil in good condition before planting. On the western slope of Colorado, in the mountain valleys with an altitude of 6,000 to 7,000 feet and further north in Wyoming and Montana, conditions may be so favorable to the retention of moisture that seeds may be planted in well prepared soil with the assurance that it will not be necessary to irrigate them up. On the plains where the wind has full sweep and where spring rains are not at all certain, it is always advisable to make furrows for irrigation at the same time that seed is being drilled. The furrows are made between every other row at the first and later in the season between all rows. Only as much moisture as is necessary to keep the plants growing should be applied at the first, the object being to encourage as much as possible a tendency for the roots to go down after moisture. Frequent light showers or quick irrigations have a bad effect by encouraging side roots and small feeders all along the beet from near the surface. A deep, straight tap root is the Quack Doctors Are Excluded. Illegals "Medical Officers" Cannot Use the Mails to Advertise Their Poisons.

Washington, March 25.—Orders have been issued by the postmaster general instructing the postmasters at New York and Brooklyn to refuse to admit to the mails the advertisements of "medical officers" located in those cities, and also to refuse to deliver mail matter received addressed to the "medical officers" of those cities, and to deliver such mail matter to the post office for destruction. The orders are issued in response to a request from the United States Department of Justice, which has been made in connection with the case of the "Medical Officers" of New York and Brooklyn, who have been found guilty of using the mails to advertise their poisons.

The action at New York and Brooklyn is in line with the efforts previously made by Postmaster General Cortelyou in Boston and Philadelphia to enforce the law against this class of criminal concern. A statement given out at the postoffice department today says:

"The condition of affairs which has developed under the department's investigation in all parts of these cities has been appalling. It was found that in a large number of instances those engaged in conducting these offices have criminal records, and are 'dope fiends.' In Boston one of the concerns excluded by the department was the 'Boston Medical Office,' which had been found guilty of using the mails to advertise their poisons.

"The volume of business done by these concerns was large. It was said that as high as twenty criminal operations a day were performed in some of these offices, and that the accounts sometimes ranged as high as $200 a week."
